Unveiling Set June 22

The final version of a plan to breathe life into downtown Arlington Heights will be presented to the village by the Tec-Search planning consultant firm at 8 p.m. on June 22.

The meeting is at the Municipal Building, and Trustee Jack Walsh, chairman of the downtown ACTION committee, has urged residents interested in downtown to attend the session.

Tec-Search will present a highly readable version of its recommendations at the June 22 meeting. A more heavily-documented version will be contained in a volume which Tec-Search will present to the village at a later date.

ALSO SCHEDULED for delivery June 22 is a large, three-dimensional scale model of the downtown as Tec-Search envisions it developing under the firm's plan.

In a preliminary plan presented by Tec-Search in April, stress was placed on a circular traffic pattern around the downtown core along Eastman, Vail, Sigwalt and Evergreen. Within that area, the core streets — Dunton and Campbell — would be reserved mainly for local downtown traffic — cars in search of a parking spot — and pedestrians.

That plan showed a broad mall-type walkway on the east side of Dunton Avenue.

ANOTHER MAJOR feature of that tentative plan was depression of the North Western Railway tracks and Northwest Highway with major north-south traffic carried on bridges, free of grade-level crossings. Tec-Search engineers stressed, however, their plan was not dependent on the depression, a major project.

Envisioned as the "hub" of downtown under the preliminary plan was a multi-story structure built over the tracks at the site of the present station. It would house rail and bus terminal facilities, parking, offices and restaurants.

Tec-Search's presentation originally was scheduled June 15 but according to Walsh was reslated to insure all components of the presentation would be ready.

IN A RELATED development, the Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Association this week "retired' a mural display depicting potential development of the downtown. The savings and loan unveiled its display on April 8 as a "teaser" to stimulate public thinking about downtown.

Since then, the display has been presented along with Tec-Search's preliminary plan to a variety of civic groups.

Viewers were invited to give their reactions, both to the plan and to current downtown problems.

According to Arlington Heights Federal, 31 persons gave written responses. Of them, 19 thought parking was a major problem, 21 felt meters to be "an aggrevation," 16 wanted to see a department store located in downtown.

TWENTY-FOUR felt there was a potential for downtown to develop further for retail shopping, 22 felt office buildings should be included in downtown planning, 19 looked for multi-story buildings, 12 felt redevelopment would be primarily through private capital, 13 wanted downtown development to proceed under direction of a proceed under direction of a professional manager while nine favored a committee of businessmen.

The item most nearly approaching unanimity was the proposal to depress the railway. Twenty-five favored it. One felt it was "bad" and five didn't care.

Burglary Wave Sweeps Block on Stratford Ave.

Arlington Heights' wave of home burglaries and attempted burglaries continued this week with six related incidents occurring early Tuesday in or near the 1000 block of N. Stratford Avenue.

Four of the seven burglaries reported two weeks ago apparently were accomplished by the same individual. In each case, homes were entered, or attempts were made, in early morning hours while residents slept.

A pipe wrench or similar tool was used to force door knobs, leaving scrape marks on the knobs.

POLICE OBSERVED the intruder was discouraged from entering homes in the area where both the outside door and screen door were locked, apparently by the additional risk of forcing both doors.

Entries and attempted entries were reported Tuesday by Muriel Currier, 1006 N. Stratford, Mrs. Alice M. Keeley, 1016 N. Stratford, Mrs. Helen Blum, 1026 N. Stratford, Melvin T. Roloff, 1036 N. Stratford, Mrs. Gerald B. Robinson, 820 N. Wilshire Ave., and David W. Morehan, 1615 E. Fredrick St.

A briefcase was taken from the Keeley home and discarded in the back yard; a purse was looted in the Robinson home, and $80 in currency was missing from the Blum home. Entry attempts were unsuccessful at the other three homes.

MRS. ROBINSON said she had been up around 3 a.m. and noticed someone at a neighbor's rear door. Thinking it was the neighbor, she did not report the incident immediately. She could describe him only as a "large man."

Homes entered in the same manner two weeks ago were grouped near the 200 and 300 blocks of E. Lynnwood Avenue.

Sidewalk Hearing Set for July 8

Gaps in the Arlington Heights sidewalk network will be considered at an informal public hearing at 8 p.m. July 8.

The hearing will be conducted by the board of local improvements, which supervises special assessment projects in the village.

At the same time, BOLI members have taken under advisement a list of roughly 150 properties where sidewalk installation is recommended by the village administration. The list was presented to BOLI by Kent Bristol, administrative assistant to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

BOLI members will review the list, possibly adding properties they feel should have sidewalks or deleting properties they feel do not need them at present. Property owners who appear on BOLI's final list will be notified by letter.

PURPOSE OF THE informal hearing is to weed out property owners who will not install sidewalks unless forced to by a special assessments program. BOLI encourages residents to have sidewalks put in by private contract because it is about 30 per cent cheaper.

BOLI hopes most of the affected property owners will have sidewalks installed when they learn the village is serious about it.

Bristol said letters were sent out to the property owners by the village manager last fall, asking whether they preferred private contract or special assessment. About half replied, and only about 10 per cent of them preferred special assessment.

"And a few actually went ahead and put them in."

Improvements Board Speeds Kaspar Paving

Repaving of Kaspar Avenue, from Northwest Highway to Oakton Street, will be expedited by the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements.

And two projects which have provoked considerable opposition will be "put on ice" a few months, until the plan commission reviews the village thoroughfare plan.

THE BOARD LAST Thursday picked Kaspar Avenue out of a controversial package project, deciding to go ahead with it separately. It approved a resolution which recommends that the village board put up 2½ per cent of the estimated cost of the project to cover engineering fees. Next step is to set a formal hearing on Kaspar.

BOLI members gave no formal indication of intent on the remainder of the package — which includes Kennicott, Salem and Fernandez Avenues — but it is expected to be placed "on ice" along with the Northwest Highlands project, which includes Walnut and Ridge Avenues.

At an informal public hearing early in May, residents of Kaspar Avenue, dubbing their street "tank trap lane," urged immediate action on a special assessment program. The remainder of the project which the village had asked BOLI to consider met strong opposition.

RESIDENTS OF Kennicott, Salem and Fernandez denied their streets needed immediate attention. And Village Engineer Norman Toberman agreed they were not top priority projects.

In addition, Kennicott residents opposed widening their street — which is designated a collector street in village plans — to 36 feet. Similar opposition has been voiced on the Walnut project, with residents suggesting Ridge as an alternate collector street.

The plan commission is to review a thoroughfare plan drafted by the Tec-Search municipal planning consultant firm, and the village board asked that body to give priority to determining the new plan's effect on the Kennicott and Walnut-Ridge designations.

Noting that special assessment projects launched by BOLI now cannot get under way until sometime in 1966, BOLI members agreed there would be no appreciable delay in the work if they postponed action until after the plan commission report.

$75,000 Project Approved

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements last Thursday approved a $75,000 special assessment project to install sewer and water in sections of Northwest Highlands currently without them.

Action on the far-broader Northwest highlands paving program was put off, probably several months, until a plan commission review of the village thoroughfare plan (see separate story).

In Thursday's action, BOLI approved an adhering resolution, which recommends the village board pass an enabling ordinance for the project. The ordinance will be filed in the Circuit Court, where hearings will be conducted and the project approved or disapproved.

Building Plans Get School Board's OK

Architectural plans for additions to four Arlington Heights elementary schools and for the construction of a new elementary school were approved by the District 25 school board last week.

Bids for the construction will be opened at 2 p.m. June 25.

The project, which includes additions at Thomas Junior High, Olive, Patton and Dunton and the new Ivy Hill School is the first phase of a $2½-million construction program which won voter approval through bond referendum last Febuary.

THE DETAILED plans were submitted for board approval by Don Murray, architect for the district's retained firm of Ganster and Hennighausen.

According to Murray, the final drawings represented little change from the preliminary floor plans viewed by the board last January.

"There were several changes made necessary by the new state safety code," Murray told the board. "For example at Thomas we had to increase the number of fire exits. However, most of the changes were mechanical in nature. The original designs have varied very little.

"As far as the budget, we should be actually better off," Murray stated. "We have tried to keep the costs down. For example instead of using a five-process glaze finish on the corridors, we went to light glaze paint which can be applied in two coats. Not only is this more durable, but it represents one-third of the cost of the other.

"There is nothing unusual about these additions," Murray continued. "And as for Ivy Hill —it is a typical school, but we feel we have improved on the typical design."

Originally a more modern design involving circular units with pie-shaped classrooms separated by movable partitions was submitted by the firm but rejected by the board.

THE BIGGEST of the five building projects will be at Thomas Junior High, according to the architectural plans. There additions will include classroom wings, individual instruction center, gymnasium, two art rooms, mechanical shops, added rooms for teachers and an audio-visual center that will house the district's second television studio.

"Upon completion, Thomas will be a finished junior high," Assistant Supt. Bob Campbell told the board. "We would also like to develop a nature center in the courtyard formed by the new classroom wings. This would be sort of a small forest preserve with foliage and plant life native to the state of Illinois."

Pres. Harold Sortor commended Campbell and Murray for their imagination in trying to dress up the court yard center. "I'm for this type of thing as long as it fits in the budget."

"At Thomas, we have set aside room for an individual test center, Campbell continued. "We are hoping to develop plans for using this area for individual learning problems with the exceptional child and the problem child."

MURRAY ALSO informed the board that a full time clerk, to keep tabs over the details of the building program, should be appointed as soon as ground is broken.

Ask Postponement Of Apartment Zone

Fred Hildebrandt last week asked the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals to postpone indefinitely his petition for apartment zoning for his Algonquin Road farm.

The secretary of the zoning board reported to attorneys for Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows that negotiations to annex the land to one town or the other will be renewed.

Developer John Bolger presented plans for apartments informally to Rolling Meadows officials nearly a year ago, but he was told at that time that discussions could not commence until he concluded a petition he had pending with Arlington Heights for the same project.

BOLGER'S name has not entered into the present petition for rezoning under county regulations.

Attorney Jack Siegel of Arlington Heights said Bolger's petition to the village is still pending, though inactive. It has never been formally rejected.

The area is included in the Arlington Heights master plan, shown as land suitable for annexation to the village in the M-1 light industrial classification.

Police Keep 'Heat' On Teenage Smokers

Arlington Heights police will continue their crackdown on underage smoking in public places, Police Chief L. W. Calderwood said this week.

Police began hauling offenders into the station last Tuesday and having their parents pick them up. Calderwood said parents on the whole "have been very cooperative" with police.

Since he ordered enforcement of the anti-smoking law, Calderwood said one major youth gathering place—the Cellar—has cooperated by banning all smoking on its premises.

IN ADDITION, the chief said he has asked the village administration to consider requiring a pushbutton device on cigarette vending machines in the village. The device would have to be activated by the proprietor before purchase of cigarettes could be completed.

By law, a person must be 18 to buy cigarettes, but "the machine can't ask your age—only the proprietor can," Calderwood commented.

The chief said an American Cancer Society film and talk would be presented as part of the Circuit Court proceedings for any youths arrested under the anti-smoking law.

The law banning public smoking by juveniles reads:

"EVERY PERSON under the age of 18 years, and over the age of seven years, who shall smoke or use cigarettes, on any public road, street, alley or park or other lands used for public purposes, or in any public place of business or amusement, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished for each offense by a fine of not more than $10."

Police have received "numerous" inquiries about the law's provisions since the crackdown began, according to Calderwood.

Financial Future

Experts to Examine School Study Plan

A program for studying the District 25 financial future will be submitted by an educational consulting group, Arlington Heights elementary school board was informed last week.

Supt. Ralph Clabaugh told board members that he had been in contact with a group from the University of Chicago and that they had prepared a program to submit for board review and approval July 12.

"The program as they detailed it to me," Clabaugh stated, "would include both the scope and the cost of the survey plus an outlined program plan."

CLABAUGH said the group will work out the tentative outline with Assistant Supt. Robert Campbell, and it will be reviewed by the administration prior to the July 12 meeting.

It is hoped that a financial survey might help solve what Clabaugh describes as "the problem of a fairly affluent district with a declining ability to support the schools in the style to which its citizens have become accustomed."

With board approval, the group would probably start its survey late next fall, according to Clabaugh. "However most of their work will be done between January and March of 1966."

Tentatively, the study would consider the district's past use of its money, present financial status and the future outlook.

Plan Economic Survey As Lure for Industry

Arlington Heights Progress Inc. has named Guy M. Anderson to direct an economic survey of the village.

The survey will be a major selling tool in attempts to convince industries of the desirability of Arlington as a location for light industrial, research and office facilities. It was the basic recommendation in a five-point program outlined by a special committee appointed in April.

ANDERSON IS vice president in charge of business development for the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association. The association has made his time available to Arlington Heights Progress to direct the survey.

It is expected to result in a volume detailing information on present industries of the village, transportation, labor force, utilities, village administration, education, recreation and civic facts, housing, financial institutions, planning, zoning, taxes and population.

Arlington Heights Progress is seeking a specialist to help develop parts of the survey. Village staff will be made available to Anderson, according to Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson.

OTHER recommendations of the special committee:

GUY ANDERSON

1) Maintain an orderly program of contact with industrial real estate developers and industry,

2) Develop a sales program designed to attract headquarter offices, research facilities and other industry to Arlington Heights,

3) Develop a positive community attitude toward industrial development, and

4) Establish and maintain relationships with various state organizations.

Arlington Heights Progress tentatively plans to distribute copies of the survey to industries which have indicated an interest in the village, to promotional departments of utility companies, to state agencies and others.

The committee, appointed by Progress Pres. E. F. Neas, consisted of Neas, Mel Kurtz, George (Bus) Beacham, L. A. Hanson and Clarence Hendrickson.

Texas Choir Will Sing

The touring Westminster Youth Choir of the Oak Cliff Presbyterian Church of Dallas, Tex., will present a service of sacred music next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights. The eighth annual tour of this high school age group is taking them into 13 states and Canada.

The choir has an enrollment of over 100 and approximately 75 teenagers are making the 14-day tour.

The service Tuesday will be from classical to modern in scope, including such numbers as "Gloria In Excelsis" from Mozart's Twelfth Mass, "Grant Unto Me The Joy Of Thy Salvation" by Brahms, Gretchaninoff's "Holy Radiant Light," "He Comes To Us," with text by Schweitzer and music by Jane Marshall and the spirituals, "No Hiding Place" and "Soon Ah Will Be Done." Elks Head Appeals for Flag Display

William Wuestenfield, exalted ruler of Arlington Heights Elks Lodge, has appealed for display of the Stars and Stripes throughout the village on Flag Day, June 14.

The Elks' leader announced that the Flag Day program will be climaxed by a public observance tentatively scheduled for June 13, at the Elks Lodge. Arrangements for this program and for community cooperation in the display of the flag are being drawn up by the lodge's Americanism Committee, headed by John Slezak.

Wuestenfeld said that the Elks will cooperate in a nation-wide celebration of the Fourth of July with the simultaneous ringing of bells in communities from Maine to Alaska in observance of the signing of the Declaration of Independence 187 years ago. The suggestion for a "Let Freedon Ring" observance of Independence Day was made by two Connecticut men and promptly endorsed by the Grand Lodge of Elks Americanism Committee.

"We hope that all patriotic citizens will join in celebrating Flag Day and Independence Day in a spirit of reverent dedication to our nation's truly glorious principles," Wuestenfeld said. "From the flags and the bells — the sights and the sounds of freedom — we can draw faith and strength to defend those principles." (A

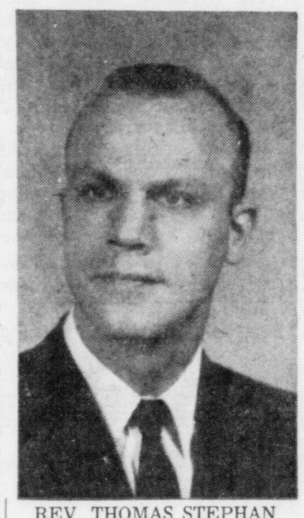
Thomas Stephan Ordained in Beloit



REV. THOMAS STEPHAN

Thomas T. Stephan was ordained a Lutheran pastor Sunday at Beloit, Wis., in services presided over by his father, the former pastor of St. Peter's Church in Arlington Heights.

The father, the Rev. Luther V. Stephan, served the Arlington Heights church from 1942 to 1958. He currently is pastor of St. John's Church at Beloit.

THOMAS GRADUATED from Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, last Friday, completing 20 years of continuous Lutheran schooling. He attended St. Peter Lutheran School for eight years, Concordia College, Milwaukee, for six years, Concordia Senior College, Ft. Wayne, Ind., two years and the seminary for three years. He served for one year as vicar at Mt. Olive Church, Minneapolis.

Friends from Arlington Heights were invited to the services, and the Carl Klehm nurseries sent peonies to decorate the altar.

Addressing his sermon to his son, the Rev. Mr. Stephan used the theme, "Your Ministry for Christ." He also read the ordination vows to his son, and visiting clergy joined in the laying on of hands.

THE NEW MINISTER has accepted a call as assistant pastor of Christ Lutheran Church, Norfolk, Neb. Together with two cousins, he represents the fifth generation of Lutheran pastors in the Stephan family.

His father, two uncles, grandfather, and great grandfather all are graduates of the St. Louis seminary, and his great-great grandfather graduated from a Leipzig, Germany, seminary before emigrating to America. (A

Borgan Receives Top Teen Award

Arlington Heights Rotarians this week formally presented Mack Borgan with his award as 1965 Tip Top Teen.

Borgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Winston Borgan of 538 S. Pine Ave., was selected for the award two weeks ago; yesterday's Rotary luncheon program was reserved for presentation of a plaque and $50 savings bond.

Active in student government and scouting, Borgan hopes to attend West Point. He is a qualified alternate nominated for the service academy by U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld. His alternate plans call for a course in pre-law at the University of California at Berkeley. (A

Elected to serve with Lafferty were Ed Gorvett, internal vice president; Neil D'Argo, external vice president; Roger Wahlin, secretary; Ron Larson, treasurer; Skip Muller, state director, and George Oliver, Wes Nichols. Dick Ohl and Ed Huff, directors.

THE NEW JAYCEE officers will take office at an annual installation banquet June 19, at the Waterfall Restaurant in Rolling Meadows.

The new officers were slated for election by a nominating committee several weeks ago.

Olive St. Hearing Postponed

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements last Thursday continued to June 12 a hearing on underground improvements in Olive Street, between Dunton and State.

The project, estimated to cost $16,000, involves installation of sewer and water mains. BOLI also has under consideration a related paving project for Olive Street, estimated at nearly $17,000.

Postponement was made to determine whether two remaining property owners will agree to doing the underground work by private contract. All but two favor private contract over a special assessment. (A

Trip Tips

Here's a story about a most unusual camping trip. It's an overnight on the desert in the shadow of the eighth wonder of the world—the famous pyramids of Giza.

Wayne Griffin

From your hotel in Cairo, Egypt, you leave for a 15 mile trip to the staging area. Then you mount a camel and take your place in a caravan heading across the Sahara to a tent city. Meals are prepared outside the area and served to all guests as in the days of Lawrence of Arabia.

And here's the clincher! After dinner there is camel racing and horseback riding followed by entertainment in the form of a whining Arab orchestra and a real "belly dancer".

You sleep in tents and the beds have springs. In the morning it's back to reality and Cairo via motorcoach.

Interested? Call Wayne Griffin Travel, CL 5-7010, or stop in at 104 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

The girls in our office positively refuse to give demonstrations of the above mentioned entertainment.

Downtown Plans Heard by Council

A personalized presentation of ACTION plans for downtown renovation was given to presidents attending Arlington Heights Community Council meeting Tuesday, May 25.

The presidents, there for a Community Council Recognition Night honoring them, heard talks by the ACTION chairman, Trustee Jack Walsh, Village pres. John G. Wood, and a representative of the Tec-Search planning firm.

Woods praised Community Council for its aid in the area of human relations during his talk, in which he outlined 20 goals which he said the village should emphasize during the coming year.

Among the goals, he said, should be "re-evaluation of efforts in the field of human relations."

L. Q. Yowell, 441 S. Forrest, was elected to a one-year term as president of Community Council. A representative of Arlington Acres Civic Association, he has been artive in Commco affairs for several years, serving last year as vice president.

OTHER NEWLY - ELECTED Commco officers, who will also serve one year terms, are vice president Roger Burke, 438 S. Vail, representing the Arlington Heights Baseball, Inc.; recording secretary Mrs. Charles Toot, 901 N. Princeton, representative of the American Association of University Women's Arlington Heights branch; corresponding secretary Mrs. Everett Huff, 1515 N. Walnut, delegate from the Congregational United Church of Christ, and Mrs. W. T. Wright, 1806 N. Ridge, representative from Arlington Heights Newcomers Club.

The former Commco president, 1821 N. Patton, was elected to the council board of directors. Gorman, who has had a leave of absence from his Commco duties for the past couple months because he has been in Springfield serving as a General Assembly legislative aid, is delegate from Hasbrook Civic Association.

Other newly-elected Commco directors and the organizations they represent are Mrs. Anthony Tomasco of 635 E. Clarendon, for the Ladies Auxiliary to the Arlington Heights Elks; Mrs. John E. Gross of 121 S. Kennicott, for PTA Council; Richard Cowen of 124 N. Gibbons, for Wheeling Township Regular Republican organization, and Don Sweeney, 603 E. Euclid, Jaycees.

Remaining as Commco directors are Melvin Born of 1007 E. Olive, First Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. John Shubeck of 626 N. Douglas, for the League of Women Voters.

ACTION CHAIRMAN Walsh and the Tec Search representative, Don Peto, used sketches done by the planning consultant firm to show proposed plans for downtown redevelopment.

Walsh said village trustees were particularly interested in downtown redevelopment because it will provide a way to raise tax revenue without raising the tax rate.

Sketches brought by the Tec Search representative were done, he said, with two goals in mind — to unify the north and south business district by depressing both the railroad and Northwest Highway and to improve circulation within the central business district bounded by Eastman, State, Sigwalt and Vail. Smaller Firm Gets School Oil Contract

District 25's school board struck a blow for the little man and free enterprise last week.

The board overruled an administration recommendation that Humble Oil & Refining Co. be allowed to supply the district's major fuel oil needs. Instead, behind a motion made by board member Ted Seiler, the board decided to allow Troch Bros. Fuel Oil, a much smaller company but the lowest of 12 bidders, a "chance to show what they can do."

IN RECOMMENDING Humble Oil as the vendor, Peter Bakas, district business manager argued that "Humble is a major dealer and will be able to give us the service we need. Their bid ($16,800) was merely $520 above the lowest. We feel that if we have to deal with a smaller concern that does not have the storage capacity of a company like Humble, then we may experience some difficulty with deliveries."

The bids cover fuel for those schools using oil heat, except Wilson School where a different grade oil is used.

Seiler questioned the administration's recommendation that ruled out Troch Bros. low bid ($16,280) in favor of the larger Humble offer. "I'm for giving the small fellow a chance," Seiler added.

The board agreed to offer Troch Bros. the contract but with the stipulation the district could cancel if the service was poor.

THE BOARD accepted the administration's recommendation in approving the low bid of $5,000 from the Marland Oil Co. for Wilson School.

In other action, the board approved the expenditure of $3,000 for membership fee in Chicago Area School Television Inc. for 1965-66 and approved Beatrice Foods Co. as the milk vendor at .0625 cents per one-third quart. (A

Final Vote Delayed on Patton-Wilson Boundary

Finalization of the attendance boundary between the Patton and Wilson schools was postponed by the Arlington Heights School Board last week pending a report on the duration of construction along the north end of Kaspar Avenue at Palatine Road.

On May 10, District 25 board members voted to keep next year's attendance areas the same as they are now — with the possible exception of Patton. The board had taken under advisement a plea that the Patton boundary along Kaspar be moved east to allow nine children presently attending Wilson school to fall into the Patton area.

IN A REPORT to the board, Supt. Ralph Clabaugh recommended that the Kaspar Ave. boundary remain as it was last year.

"While we could presumably handle the nine additional children at Patton, I feel that I cannot recommend the change," Clabaugh told the board. "First, Patton kindergartens will already be larger than Wilson kindergartens next year. Second, it does not look as if Wilson School will need relief in the future, after Patton takes its own third, fourth and fifth grades."

Clabaugh pointed out that in general boundary lines are more easily defined if they are down the center of a street rather than between streets. "If the boundary lines were to be moved," he added, "the logical move would be to the center of Ridge Ave., which would include 38 more children. These we could not possibly accommodate at Patton.

"Since we cannot move classrooms from Wilson to Patton, we must use the classrooms we have, even at the expense sometimes of not having the dividing line equidistant from two schools. We did not establish the location or number of classrooms in the Wilson School, the location of the Patton site, or Palatine Road as a traffic barrier."

FREMONT NESTER, 1603 N. Kaspar Ave., told the board that the safety of the children must be the prime consideration. He asked that families in a two-block stretch on the east side of Kaspar Avenue be allowed to send their children to Patton where children on the west side of Kaspar now go.

The board also was informed that because of construction at the Palatine Road cloverleaf there would be no sidewalks along Palatine at Fernandez, Kaspar and Ridge Avenues until after school starts next fall.

District 25 board members then approved a motion of board member Joseph Faner postponing action on the question until a definite report concerning the construction along Palatine could be made available to the board. (A

If your radios or television sets don't seem to respond as they should, phone CLearbrook 5-0700 and let LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights put them on the road to good operation again. We'll assure you of this.

One in a series to help you enjoy better telephone service

Who to call about what at the telephone company

It would be nice if we could give you the number of just one person to call about anything having to do with your telephone. But to do the best job of handling the many different questions and requests that come up, we put several different people at your service.

There is, however, one person who can care for most of your telephone needs. She is:

Your Service Representative
She's the one to call for new telephone service; changes in your service; information about telephone equipment and prices; changes or additions to your directory listing; copies of extra directories; questions about your telephone bill. Call your Service Representative, too, with any general questions about your telephone service.

If your case requires something out of the ordinary, the Service Representative can usually handle it. If necessary she can turn to her Supervisor. And, should you feel a need to talk to someone "higher up," the Supervisor or the Manager, who's boss of the office where your account is handled, are ready to help you. To talk to your Service Representative, call your telephone business office. The number is in the front of your directory.

Here are a few other key people to call for special service needs:

Repair Service
If your telephone isn't working right, call Repair Service. You will find the number in the front pages of your local telephone directory—or ask your Operator (dial zero). With our new regional service centers we're equipped to serve you any time, day or night. And there's no extra charge to you.

Information Service
If you can't find a number in your directory, the Information Operator will be glad to help you. See the front pages of your directory for her number. For a number in most distant locations (if you have Direct Distance Dialing service), dial the distant Area Code plus 555-1212—no charge for this call. Otherwise, ask your Long Distance Operator.

The Operator
If your need is other than business with the phone company—remember the Operator is always behind your dial. Dial "zero" for assistance with any call.

Arlington Greens

Keith Funk of North Beverly Lane hosted a farewell party for Jack Mundell Friday evening. The surprised guest of honor was joined by George, Robert and Kevin Roby, Robby Baer and Mark Weeg for movies, cake and ice cream and an overnight stay in the Funk home.

Newcomers to the Greens are Walter and Judy Zare, who moved to 1125 N. Beverly Lane in mid-April from North Illinois Street in the village. The family includes Debbie, David, Kathy, John and Amy. Mr. Zare is assistant market manager with Jewel Foods in Randhurst.

Erika Anne, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhard Follman of East Oakton, was christened at St. James Catholic Church May 23 by her uncle, Rev. Roland Follman of Chicago. Godparents were an aunt and uncle, Miss Carolyn Vollmer of Kewaskum, Wis. and Rudy Follman of Morton Grove. A dinner party later in the day marked the occasion and was also attended by grandparents, the Math Follmans of Morton Grove and the Herman Vollmers of Kewaskum.

A MOTOR TRIP home on Monday ended a 10-day vacation for Mrs. Ron Lundell and son, Eric, of North Hickory. Their sunning, fishing and relaxing was done in Lake of the Ozarks area at Osage Beach. They were guests of grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Guill of Chicago, with the men travelling to the Missouri resort area for weekends at the beginning and ending of the holiday.

Taking advantage of the Memorial Day weekend, Les Shannon and Erwin Dettloff of North Hickory motored to northern Wisconsin, in the Springstead area, for some fishing and relaxing.

HICKORY MEADOWS

A board meeting of the Hickory Meadows Civic Assn. was held in the home of President John Baldwin Tuesday evening of last week. Among the social plans discussed was a get-acquainted block party.

A "come see our patio" party was hosted by the Baldwins in their East Marion home recently, with a number of their neighbors attending.

New residents are Daniel and Jean Stewart at 807 E. Marion. They and their children, Margie, 15, Julie, 13, Pat, 8, and Daniel, 3, moved in late April from Chicago's northwest side. Mr. Stewart is standards engineer with International Harvester in Melrose Park.

MORE NEWCOMERS are Don and Bonny Labno at 1444 N. Hickory. Also previous residents of Chicago's northwest side, they and their son, Donald, 6, moved to the village early in May. Mr. Labno is a baker with Purwins Cake Box in Evanston.

The Ed Kreusch family of East Jules had three birthdays to celebrate last week. On May 24, Susie celebrated her 18th with a Sunday dinner party. Joining them for the occasion was the Elmer Franklin family of Chicago.

On Friday, Kerry celebrated her 16th with a family dinner party. Several days before a surprise slumber party was given for her in the Gleason home on East Marion. Hostess Chris kept the secret as did the 10 school chums from Sacred Heart High who helped celebrate.

A family dinner party on Sunday celebrated the occasion for Mrs. Kreusch, plus an unexpected visit from her parents, the N. G. DeMarcos. The couple stopped for a weekend visit en route to their Mayfield, Ky. home from Baltimore, where they attended a convention.

THREE OF THE five winners of Camp Fire Girl Campership awards given at the Grand Council Fire of the Northwest District Sunday, May 23, were Danielle Straub, Regina Main and Nathalie Straub. (A

Dist. 214 Names Gilbert To Succeed Slichenmeyer

Dr. Edward H. Gilbert, 44, was appointed superintendent of High School District 214 Monday night.

Dr. Gilbert will begin his duties next year when Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer retires on June 30, 1966.

The appointment came Monday night at the regular meeting of the school board.

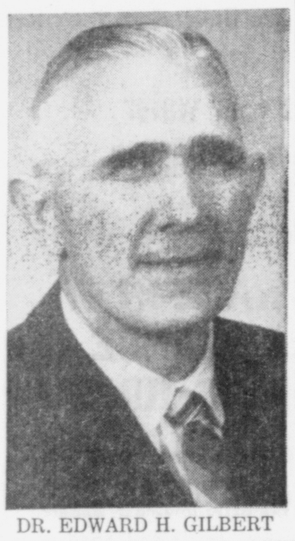
Dr. Gilbert has served as assistant superintendent since July, 1963. He joined the administrative staff of District 214 in October, 1961, as administrative assistant to the superintendent.

Slichenmyer, who has been superintendent for 11 years, had told the school board of his intended retirement last year. The early announcement of his successor will allow Dr. Gilbert to familiarize himself completely with the job he is to assume.

DR. GILBERT'S selection was recommended by a specal committee named by the school board. The committee, composed of educational consultants, included Dr. Roald Campbell, head of the department of education, University of Chicago; Dr. Frank Endicott, director of placement and professor of education, Northwestern University; and Dr. Marlow Slater, director of placement and professor of education at University of Illinois.

Dr. Gilbert holds a Ph.D from the University of Chicago. He earned a bachelor's degree at Central State College, Oklahoma, and a master's degree at Oklahoma State University. He is married and has a daughter, Sheree, 9.

During the period Dr. Gilbert has been with District 214 he has been offered positions at the University of Alabama, the University of Oklahoma and as Minnesota State Commissioner of Education. Supt. Slichenmyer asserted that Dr. Gilbert's capabilities have made him an attractive candidate for these and other educational positions.



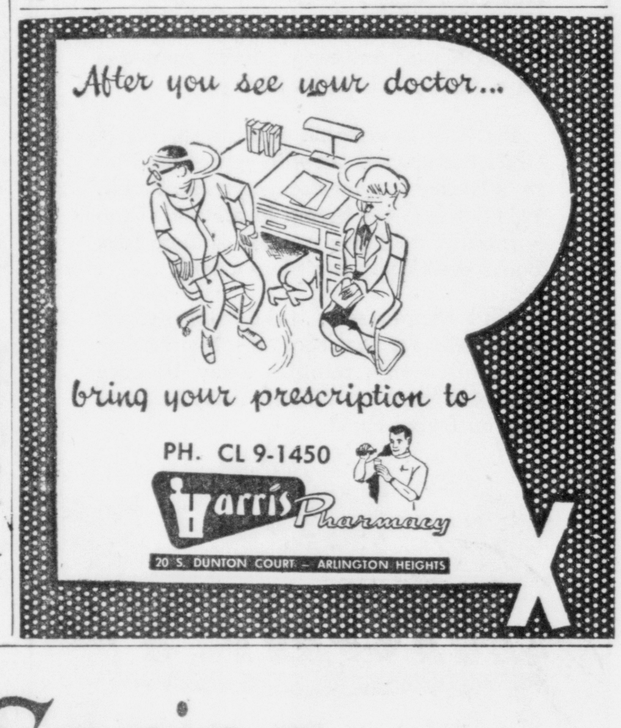
DR. EDWARD H. GILBERT

SLICHENMYER, 59, will be leaving District 214 after 21½ years. He first came to Arlington High School as a science teacher in January, 1945. He served as counselor, dean, director of guidance and administrative assistant to the superintendent before assuming his present top job in District 214. He has long stated that he would retire from the superintendency when he was 60 years old, stressing that the position of superintendent should be held by a younger man.

His present plans call for one year of travel followed by some form of work in education less demanding than the superintendency. He states this will enable him to spend more time with Mrs. Slichenmyer and afford greater opportunity to visit with his grandchildren.

DURING HIS YEARS as superintendent Slichenmyer has seen the district grow from one school (actually a little more than half the size of the present Arlington High School building) to four 2,500 student buildings with a fifth school under construction and a sixth school now being planned.

Salary for the new superintendent will be determined next year when the regular administrative and teacher salaries are established by the school board. Dr. Gilbert's present salary as assistant superintendent is $18,958.



Mrs. Cole Attends Church Meet

Mrs. Ivan O. Cole, 221 S. Stratford Road, Arlington Heights, is attending a two-day meeting of women leaders of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) in the United States and Canada, being held at Purdue University.

Mrs. Cole, a member of the Arlington Heights Christian Church, has charge of the total program for the 1966 quadrennial assembly of the International Christian Women's Fellowship. The current meeting at Purdue is a planning session for this assembly.

SHE IS ALSO on the Commission on Brotherhood Restructure of the international convention of the Christian Churches and the board of directors of unified promotion, the Disciples' family budget for outreach causes.

Mrs. Cole also is on the board of managers and the executive committee of United Church Women and the general board of the National Council of Churches. (A

BE GOOD TO YOUR DOG THIS SUMMER
Hot, sultry, Summer "Dog Days" are as tough on dogs as people. Especially if your dog is getting old. During a heat wave, don't take your dog on the street except early in the morning or late at night. The hot pavement may burn his paws.

KEEP COOLED DRINKING WATER SHADED
Spray his kennel's roof with water several times during a hot sunny day. The evaporation reduces the inside heat. Better have his hair clipped by a professional. Too short hair can cause a painful blistered sunburn.

TEACH CHILDREN NOT TO TEASE DOGS
Most child dog bites are not the dog's fault. As a rule, children under six consider a dog to be a toy rather than an animal which will bite if annoyed too much. Few that age should have a dog. A playful puppy has a tendency to nip or bite more. Usually middle aged dogs are safer pets. Aging dogs (more than ten years old) may become short tempered and bite if irritated.

BATHE YOUR DOG REGULARLY
Especially after a swim in salt water be careful to clean your dog's face around the eyes of matter which can injure them. We can help you select, from our complete stock of dog remedies, a special soap which will help relieve skin irritations and chase away fleas.

A DOG IS AN UNSELFISH FRIEND
He so gratefully appreciates the least attention and will always forgive a thoughtless harmful act. Be especially kind to your dog, or any dog, during the coming hot days. His wagging tail and the love you see in his eyes will be ample reward.

Monday's Job, School, Shortens Holiday for Peons

Memorial Day celebrations were either non-stop or non-existent, somewhat depending upon Monday's job and school demands. A few students studied (although most local scholars went to school only because they had to) and some workers worked, and for these the holiday was short. Other families enjoyed weekend trips or at-home celebrations of birthdays and wedding anniversaries that compounded the holiday festivity. Traditional family reunions and impromptu neighborhood get-togethers also dotted the local scene throughout the long weekend. It's too bad that early deadlines didn't allow time to cover all the gaiety!

Among the many weekend travelers were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schmidt and Luann, 724 S. Chestnut, who celebrated the holiday and a pair of wedding anniversaries in Springfield. They were guests of the Robert Sweets, former S. Chestnut neighbors, whose May 30 wedding date was always toasted by the Schmidts and who returned the congratulations on Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt's June 1 anniversary.

They celebrated together again this year and were joined by other former Arlington Heighters now of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Chapin. A dinner-out date in St. Louis Saturday night was the "official" observation of the double-happy occasion, and the whole weekend was full of the fun that comes when old friends get together. The Schmidts marked their silver anniversary and the Sweets their 24th.

ANOTHER PAIR of local Schmidts also chose June 1 as a wedding date 25 years ago, and they, too, celebrated during the holiday weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schmidt, 1209 N. Dunton, who are not related nor even aquainted with their mutual celebrants on the south side of town, received family congratulations Sunday, were toasted by neighbors Monday, and marked the exact day with a dinner-out date.

The Schmidts' nearly nonstop celebrating somewhat made up for three years ago when their wedding anniversary went by unnoticed. Their son, Wayne, was married next day. He and his wife were among the more than 20 family members who were guests Sunday at 1209 N. Dunton, and they of course shared in the congratulations that ricocheted about the premises.

Neighbors presented the senior Schmidts with a gift Monday and stayed long enough to help them celebrate some more. Tuesday's dinner date included Wayne, his wife and baby, the senior Schmidts' other two children, Glen and Donna, and the senior Mrs. Schmidt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Havlik of Mount Prospect.

Confirming the Schmidt-and-Schmidt opinions that June 1, 1940 was a fine day for a wedding, are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hirons, 1020 N. Chestnut, whose silver anniversary was marked at their open house Saturday. June 1 is also their son, Mike's, birthday which this year doubles as his graduation day, and Saturday's party brought a notable variety of congratulations. Mike is 18 and St. Viator's High School is his alma mater.

THERE WERE echoes of wedding bells at 421 N. Wilshire too, where Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Huntley celebrated their 26th anniversary at a family party Friday evening. the previous weekend they enjoyed a stay at the Wagon Wheel Lodge in Rockton. Last Tuesday they were part of the birthday celebration of their son-in-law, Lee Magnuson; then there was their wedding anniversary followed by the holiday. It's quite dull at 421 N. Wilshire this week.

The Charles Wrobels, 616 W. George, returned early last week from a 3-week tour of Europe that was their early silver wedding anniversary gift to each other. They came home last Tuesday, after 13 flights from as many airports in almost as many countries.

Combining some business with lots of sightseeing the Wrobels were in London, Zurich, Geneva, Prague, Athens and Lisbon, and tallied up experiences that were funny, impressive and reverent. They're still chuckling about their illegal entry into France during an around-the-lake motor tour that began in Geneva. They weren't aware they'd crossed the Swiss border until they were stopped and questioned by a pair of eloquent Frenchmen of the border patrol.

Impressive was their trolley car ride to an Alpine peak and the subsequent rumble of thunder on the cloudless, brilliant day. It turned out not to be a freakish climate condition; the "thunder" was the sound of an avalanche on a nearby mountainside. This, however, was a minor slide and not the recent avalanche that took several lives and made international news.

THERE IS no word but "spiritual" to describe the Wrobels' impressions of a tour through Fatima, the little town in Portugal where in 1917 three shepherd children reported that they had seen a vision of the Virgin Mary.

Another of the many high points of their tours, was the Wrobels' meeting in Athens with Northbrook friends who have relatives in that city. They enjoyed several off-the-beaten-track sightseeing trips and the warm hospitality of their friends' family during a 6-day stay there. When the wedding anniversary date turns up in July, the Wrobels will still be happily recalling their first trip abroad.

Birthday parties added a gay complication to holiday weekend celebrating, with kids of all ages enjoying doubly festive occasions. At a Sunday dinner party with 17 relatives and friends, the junior Henry Wessel at 302 N. Harvard celebrated his "today I am a man" birthday one day early.

Henry is in his third year in Northwestern University's business.

Mary Bublitz was 8 years old last Wednesday and celebrated with a family party that evening, reserving Saturday afternoon for a "just us girls" session. Among guests Wednesday evening were Mary's grandparents, Mrs. Minna Bublitz of Arlington Heights and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pape of Palatine. Saturday's charming little gigglers were the 17 girls in Mary's class at St. Peter Lutheran School and three neighborhood friends. The birthday girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bublitz, 108 S. Evergreen.

A family party Friday evening marked the 24th birthday of the junior Albert Goeppinger at 416 S. Dale. Last year's observation was army style and although Friday night's celebration was small it was extra-special because it was at home sweet home.

MARY LEE Jack turned into a teen a week ago Tuesday, but waited until Friday night to celebrate so that her college sister, Eileen, could join the family party. Eileen attends Mundelein College in Chicago and weekends at home, 642 S. Evergreen.

The Henry Wists, 837 S. Vail, spent the pre-holiday weekend in Irons, Mich. where they fished, wished it was just a little warmer and helped Wist's mother re-settle in her home. She winters in Villa Park, and the trip to Michigan was to take her back to Irons for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, 206 N. Somerset, had hoped for a holiday visit from their son, Jack, and his wife, but heard from them in mid-May that it wouldn't be possible, "and why don't you come here instead." So they did, enjoying a 4-day pre-holiday stay. The junior Andersons make their home in Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Desmond McCabe and Michael, 1217 N. Dunton, and their weekend guest, the younger Eugene Dougherty of 1212 N. Dunton, returned Monday night from a 4-day stay at Grand Bend, Ontario, Canada in the summer home of Michael's Grandma Sears of London, Ontario. It's a mite chilly in those parts—at least as cool as it was here over the weekend-but Michael and Gene nevertheless took a plunge in Lake Ontario, just to be able to say they'd done it. And to collect a small wager from Michael's mother.

The two lads are easy to identify among all the rest of the children on N. Dunton—they're the blue ones with goose pimples.

MR. AND MRS. Robert Read, 15 S. Phelps, came home to stay Saturday evening after recent travels that took them to Massachusetts for a golden wedding anniversary, to Jamaica for a week's vacation and to Alma, Mich. for their daughter, Priscilla's, college graduation.

The anniversary celebrants were Read's parents, the Harold C. Reads of Wellesley, Mass., where their local son and his brother, Charles, a lieutenant colonel from McLean, Va., hosted a May 8 dinner party in their honor. Given in the Wellesley Country Club, the festive occasion doubled as a family reunion, bringing together 14 family members.

While they were in the East, Mr. and Mr. Read also visited Mrs. Read's father, Vincent Squiers in Newton, Mass. and other relatives and friends in Boston, staying almost a week before going on to New York City. In the World's Fair city they were the guests of Mrs. Read's sister and family, the Henry Bames, and of course they toured the fair.

Next came the week in Jamaica, with swimming every day in the Caribbean and just barely adjusting to the island's leisurely pace before it was time to leave. They hurried home a week ago Sunday, hurried through the week, then hurried to Alma for Priscilla's graduation Saturday. Priscilla plans to attend Springfield College in Massachusetts next fall for graduate work on her master's degree.

THE WIER Swanson family, 901 S. Highland, spent the holiday weekend in their summer cottage at Fontana, Wis. At this writing it isn't certain that the weather warmed up, as they hoped it would, or whether they spent most of the time on the golf course, as they planned. If Fontana was as chilly as Arlington Heights they had a rather brrrisk time.

Three springtime showers feted Miss Carol Hildebrandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hildebrandt, 410 E. Hawthorne, prior to her marriage Saturday to Frederick P. Kung of Rolling Meadows. The groom's sister, bridesmaid-elect Mary Kay Kunz, began the round of parties with a miscellaneous shower given in Chicago. Fifty relatives of the groom waited to surprise his fiancee and welcome her to the family circle.

A second shower was also a most successfully-kept secret until the moment of the "Surprise!" shout, when 25 Hildebrandt family members again put the bride-elect in a state of happy shock. Three of her aunts co-planned the party which was given in the Arlington Heights home of one of them, Mrs. Louis Maierhofer. Mrs. Fred Hildebrandt Jr. and Mrs. Ronald Botterman, the other two conspirators, joined the rest in reviving their victim with a shower of miscellaneous gifts.

Climaxing the round of showers was one given by Miss Hildebrandt's maid - of - honor, Miss Luanna Schofield, 302 S. Patton. It, too, was a surprise, thanks to much tongue-biting and conversation-censoring among the honor guest's fellow office workers and other local friends. Twenty-five successful secret-keepers showered the bride-elect with personal gifts and enjoyed a final bachelor-girl session with her.

Miss Hildebrandt and Kunz were married Saturday afternoon in St. Peter Luthran Church of Arlington Heights. They will make their home in Mount Prospect.

RESIDENTS of Surrey Ridge subdivision in Arlington Heights celebrated Memorial Day at a block party given Sunday by the several tradesmen and contractors who had a part in the area's development. According to the count of Mrs. Thomas O'Brien, 1727 Surrey Ridge Drive, who was general chairman of the affair, there were 88 adults and about 90 children enjoying games, races, dancing and supper.

Assisting Mrs. O'Brien with the planning and preparation were Mrs. William Chamberlain, Mrs. Donald Evins, Mrs. Donald King, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Del Blatherwic, Ken Foster and Ralph Brinkman. Teenagers Toni Chamberlain and Chris Peterson were in charge of decorating and teenagers took over the clean-up detail, with only a few whip-cracking, muscle-weary adults directing the operation.

There were dance contests and egg-throwing competition, races, prizes for the champions and consolation awards for all the children. There was a calorie-laden buffet supper table plus liquid refreshments that bubbled for the kids and foamed for the adults, then dancing for everyone from the minuet set to the Frug bugs.

JUDGED THE BEST male dancer among the teenagers was Bob O'Brien for his execution of the Frug (your middle-aged correspondent is not sure if one executes a Frug or performs it) and best of the girl dancers was Chris Peterson, who won it in a Walk. Another little O'Brien named Tommy teamed up with a Tommy belonging to the Chamberlains to win the back-to-back race bracket, and witnesses claim that only 10- or 11-year-olds can race back-to-back without breaking something.

A speedy six-year-old, Marcus Foster, won the potato race in his age group, and a pair of older women in the 8-to-9 year bracket, Miss Kathy O'Brien and Miss Sharon Odahowski, won the 3-legged race, also not recommended for aging, brittle-boned parents. There were zillions of other games and contests with as many prizes to the winners and we regret that space does not permit a complete listing of all of them.

Sponsors and donors who made the celebration possible were Miller Builders, Allen Contract Carpet Co., Hoffman Decorators, Schmidt Iron Works, Mohawk Construction Co., Peko Tile Co., Thiel Contractors, Automatic, Inc., Holman Brick, Broadway Shower and Door, Wilkin Insulating, Mannheim Lumber Co., Stonegate Farms and Jewel Food Store.

PLANS ARE already being talked up for next year's celebration, Surrey Ridge residents willing. Most newcomers to the area are not only new to Arlington Heights but to the Midwest in general, and every one of them re-discovered Sunday that there's nothing like an old-fashioned street-dancing block party to get people acquainted.

Word has been received by local friends of the A. H. Fessler family that Mrs. Fessler died May 16 in Lodi, Calif., where the former Arlington Heighters have made their home since 1938. Veteran Arlington Heights residents will remember the Fesslers as the one-time owners of a local dairy, now Meyer Bros. Dairy, at 1006 W. Euclid. Present owners, Al and Herman Meyer, recall that Fessler owned the business from about 1927 until they purchased it in 1938.

Mrs. G. Rex Volz, who was notified by Helen Fessler of her mother's death, says that Mrs. Fessler had an important part in establishing the first Parent Teachers Association in Arlington Heights, and that she had many other civic interests as well. (A

Q. Is it all right for the bridegroom to give his bride something for their home as his special wedding gift to her?

A. While not exactly "wrong," this is not customary. His special gift to her should really be something personal — usually jewelry of some kind.

"We've had electric heat 3 years-for comfort and economy you couldn't want anything better"... report Mr. and Mrs. John Meske

"In our home, the bedrooms, living room—dining room, bath and kitchen, are all good-sized rooms. Last year, with electric heat, we paid only $175 to heat our 5-room home. And electric heat is so clean. In the three years we've lived here, we haven't had to buy a can of paint or even wash the walls."

☐ What's more, like the Meskes, you'll find electric heat has a lot of other outstanding advantages. For example, it's 100% efficient, no heat is lost up the chimney. Each room has its own individual thermostat. You can set the temperature at 80° in the bathroom, 72° in the living room, 65° in the bedroom, all at the same time. Electric heat rates have been cut 50% since 1958. Get the facts on electric heat. Call your nearest Public Service Company Office for details, today.

No Grass Grows Under Feet Of Illinois' Two Senators

by BRUCE LADD
Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The "Big D" twins who represent Illinois in the United States Senate are fully absorbed in the legislative machinery of the Nation's Capital.

Paul H. Douglas, Illinois' senior senator, and Everett M. Dirksen, the state's junior representative, achieved common goals last week when cloture was invoked and the Voting Rights Act of 1965 passed by a 77-19 vote in the Senate.

Both were ecstatic at the bill's passage; both had labored in its behalf for many months.

Not one to let grass grow under his feet, Democrat Douglas promptly set out on a new battle to curb the proliferation of automobile junk yards across the country.

REPUBLICAN Dirksen, known to move more deliberately but just as effectively as his Prairie State colleague, aimed his sights at promotion of the Dirksen Amendment to give states the right to decide how their legislatures will be apportioned.

Douglas, 73, has for many years been the darling of the cause-conscious liberal set. Dirksen, 69, has been the catalytic agent for the bastions of conservatism. The two manage to complement one another quite nicely.

Douglas has proposed a sort of burial insurance for old automobiles. He has introduced a bill to pay for the interment of the rusty auto corpses that disfigure the beauty of our national landscape.

The senator suggests a two per cent excise tax on all new car purchases, so that "whenever a person buys a car, the cost of its ultimate disposal will be included in the purchase price."

THE TAX would average $50 per car and produce $400 million a year. The funds would be set aside and used at the President's discretion for ridding the nation of ever-increasing auto junkpiles.

This idea is timely because:

(1) Congress now is considering reducing the present 10 per cent excise tax on autos. Retaining at least two per cent of the tax as auto burial insurance should not be difficult.

(2) The auto junk yard problem is so serious that it figured prominently in last week's White House Conference on Natural Beauty. The President is opposed to more auto junkpiles.

"We have all seen these rotting and rusting scrap piles defiling our suburban countrysides and city lots," Douglas said.

"And, like the proverbial weather, everyone talks about the problem but does little about it. I believe it is time we used the auto excise tax as a user charge to solve a problem exclusively created by the auto industry."

DOUGLAS pointed out that 22,000 cars were abandoned on Chicago's streets in 1963. Suburban police can add thousands more to this total.

In 1958, 3.6 million cars were retired from service. In 1964, we junked 5.6 million. Detroit assembly lines today are producing nearly eight million autos annually, all of which will in less than 10 years find their way into a junkpile.

Junked autos are a monumental headache for police departments, which daily haul in jalopies and wrecks that have been abandoned by their owners on village street corners, county roads, and vacant lots.

SEN. DIRKSEN

SEN. DOUGLAS

The cost of hauling junked auots and then trying to dispose of them is tremendous. So it will pay the overburdened suburban taxpayer to keep an eye on the Douglas junkpile measure.

THREE WEEKS ago (issue of May 13), Paddock Publications published a thorough report on progress of the Dirksen amendment. Its status is little changed today.

Of equal currency, however, is Republican criticism of Dirksen for his collaboration with the administration on the voting rights bill.

These critics, representing a slim minority of the minority party, charge that Dirksen is "stripping the Republicans of every issue" by cooperating with the administration in 1964 and again in 1965 to pass voting rights legislation.

What Dirksen's critics fail to take into consideration is that in both instances the Illinois senator was correct. He is sensible to the necessity of carefully scrutinizing the opposition party's activities, but he is also more concerned about being right than about being partisan. And he keeps his eye on Main Street.

As the principal architect of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, Dirksen only acted in the historic tradition of Lincoln's party.

BUT IT IS difficult for many to understand how the senator reconciles his strong support for voting rights with his apparent opposition to the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote decision on apportionment of legislative districts.

The two positions seem incompatible; one gives and the other takes. Yet, there is no denying Dirksen's resolve in behalf of equal rights and no legitimate question of his party allegiance.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS

This is the season for cook outs and fly ups, when new members are entertained by old members of Girl Scout troops. Cadette Troop 258, under the leadership of Mrs. E. Anderson, met at Dam 1 May 22 to have a cook out with girls who are eligible to become Cadettes this year.

Troop 565, under Mrs. Clyde House's supervision, is planning to get together in June to meet prospective members and cook out of doors.

Troop 790, with Mrs. George Hensley as leader, will have a fly up for new members at the end of the month. This troop is busy planning a 2-night stay at Camp Pine on June 4 and 5.

These Juniors were instructed by Mrs. Rene Kathrein on how to make hats for their Barbie dolls. The girls were allowed to put the fashionable hats made by Mrs. Kathrein on their own dolls, have a fashion show and, afterwards, took their turn in "whipping up" a spring creation for themselves, from odd material, paper cups, ribbon, tiny pearls and glue.

SOUTH ARLINGTON

May 13 Troop 862 invited their mothers and other honored guests to a Mothers Tea at Park School. Several skits were performed by the girls as well as puppet show. After they were entertained each mother was presented with an individually made puff.

May 27 Troop 862 entertained the Bo Wi Cans, a Camp Fire group at an old fashioned picnic at Elk Grove Forest Preserve. (B9

by DAN BAUMANN
Staff Writer

Considerable heat has been generated by a bill — passed by the Illinois House and now in a Senate committee — which would raise the compulsory age limit for high school attendance from 16 to 18.

The measure was endorsed by Gov. Otto Kerner in his state of the state message earlier this year. The age limit would not apply to those who graduate before they are 18.

Some school people have viewed it as an expedient to lighten unemployment relief rolls — without compensatory payments to school districts for developing and maintaining programs suited to the potential dropout. Some school districts have gone on record opposed to it.

The Illinois Education Association last December adopted a resolution approving an increase from 16 to 18 in the dropout age, "provided that adequate financing be made available for appropriate instructional programing and additional qualified teachers."

Emphasis has been on this proviso.

IN NORTHWEST suburbs, reaction to the proposal varies widely among people who deal with youth.

One high school superintendent, who admits his views "make me somewhat of an oddball" in educational circles, is Lake Park High School Supt. Carl Forrester.

"I can't get excited about this. It is a fundamental responsibility of the schools under state law to take people up to 21 years if they want to attend to get a diploma.

"But in principle, I am rather opposed to any kind of minimum age for dropping out. Sooner or later people have to assume responsibility for their own destiny."

FORRESTER can see "real problems" in eliminating the compulsory age law. He feels the current trend is away from individual responsibility.

"But we can't fool ourselves. This is a precept of democracy.

"Forcing youngers to remain in school does nothing."

Proposing an alternative "which isn't as far-out as it may seem," Forrester suggested a high school diploma or equivalent be required before a youngster is issued a learner's permit or driver's license.

"Youngsters who drop out invariably do so after they get access to an auto. This would raise the status of education with them, if they realize a high school education is needed before they can take a car on the road. You would have the problem whipped."

FORRESTER sees "very little effect" on Lake Park's budget if the bill is passed. "Our dropout rate is relatively small, about 3 to 4 per cent."

Sgt. Maurice J. English, a juvenile officer for the Arlington Heights police department, sees the change from 16 to 18 as "ridiculous."

"I don't see why it's necessary. If you're going to force kids to stay in school, it should be for a different aspect of education. Every school would have to have a good vocational training program and they all don't.

"This amounts to babysitting. Worse, it could clog the schools with people who don't want to be there."

JOSEPH GUINTA of the Illinois Youth Commission's Rolling Meadows office, commented, "Simply forcing kids to stay in school, under the watchful eye of the school, would be idiotic.

"But if I understand the intent of this bill correctly—to weed out those who aren't interested in the academic subjects and place them in vocational courses or in trade school—then it would be a good thing.

Favoring the measure is DuPage Sheriff's Police Sgt. Mel Lowe, president of the DuPage Juvenile Officers Association.

"Not a day goes by that I don't get calls from kids who want help in getting a job. I send them to someone, and they are turned down because they're too young. The 16-year-old dropout can't get a job. No one wants to hire him."

THE REV. Joseph Farley, senior adviser at St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, said, "My immediate reaction to the higher age limit is that it would create problems for the schools —not as much for us as for the public schools." Its effect at St. Viator, he feels, would "not be noticeable."

Lynn Untenbrink, president of the Northwest Suburban Welfare Council and a social worker at Forest View High School, Elk Grove:

"I personally do not feel this is the answer. I feel a lot could be done for the dropout, but not by raising the attendance age two years. Perhaps we should be developing new programs—in and out of the schools.

"The school program often doesn't meet the needs of the dropout, so he leaves. This bill won't do the child or the school any good."

HIS SCHOOLS would have to develop new programs — or at least expand existing programs designed for "potential" dropouts, feels David Whiteside, director of counseling in District 214.

"We have been working on a work experience program for the potential dropout for the past two and one-half years, stressing language skills, work experience and personal adjustment. Adjustment is a real hurdle for many of these young people. And they need some type of vocational experience."

District 214 Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer feels "the idea behind this bill is a good one, but it should also provide the finances to accomplish that idea.

"Simply requiring these youngsters to attend school for another two years will result in an older, more discouraged group than you had before."

Slichenmyer estimated it would cost $80,000 to $90,000 additional a year for District 214 to provide teachers and special programs for the 16 to 18-year-old student who would have dropped out at 16 under the current law.

Eye Interim Funds For Junior College

Community College District 301 board of education assigned its newly hired attorney the job of investigating any legal ways it might borrow money.

Mrs. Jesslyn Nicklas, college board member, reported the college would not get its $100,000 before July 1 since the coffers in the office of Ray Page, state superintendent of instruction were empty.

A. M. Bernstein, board member, asked for the board investigation of any "interim credit source" on which to operate.

PRESIDENT JOHN Haas suggested the board have its application for state funds in proper form so it would be ready to submit it when the funds were available.

It was determined that setting a budget and tax levy on which tax anticipation warrant financing might be based could not be done sooner than the district will get state funds.

It has had $100 on which to operate since the junior college district was formed. (B10

Chess Club Meets at Park Center

Northwest Chess Club, which formerly met at the Des Plaines VFW hall, has changed its name to Mount Prospect Chess Club.

It is meeting Friday evenings in the Maple Room of the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 See Gwun Road.

The club has won the North Shore inter-club match championship for the second consecutive year, defeating clubs from Evanston, Waukegan and Highland Park.

THE ANNUAL club tournament is also drawing to a close. Last year's winner was Bob Spaulding of Mount Prospect.

Chess players from the northwest suburban area are invited to attend the Friday sessions. All levels of playing skill are welcome, club officials say.

Bill Requires Mortgage Firms to Pay Interest

Have you ever griped because your mortgage company requires you to make monthly deposits on your tax and house insurance bills but pays no interest to you on the deposit?

State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman (D) of Arlington Heights has introduced into the General Assembly a bill (H. S. 1042) that would correct this.

The bill, which will be heard by the House Judiciary Committee, would make it mandatory that any lending institution which requires regular monthly deposits toward such things as insurance and tax bills must pay the depositor of that money monthly interest amounting to four per cent.

"AS A legislator with a prime interest in educational matters, I'm going a little afield in introducing this particular bill," admitted Mrs. Chapman in explaining details of House Bill 1042. "But in addition to being an ex-teacher and a former school board member, I'm also a small homeowner and this bill is designed with the small homeowner in mind."

The interest payment the mortgage company doesn't pay is a "hidden cost" of the home loan, Mrs. Chapman said. "This bill will eliminate this."

The deposits are small, and the amount of interest would be small too, Mrs. Chapman said, but not necessarily insignificant. "We've owned a home since 1948. Every single month we've paid into the mortgage company's tax and insurance fund, but get no interest! Over the years the interest that we lost is quite a bit!" she said.

CO-SPONSORS OF the bill with Mrs. Chapman are Rep. Harold Katz (D) of Glencoe, Rep. Thomas Hanahan Jr. (D) of McHenry, Rep. William E. Hartnett (D) of Lake Villa, Rep. Abner Mikva (D) of Chicago and Rep. Leslie Jones (R) of Flora.

The sponsors point out that while mortgage companies do not pay interest on required deposits, many other companies do. Commonwealth Edison, which supplies electricity to the northwest suburban area, pays a five (5) per cent interest annually on deposits it requires its customers to make.

Savings and loan institutions do not look favorably on bills such as this, so Mrs. Chapman's bill is expected to get a tough going over in the hearing before the Judiciary Committee.

Public to Greet President Here

Residents of northwest suburbs were invited this week to greet President Johnson when he arrives at O'Hare Field Thursday (today) to address a Democratic fund-raising dinner in McCormick Place.

James Stavros, Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman, said the President would arrive at 4 p.m. The public should enter the airport from the military installation entrance at the north end near Mannheim and Higgins Roads, he said.

New Triumph TR-4A Wow!

The new Triumph TR-4A is one sports car that won't shake your fillings loose. Because the new optional independent rear suspension smooths the bumps. It also prevents rear-end rhumbas. Even if you hit cobblestones at 100 mph.

(Here's another eye-opener. The TR-4A costs $1000 less than other sports cars with full independent rear suspension.)

More TR-4A innovations: deep-cushioned, more comfortable bucket seats and easy-up, easy-down convertible top.

Of course, it retains those features that made TR-4 the SCCA National Class Champion for three straight years.

Such as four forward synchromesh gears. Rack-and-pinion steering. Low center of gravity. Enormous disc brakes.

(How about the availability of Triumph services? No problem. Parts are available through a nationwide network of factory warehouses, distributors and dealers.)

There's something else about the new TR-4A that won't shake you up. That's the price. $2899*

21 Submit Names For Junior College

In the first week of the Name the Junior College search sponsored by Paddock Publications 21 entries were received.

The names included several duplications, including five entries suggesting the new community college District 301 be named for the late President John F. Kennedy.

Four entries carried a variation of the Northwest Junior College theme, including Northwest Suburban, Northwest Community and Northwest Township.

THE SEARCH for a name for the new community two-year college is being conducted in an effort to get the best possible name suggestions. The college board will be the final judge of the name selected for the new community college serving residents of Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships.

The names submitted to Paddock Publications will be judged, with the "Best 10" suggestions published in the issue of June 24. "Balloting" will be conducted from June 24 to July 8. Results of the vote will be turned over to the college board and published on July 22. The "Best 10" vote results will be used by the college board for information and assistance, but will not be binding upon the board.

The first person submitting a name selected as the final name of the community college will receive $25 from Paddock Publications and a permanent plaque will be provided to the community college for installation in the school.

ONE OF THE most interesting entries to date was submitted by Philip S. Nelson, 341 S. Prindle, Arlington Heights. In a letter published in this week's Fence Post, Nelson suggested the name of Euclid Junior College. He stressed the name of the college to be appropriate "should bespeak the dignity of higher learning and at the same time have some relationship to its locale."

According to Nelson, Euclid is the name of a "very important, tree-lined and highly regarded main street cutting through the heart of Wheeling Township and into Palatine Township, and at the same time a name that carries the educational dignity and inspiration of one of the greatest Greek scholars and mathematicians of all time."

Other entries to date include (William Griffith, Arlington Quad Township Junior College Heights), Martin Luther King Jr. College (Mrs. H. Hill Jr., Rolling Meadows), Northeastern Illinois (Andrew Weiler, Prospect Heights), Marguerite S. Church College (Robert A. Frech, Mount Prospect), Pax Junior College (Mrs. R. J. Santeler, Hoffman Estates), Suburban Junior College (Joseph Racanelli, Wheeling) and John Hancock College (Mrs. Gene Hancock, Mount Prospect).

AMONG OTHER names suggested were Pioneer Junior College (Mrs. C. L. Rezner, Mount Prospect), Lincoln Junior College (John Clevering, Rolling Meadows), Walworth Junior College (Mike Carroll, Elk Grove Village), Cover Junior College (Mrs. J. E. Anderson, Arlington Heights), Beacon Junior College (Robert Clarke Stien, West Chicago), and Elkspaw College (A. H. Burk, Palatine).

If the final name selected by the college board is not one suggested by Paddock Publications readers, a special prize of $25 will be awarded to the first person submitting the name judged "best" by the newspaper balloting.

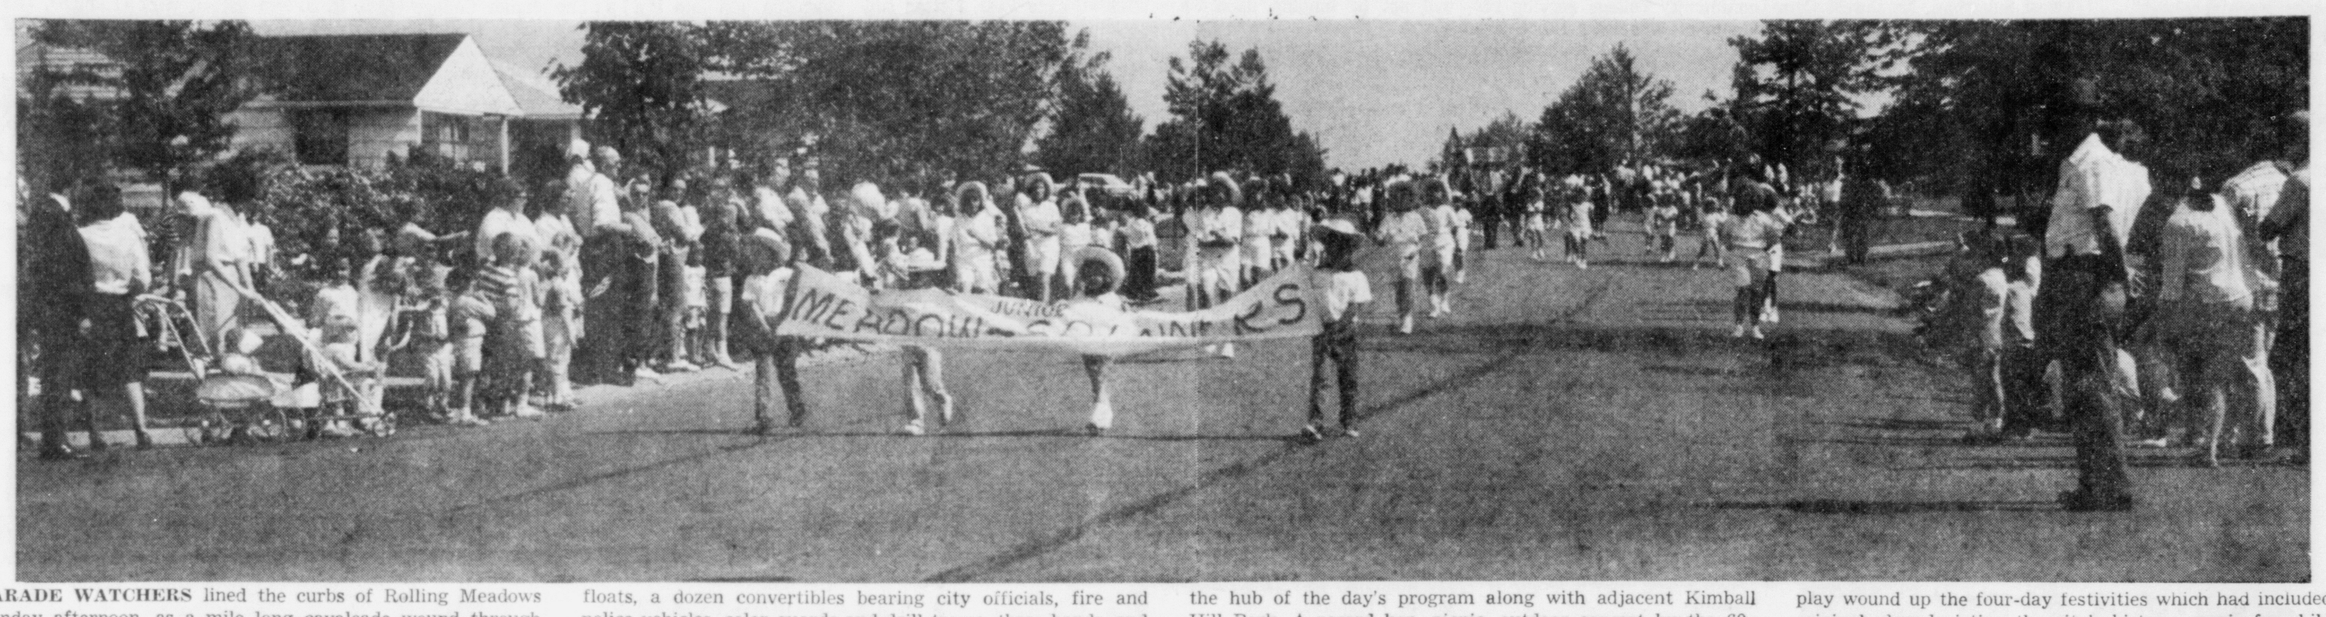
Here's How City Celebrated 10th Birthday



PARADE WATCHERS lined the curbs of Rolling Meadows Sunday afternoon, as a mile long cavalcade wound through the streets to open the final day's activities of the city's 10th anniversary celebration. Nearly 20 beautifully decorated floats, a dozen convertibles bearing city officials, fire and police vehicles, color guards and drill teams, three bands, and hundreds and hundreds of youngsters were applauded as they moved toward the reviewing stand in the shopping center, the hub of the day's program along with adjacent Kimball Hill Park. A record hop, picnic, outdoor concert by the 60-piece Rolling Meadows Municipal Band and fireworks display wound up the four-day festivities which had included an original play depicting the city's history, movie for children and a gala dinner dance.

"PIONEER DAYS" in Rolling Meadows 10 years ago were re-enacted on stage during performances of "The Street Where You Live," the original script written particularly for the city's celebration. Of course it rained on moving day, and Ray Neuckranz, father of the starring family, carries daughter, Carol Siers, into the house over a plank walk after she has slipped in mud surrounding the stark new house.

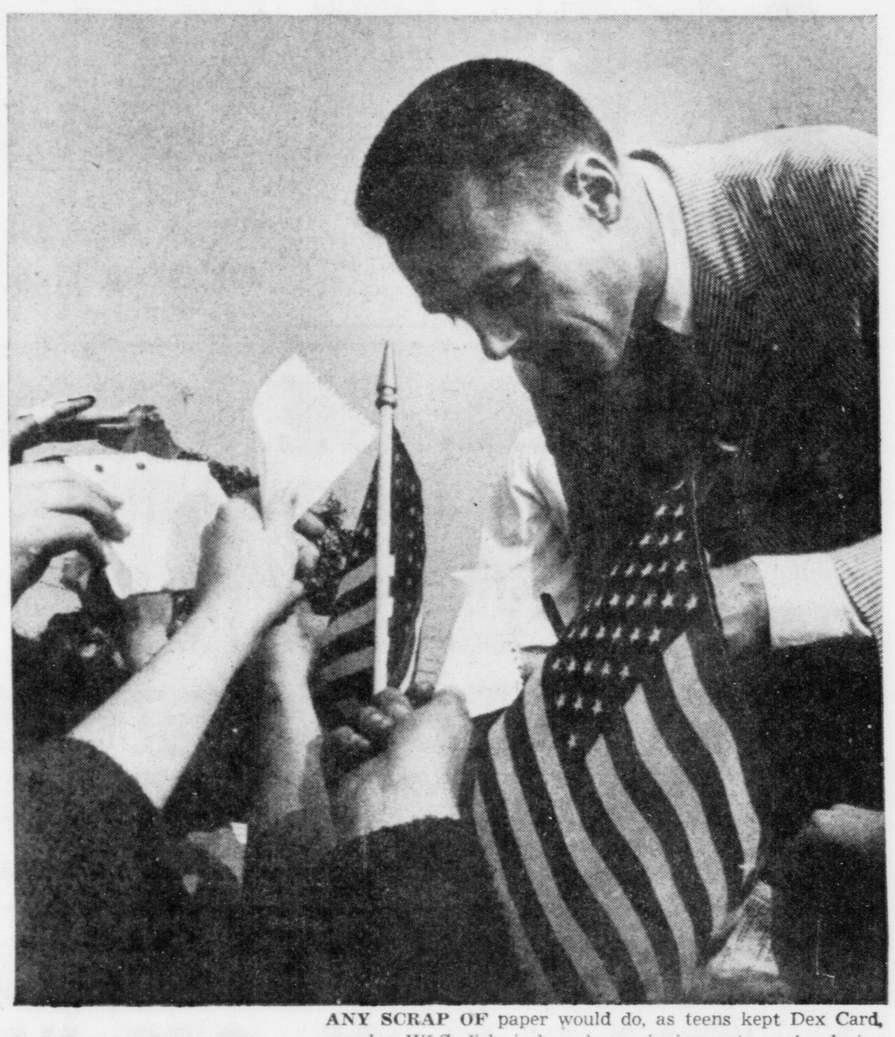
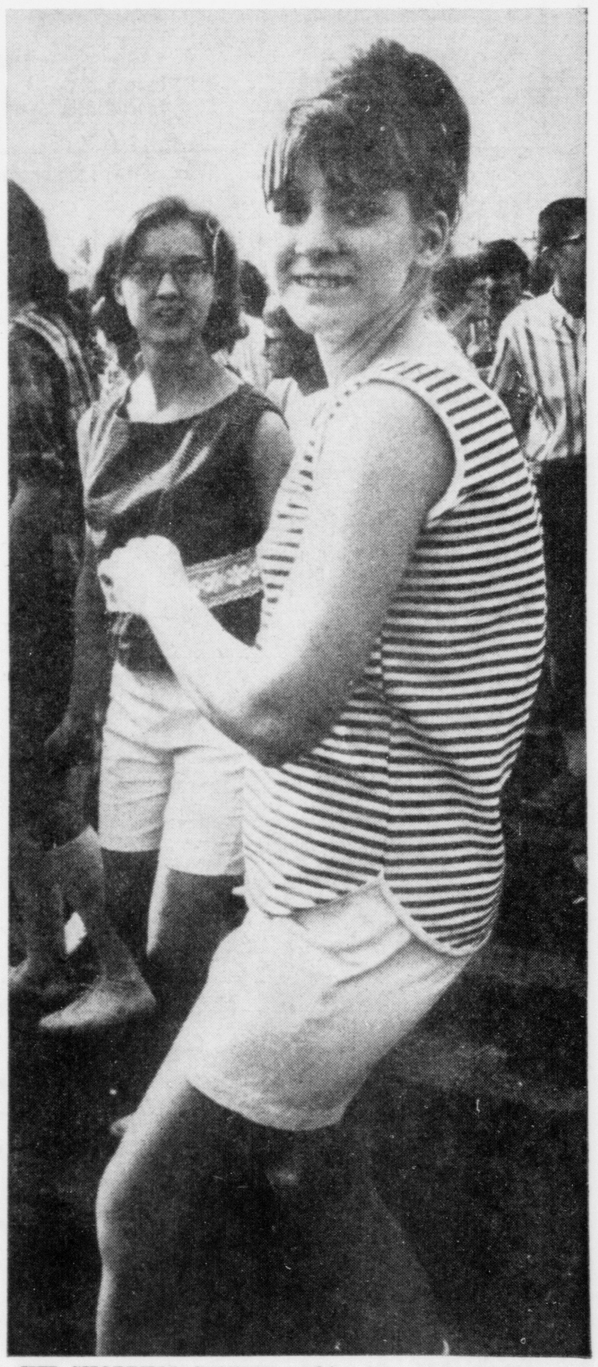
"HERE IT COMES" and the thousands of picnickers in Kimball Hill Park Sunday evening turned eyes skyward as a low flying plane skimmed the treetops and dropped 3,000 plastic golf balls on the crowd. Kids scrambled for the marked balls that could be turned in for prizes, including a Honda motorcycle. (Staff photo)



ANY SCRAP OF paper would do, as teens kept Dex Card, popular WLS disk jockey, busy signing autographs during the record hop he emceed in the Rolling Meadows shopping center parking lot. The dance filled the gap between the parade and the picnic Sunday for the city's thousands of young people. (Staff photo)

ROLLING MEADOWS is a young town in more ways than age alone. The parade which opened Sunday's events of the civic birthday party featured youth organizations, including the hundreds of lads who belong to the Boys Baseball teams, kids on decorated bikes, Boy and Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, and the junior city officials and teen committee that are in charge of youth activities.



THE SHOPPING CENTER parking lot was a dance floor large enough for Rolling Meadows teens whose special event of the city's 10th anniversary celebration was a record hop emceed by Dex Card. A teen committee and the volunteer firemen who planned the hop arranged with the weatherman for the bright, cool, sunnny weather that made the afternoon perfect. (Staff photo)

EXTRA CHAIRS were set up to accommodate an overflow crowd of youngsters at the three "nickel" shows Saturday at Salk School, when Jerry Lewis starred in "The Nutty Professor." The movie time gave parents a couple of hours to prepare for the gala grand ball held that evening at the Sheraton-O'Hare, where the Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra played for dancing after a gourmet dinner. (Staff photo)

A PROMISED "shower of prizes" brought thousands of picnickers to the park in Rolling Meadows Sunday, and kids scrambled everywhere for the prize pellets, released from a plane. People continued to arrive for the band concert and fireworks display which wound up the celebration and police estimated the crowd at more than 5,000.

School Safety Code Creates Much Confusion

Cost Vs. Liability Debated by Boards

By HELENE BRISTOL
Education Editor

All Illinois public schools are in the midst of intensive safety surveys — supposedly.

In fact, it all depends on where you happen to be.

While most of the state is holding an unofficial moratorium on conducting the surveys, schools in Cook and DuPage Counties are being urged to complete the surveys as soon as possible.

A new law passed by the state legislature and signed by Gov. Otto Kerner Friday makes the complicated situation only more complicated.

The new law extends the time for completion of the safety surveys from 1965 to 1967 and gives school boards until 1970 to do the remodeling required.

It makes the code apply to all schools built after July 1, 1965, and requires surveys and safety remodeling of all schools built in 1955 or before. It ignores schools built in the past 10 years, leaving application of the safety surveys for these schools in limbo.

More than 50 per cent of the schools in DuPage County have been built in the past 10 years. Only 15 per cent of Cook County schools outside of Chicago were built before 1956.

ALL LOCAL school officials and school board members can tell is that the situation is very confused, at best, and that the repairs required by the surveys will cost their taxpayers money.

Underlying all of the problem is the basic wish expressed by everyone concerned to make Illinois schools as safe as possible—but with as little expense as possible to state residents.

The problem thus becomes one of interpretation and emphasis—is safety, regardless of expense, more important than the frugal spending of tax money?

ALL DISCUSSIONS, particularly in Cook County, are influenced by the spectre of the Our Lady of The Angels School fire in Chicago with its tremendous loss of life and its many injuries.

The resultant liability and damage suits also weigh heavily in the Chicago suburban area, where school board members worry about what to do with the safety surveys. Under state laws the school district, school superintendent, school board and board members personally can be held liable for preventable accidents or disasters in public schools.

The life safety code was issued last year by Ray Page, Illinois superintendent of public instruction. The code had been in the study and drafting stages since 1959 under the supervision of Page's predecessor, George T. Wilkins.

THE CODE covers all types of life safety in schools—building requirements, ventilation, water supply and fire prevention or alarm devices. It was issued in two sections—one to apply to all new school buildings and another to require remodeling of present buildings.

Many surveys were taken under the original code as issued, including the survey for Arlington High School at a cost of approximately $3,500. Cost of repairs and remodeling for the building is estimated at $207,750.

But a new complication arose this year when the code was extensively revised after almost a year of hearings. The hearings were held when pressure developed from school people and manufacturers, who were loudly protesting that their school equipment was not approved in the code.

NOW THE surveys taken under the original code must be changed.

Perhaps the re-evaluation of these surveys can be done at the time repairs are authorized, Robert Hayes, assistant Cook County superintendent of schools, noted. This is possible because plans for remodeling or repairs must be approved by the county superintendent's office just as the original surveys must be approved.

But Hayes was not too definite, and school officials and board members are only more confused.

THE REPAIRS required by the survey include many types, from the installation of sprinkler systems or heat-smoke detectors in storage areas, basements and attics to enclosure of all stairways with fireproof material and fire doors and extensive fire alarm systems. In many cases new outside doors, new wiring, new heating or ventilating equipment or even new types of glass on building interiors are required.

Remodeling schools to meet the code can be expensive. In addition to the Arlington High $207,750 estimate, there is an estimate of $145,000 to $150,000 for Palatine High School. Most elementary school estimates are lower.

The complicated situation and legalistic maze confronting school board members becomes worse when board members attempt to understand the safety code itself. It requires the training of an architect or structural engineer to fully realize what the requirements are.

HANGING over the whole situation is a court suit brought by schools in Winnebago County (Rockford).

The suit challenging the constitutionality of the safety code was upheld in the lower court. It is now before the Illinois Supreme Court, but a decision is not expected until after September.

The main issue of the case was Page's authority to issue the code without supporting legislation. Presumably the new law eliminates this question for school built in 1955 or before.

But the schools built in the past 10 years continue to be in limbo pending the court decision.

IN ADDITION, there has been some question raised about the possibility of an additional suit challenging the new law since it exempts some schools and does not apply equally to all school districts.

In the meantime, liability could be attached to school officials and school board members if something goes wrong.

Local board members admit they are worried and confused. This was the general consensus at the meeting of the Arlington Area School Board Association last week. Hayes was the main speaker, and his main message was "go ahead" with school surveys for "you could be held liable if anything happens."

TO ENCOURAGE local school boards to proceed with safety surveys, Cook County Supt. Noble Puffer has set dates for completion of the surveys. These dates are staggered, with the earliest surveys required for the oldest schools.

In DuPage County, schools are being "encouraged" to take surveys, but no completion dates have been set, according to Merrill Gates, first assistant county school superintendent.

School board members do not know what to do. If the code is held unconstitutional, they could be accused of wasting taxpayers' money in taking the surveys or completing the repairs.

If they wait in taking the surveys or making required repairs, they run the risk of possible school accidents or disaster.

IF THEY use school funds for remodeling required in the survey and which may not be necessary from a basic safety standpoint, they will be robbing school children of other educational programs which the money could provide.

If disaster strikes, however, they personally could be liable and held responsible.

And local school children could suffer death or injury.

"It's a real mess," said one school board member last week. Many other board members appear to agree.

U.S. Dominican Policy Faces Trial in World 'Courtroom'

by SHERWOOD ROSS
Staff Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The United States is being tried before the world in the Security Council for its intervention in the internal affairs of the Dominican Republic.

The charges are heavy, and the task of sitting in the courtroom listening to the communist prosecuting attornies is painful.

The first lawyer, representing Cuba, opens the meeting with a thirty-minute attack on the U.S. for ignoring the proviso of the Rio pact stating that no American state may intervene in the affairs of another American state, and reminding the jury that our chief support among the Latin counntries is from governments run by military juntas.

The second attorney, representing Russia, speaks more briefly, chiding the Security Council for not taking action United States against the for violating the UN charter concerning the sovereignty of a member state. Between Havana and Moscow, the world is one vast playing field, and the communities are kicking the football back and forth like they owned it.

Sherwood Ross

For days now, they have been scoring heavily on the diplomatic policies of President Johnson. Audiences coming to hear a lot of "lies" are visibly moved and defensive after athe battery of attacks by the prosecutors.

"You imperialist you!" one woman sneers to her companion as they leave the chamber after Tuesday's short session. They are filled with rage at the communists, who have found loop-holes in our respect for international law and are probing them unmercifully.

EARLIER in the debate, Stevenson would remind the Soviet delegate of the atrocious Russian bombings of Budapest in 1956, of a rebellion put down in blood and fire.

But on Tuesday he was silent. Earlier, he claimed our landings were to support the safe withdrawal of American civilians (although why this was deemed necessary remains a mystery). Second, he asserted our troops were not taking sides in the rebellion — an assertion dashed by President Johnson's televised declaration that we would not allow a communist takeover and an avalanche of newspaper reports.

And finally, when, after several switches of "sides," we decided to withdraw the first Marine contingents, it was only upon the arrival of Brazilian troops in U. S. military transports — representatives of a government not known for democratic procedures.

The papers are calling it "the Dominican mess." At this moment, FBI agents are thought to be at work documenting the communist subversion of the rebel movement. (Do they ever document facist subversion, I wonder?) They are trying to prove that a reason exists for the supreme sacrifice of American men.

FORTUNATELY, the Security Council's representative has succeeded in negotiating a cease fire agreement — one renwed from day-to-day by the fueding factions. This is fortunate. There is no reason for more American soldiers to die until the FBI first collects data sufficient to prove we have a reason for being there. But they had better make a strong case — stronger than the handful of reds they found initially — charges ringing like those of the late Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin who had 61 one day and 43 the next day and so on, until nobody believed him.

UN Sec. Gen. U Thant has indicated his view that the Security Council is the proper organ for handling the Dominican problem. No question exists but that he frowns on the U. S. dispatching OAS troops to the scene. His recent remarks reiterating his fears that the UN might become a "debating society" were directed against this country as well as at Russia.

Now, even supposing the communists had riddled the rebel movement — a movement seeking to depose the junta which knocked out the country's only democratically elected government — Americans would still have to decide whether our Latin neighbors have the right to live under governments of their own choosing, and not our choosing. The fact that the Russians dominate Eastern Europe and are guilty of a catalogue of crimes against humanity does not excuse us.

OUR GREATEST strength was supposed to be moral, and this moral truth was supposed to rally and inspire the poor and the aspiring peoples of the world.

The trouble with the Cold War tennis match is not just that the ball contains an atomic warhead and could explode unexpectedly — but that the players have a nasty habit of occupying their opponents tricks. Your reporter would, of course, give a full account of Ambassador Stevenson's speech at the session attended — but the nation's foremost orator declined to speak.

Young Organist To Give Recital At Randhurst

Young organist Rosemary Bailey, will give a concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall in Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect.

The concert is being presented under the joint auspices of the Northwest Hammond Organ Society and Lyon Healy at Randhurst.

Miss Bailey, now 16, has been playing professionally since she was five. She has been on many radio and television shows and was featured with Victor Borge at the Canadian National Exposition.

At present she frequently tours for the Hammond Organ Co. and is also going on a five-week tour this summer as musical director and organist for a professional group doing "Bye Bye Birdie."

There is no admission charge for her concert, and refreshments will be served at Lyon Healy following the performance.

With Uncle Sam

In Viet Nam

Machinist's Mate Fireman Eric Timat, son of Mr. and Mrs. Osvald Timat of 246 Carter St., Wood Dale, participated in the largest combat amphibious operation since Inchon, Korea, in 1950, while serving aboard the attack transport USS Bexar. Initial elements of the Fourth Marine Regiment and Third Reconnaissance Battalion were landed at Chu Lai, Republic of Viet Nam, on May 7. This was the first completely "over the beach" landing in the four American amphibious landings that have been made in South Viet Nam. (5WUS

Summer Tour

Air Force cadets Ralph G. Kaspari of Mount Prospect and Eugene A. Rose III and Michael R. Lang of Palatine, will leave in mid-June for a summer study tour of Air Force, Army and Navy installations across the nation.

Kaspari is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Kaspari, 803 S. Wa-Pella Ave. Rose's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Rose Jr., 631 Burno Drive. Lang is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Lang, 123 N. Boyton.

Their indoctrination will include a comprehensive tour of the missile complex at Vandenberg AFB, Calif., and flying with Air Force combat ready aircrews. In addition to extensive Army briefings at Ft. Benning, Ga., they will spend three days at sea studying naval operations. (10WUS Pfc. James C. Nygaard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Nygaard of 787 Penrith Ave., Elk Grove Village, was assigned to the 7th Artillery's 3d Missile Battalion in Germany May 17. Nygaard is a radio operator in the battalion's Headquarters Battery near Schweinfurt. He was graduated from Forest View High School in 1964. (10WUS

In Germany

ITEM: Individual meat pies from left-over stews, topped with left-over mashed potatoes or pastry topping, are convenient to have to bake directly from the freezer.

ITEM: Small pieces of minced ham, chicken or veal are delicious when added to an omelet, scrambled eggs, or cut into small strips and used to top a tossed salad.

ITEM: Many of your larger foliage plants will benefit by a spring "pick-up," including a light washing of their leaves and re-potting into larger new clay pots with matching saucers, if hey've taken on new growth during the winter months.

ITEM: Spring cleanup of the garden is never complete unless it includes the trees. Mending brokn parts of a shade tree, dormant spraying and feeding can be done weeks before the garden soil is workable or a lawn is ready to be repaired. Dangling branches left by winter winds and ice storms should be pruned out. Dead and dying or unwanted limbs should be removed. And the same pruning will improve a tree by better branch spacing, giving new character to a tree that has grown out of bounds.

Grandmothers Organize National Area Chapter

As Party-Planners They're the Tops

If you're a grandmother, you qualify for membership in the Mount Prospect Grandmothers Club 701.

But, if you're a child of one of the members, you may be sold a ticket to the club's annual card party.

Organized a little over a year ago, the club has held two such affairs already and plans to continue them on an annual basis after both attracted 160 women, according to Mrs. Fay Carlson, the club's first vice president.

"The young people who attended the first card party said jokingly," reported Mrs. Carlson, "that they would have to get the grandmothers to run their parties, too, because they're so successful."

Mrs. Carlson, however, went on to indicate that there really was no great mystery behind the club's success story. "We've got an active group of members," she related, "but we must say our children support us along with their friends. We just distribute tickets to our members and pass the word along."

Another attraction to the affair, however, lies in the domestic accomplishments of the members, whose average age is approximately 65.

"We had wonderful prizes at our last card party in April," said Mrs. Carlson, "including some handmade things by our members. We also served about 20 homemade cakes with coffee and candy last time."

Next year, the club hopes to increase the turnout at the card party, held in April both times at the Mount Prospect Country Club, Mrs. Carlson added.

The club has approximately 250 tickets printed each time for the card party and begins planning for it after Easter. Mrs. Carlson indicated that they would probably continue to hold it sometime in April.

The woman behind the affair in the past has been Mrs. Betty Conway, chairman of the ways and means committee, who selects her own committee to work with her on the card party.

All proceeds from the affair go to club philanthropies. Among these are projects organized by the National Federation of Grandmothers Clubs such as The Haven, a complex of small apartments being built near Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The by-laws of the national organization, composed of more than 700 clubs throughout the U.S., specify a member must be a grandmother through motherhood, marriage or legal adoption and must be sponsored by a member of the club when applying for membership.

Presently, the Mount Prospect Club has approximately 42 members, the same number that became charter members when the club was formed officially in March, 1964.

The club originated, however, when Mrs. Catherine Salika, the president, moved to Mount Prospect from Wauconda, according to Mrs. Carlson. Mrs. Salika had been a member of a club in Wauconda for six years and was asked by local women to start one in Mount Prospect after moving here. The club started at Mrs. Carlson's home in February, 1964, at a coffee party attended by 15 grandmothers. Installation of officers took place the following month during the club's first meeting at the Mount Prospect Country Club.

Mrs. Salika was installed as president; Mrs. Carlson, vice president; Mrs. Cecilia O'Connell, secretary; Mrs. Marguerite Hinckley, treasurer; and Mrs. Ruth Peterson, chaplain.

The only change in the club's officials since then has been that Mrs. Dunhille Dahlgren has replaced Mrs. Hinckley as secretary.

The oldest member of the club is Mrs. Olivia Cawthorne, who's now 92, but Mrs. Carlson admits she can't tell "offhand who's the youngest," although some members are in their 40's.

"The only qualification for membership is that they just have to be grandmothers," she said. "A woman with one grandchild can join."

The club holds meetings the third Friday of every month at 1 p.m. at the country club.

Dr. Fitch To Appear For Guild

Husbands have been invited to the June 16 meeting of the Women's Guild of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, Elk Grove Village.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Franklin R. Fitch, executive director of the Illinois Social Hygiene League, health chairman of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers and associate medical director of clinics at Northwestern University. His topic is entitled "Sex Education that Makes Sense."

His talk and a film on "Human Growth" are directed to parents to help them in dealing with sex education for their children.

Demo Women Meet in New Headquarters

Their new headquarters in Wheeling's "Gaslight Shopping Center" provided attractive surroundings for the May 25 meeting of the Democratic Women's Club of Wheeling Township.

Plans for the immediate future as well as those in the offing were discussed. First on the agenda will be the annual picnic July 11 at which the club will have a "Donkey Surprise" booth. Members will be donating 50 cent prizes for the booth.

Area chairmen collecting the prizes are Arlington Heights, Mrs. Eugene Murawski, 710 S. Evergreen and Mrs. Robert Ramsier, 224 S. Dwyer; Buffalo Grove, Mrs. William Darling, 527 Raupp; Prospect Heights, Mrs. William Thiele, 13 Lynnbrook; Mount Prospect, Mrs. Craig Sipiora, 420 Prospect Manor.

Other plans of the group include the annual card party and a fashion show.

Following the May 25 meeting, a film series, "What an nity," was presented by Miss Esther Noffke.

The club's last meeting of the current season will be held June 22.

"IT'S FOR THE BIRDS!" exclaim Mrs. Victor Walter of Mount Prospect, Mrs. Robert Hayes of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Alan Appleton, seated, who will soon be a Palatine resident. The women, members of the Junior Board of the Park Ridge School for Girls, are enthusiastic over the cage of white doves which will be used to decorate Lake Forest Academy for the group's June 19 benefit dance, "Bal des Fleurs."

Divorce Conciliation Service Is Expanded

The success of the new Divorce Conciliation Service, a part of the Divorce Division of the Circuit Court of Cook County, has resulted in an expansion of the service, it was announced today.

Robert L. Hunter, presiding judge of the Divorce Division announced the appointment, effective immediately, of Ben. B. Small, 53, as a divorce conciliator within the service. Judge Hunter added that plans call for appointing four more conciliators to work under Dr. I. A. Burch, director of the service.

"The interest and co-operation demonstrated by lawyers, judges and many others have helped to make the service a success," Judge Hunter said. "The move to our new quarters in the Civic Center, and the addition to highly qualified personnel, will certainly increase the effectiveness of the service in keeping families together."

The service, now located at 1 N. Wacker, came into being 10 weeks ago under the direction of Chief Judge John S. Boyle of the Cook County Circuit Court.

DR. BURCH, a Ph.D from Pennsylvania State University, said the service currently has appointments scheduled a month in advance.

"This means," he said, "that we must schedule any follow-up conferences with families—and they frequently are the crucial sessions—one month in the future. The appointment of Mr. Small will aid us greatly."

Dr. Burch said the service has been able to avert divorce in one-third of the cases it has handled to date. One result, he said, has been the retention of intact families for more than 100 children.

The success rate is an excellent one, Dr. Burch observed, especially in view of the fact that divorce steps have already been instituted before the couples are counseled. The judges in the Divorce Division make referrals to the service.

MR. SMALL, a Chicago resident, is married and has two children. He has a law degree and has been in private practice as a marraige counselor in Chicago for the past 10 years.

He has put in more than 500 hours as a volunteer aid at the Chicago State Hospital. He also has served as family support consultant for the Cook County Department of Public Aid. He operated his marraige counseling service in consultation with a psychiatrist.

Judge Hunter said Illinois is one of 20 states having public marriage conciliation services. The need for such a department is pointed up, he said, by the fact that 18,474 divorce actions were filed in Cook County in 1964.

BPW 'Bosses' Hear Big Game Hunter

Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club will honor "bosses" at their regular dinner meeting Thursday, June 10, in Old Orchard Country Club. Members are invited to bring their "bosses, husbands or whoever to an evening of entertainment by George A. Bates, big game hunter, who will speak and show slides of his various adventures.

Bates, a member of the Iran Hunter's Club and the Shikar-Safari Club, which is comprised of big game hunters from all parts of the world, has hunted in Canada, Old Mexico, South America, Africa, New Zealand, India, the Soviet Union, Iran and Romania. His talk to the BPW and their guests will primarily concern hunting in India and Iran.

The speaker is the owner and developer of Lakefield Farm near Cary, a controlled shooting area and trout fishing spot considered by some as one of the finest in the state. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago, served as an officer in the Army during World War II, and in 1963 retired from the securities business.

Doctors Advise

Don't Panic Over an ECG

Has your doctor's suggestion that you have an "ECG" left you terror-stricken?

If so, it shouldn't. ECG — the abbreviation for electrocardiogram — is merely his way of tracing the activity of your heart electronically, advises the Illinois State Medical Society. From this tracing he can tell a great deal about the activity of your heart:

1. If it is beating with a regular or irregular rhythm.

2. If it is beating too fast or too slow.

3. Where and how much it was damaged following a heart attack.

4. How the action of drugs — especially quinidine for restoring normal rhythm and digitalis for restoring normal speed — are affecting it.

5. Whether there is a strain on either side of it.

6. If you have suffered a very mild or "silent" heart attack.

HOW DOES THE ECG reveal all of these secreets?

The answer lies in the action of the heart itself. When a person is at rest, the only muscular activity of any importance is the alternate contraction and expansion of the heart. Like a large, throbbing transmitter, the heart sends electric current in waves all over the body. It is these waves that are picked up by pairs of small electrical conductors on the ECG and transmitted on a calibrated, moving sheet to form an electrocardiograph.

Usually the conductors — called leads — are connected to the forearms, left leg and chest near the heart. Each series of waves makes an electrical record of the changes that take place with one beat of the heart. Because only one wave may be abnormal in the presence of heart disease, more than one lead is necessary to make an accurate diagnosis.

DESPITE THE great value of the ECG, it does not give all the necessary information about the condition of the heart. For example, it cannot tell for certain if the heart is all right or strong. When evaluated along with heart x-rays, exercise tests, heart sounds and blood tests, however, it helps your doctor to diagnose the exact condition of your heart with great accuracy. With this information, he can be alerted to trouble early and begin treatment that may spare your heart for years to come.

So, if your physician has advised an ECG, be glad he did.

Do-It-Yourselfer Finds It's Chore to Refinish Furniture

by BETTY AINSLIE

"It's really nothing to refinishing furniture," declared the salesgirl at the general junk shop where a group of us were looking for a hidden treasure.

The nothing-to-refinish was a small drop-leaf end table — sorta on the butterfly variety and now covered with a dark ugly, mahogany stain. The table top held a fine inlay and many scratches; but under all of its flaws I could see the really lovely wood grain and careful workmanship. Now if I could only refinish the thing myself.

Now I've redone a few pieces. I recollect a bilious, green painted chest I bought figuring to do the heroic task of removing the obnoxious paint and uncovering the really good cherry wood underneath. But after a few vain attempts to labor through the coats of lacquer I finally just painted the whole thing white and used it as a toy chest for the children.

But this little table now — that would be different. This was merely varnish I was dealing with I kept telling myself.

"A matter of a few hours of fun to remove that top stain," continued the eager-to-sell salesgirl.

SO I CARTED home a table which at that minute would certainly not take any prize in a decorator magazine. The inlaid top had me curious. Could I make something attractive from the dark, scratched mess I was paying dollars for?

These second hand junk stores are fascinating places. Now you've probably thrown away things that might be better than your purchase, but it's the fun of the search for something different. Under all that varnish or paint might be a real treasure. But if you're serious about getting some truly unusual things at bargain prices you have to know how to do the refinishing job.

Maybe you can visualize a finished treasure quicker than that gal in mink searching with gloved hands through assorted picture frames. Your small hoard of cash can buy a "possibility" right out from under her nose. It's recognizing something unusual before the other person that makes the search fun.

FOR INSTANCE, I've a friend who purchased an old Victorian dresser back — one that was a horrible dark wreck of black paint. It had two small, round candle stands in disrepair and in general it looked as if little could be salvaged from the piece.

Using white paint and a gold spray she made a conversation piece for her living room wall — showing what imagination and a bit of paint can make of an inexpensive "possibility."

But back to refinishing. I took my small table home and after advice from friends purchased several pads of course steel wool, a suggested paint and varnish remover, a small brush, an inexpensive big brush and some rubber gloves.

Directions state that when the surface bubbles after you've applied the remover you just sorta wash off.

WELL, AFTER FIVE applications of remover, I was discovering a really interesting finish underneath all the dark stain.

A small paint brush works nicely on curlicues or swirly legs and a wide old paint brush is fine to apply the remover to tops and large sections. It is best to do the work in the garage or in a well ventilated basement as the odor can be overpowering.

When small blisters appear on the surface you've reached the moment of decision. Should you remove with a rag or the coarse steel wool. Steel wool works fine until you get right down to the grain as it will remove the stubborn spots.

After getting it down to the finish you desire, (it gets lighter the more you work on it) you can use a wood stain of the finish you want — let dry and finally apply a wax protective coating and there you are. A beauty and you did it all yourself.

NOW THIS IS what my friends and the books declare. But after six hours of rubbing I'm feeling muscles I never knew existed. But the table is down to a light brown, attractive wood and I've reached one conclusion. The remover must do some work — it says so on the can — but by golly it's just good old fashioned dab on and remove, dab on and remove and just a lot of patience and brute strength to get down to an original wood.

Finally, when the natural grain and loveliness breaks through under my efforts, I'll be eager to boast that I did the refinishing job myself. That this bright, new piece of furniture changed under my hands and besides Pop agrees that it really was a bargain now that the finished product looks so attractive. (S

Pork Chops Luau Makes Great Barbecue Dish

THICK, LEAN PORK CHOPS become superb outdoor fare in this spectacular cookout recipe. Chops are marinated in sweet-sour mix then grilled to perfection with barbecue sauce. (SH

If you are planning a patio party, why don't you serve Pork Chops Luau, a spectacular dish that was developed at America's Cookout Championship "for men only" last month in Hawaii.

The recipe is easy, and you will get tender and beautiful chops achieved with very few ingredients.

In the Kaiser Foil national barbecue competition one of 25 finalists seasoned his chops for 24 hours in a mixture of vinegar and brown sugar.

AFTER ACTUAL grilling started, the chops were sprinkled with several commercially prepared seasonings—barbecue spice, charcoal seasoning and barbecue sauce.

The chops are turned occasionally to brown and glaze evenly. In about an hour they are ready to serve.

PORK CHOPS LUAU
(Makes 6 Servings)

6 lean pork chops, 1-inch thick
½ pound dark brown sugar
Apple cider vinegar
Barbecue spice
Charcoal seasoning
Salt
Pepper
1½ cups barbecue sauce
Quilted heavy-duty foil

Rub chops with a paste made by combining brown sugar with enough apple cider vinegar to form a thick, heavy paste, Place chops in a deep pan and marinate in refrigerator for 24 hours.

Line grill with quilted foil; let coals burn down until covered with gray ashes.

Remove chops to grill; reserve marinade. Sprinkle chops liberally with barbecue spice, charcoal seasoning, salt and pepper. Grill for 15 minutes, then baste with remainder of marinade.

Continue grilling, turning occasionally and basting with barbecue sauce, for approximately 1 hour, or until chops are done.

Simplicity is Keynote Of Backyard 'Banquet'

A "lip smackin'" chicken dinner will get the outdoor eating season off to a flying start.

Mom gets a break here because the preparation time is cut to the minimum, and it's no secret that the other members of the family love to picnic in the back yard!

Simplicity should be the keynote of the outdoor "Banquet." Use paper plates, cups and napkins. Complete the fried chicken dinner with finger-foods so that there won't be any fuss with knives and forks. Plan to prepare the chicken in a frying pan that can be used as a serving dish, too. Some easy-to-clean utensils are designed to do "double duty."

ONE OF THE newest utensils is a porcelain-on-steel chicken fryer. Made by the United States Stamping Co., the pioneer manufacturer of decorative porcelain cookware, the chicken fryer features an eye-catching Fiesta pattern.

The smooth, non-porous finish of this chicken fryer makes it as easy to clean as an ordinary dish. Even the crusted residue from the chicken washes away with just a little pre-soaking in warm water.

The fryer also has an ovenproof handle and a matching cover that aids in spatter-free cooking. It is available at local department and hardware stores in both eight and 10-inch sizes. Between uses the fryer can be hung on the wall as a decorative accent since the Fiesta design also appears on the bottom of the utensil.

Here's an excellent recipe for your festive chicken fry.

FIESTA CHICKEN

1 2½ to 3 pound broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
¾ cup flour
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon paprika
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon tarragon
1/3 cup butter
2/3 cup olive oil

Rinse chicken with water; drain, but do not dry. Combine flour, salt, paprika, pepper, and tarragon in a paper bag; add a few pieces of chicken at a time and shake to coat.

Combine butter and olive oil in chicken fryer to a depth of ½-inch. Heat through, but not to smoking point. Add larger pieces of chicken first, then smaller ones. Brown on both sides (about 15 minutes).

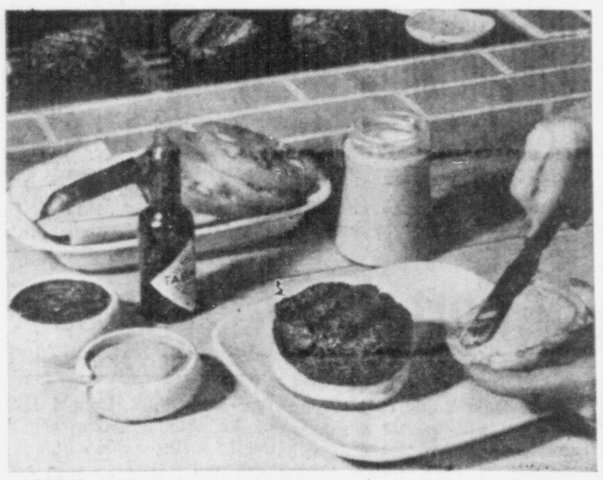
REDUCE HEAT, cover tightly, and cook about 30 minutes more until tender. If crisp crust is desired, uncover for last 10 minutes of cooking time.

Good finger-eating accompanniments for your outdoor fried chicken dinner might include assorted relishes, potato chips, and hot corn on the cob. Top the meal off with a choice of hot coffee or iced beverage.

Your outdoor season will be off to a fine start—one that will be easy on you, the homemaker, and fun for every member of your family. (SH

YOUR FIRST MEAL in the great outdoors can be simple and easy to prepare if you cook and serve foods from the same utensil, such as the finger foods above nestled in decorative Fiesta porcelain ware. (SH

Cheeseburgers Picnic Bound



BOUND FOR A PICNIC, hamburgers become extra delicious with topping of cheese spread. A liquid red pepper sauce adds zesty flavor.

Americans have been enjoying hamburgers for a little over 60 years. The fad for eating shredded raw red meat became popular in Hamburg, Germany, when it was the largest seaport in Europe.

German sailors frequenting food stands along New York City's piers before 1900 requested their beef be chopped and stuffed in buns so they could take it back to their ships.

Not long after, the cooked hamburger in a bun made its American debut at the St. Louis Fair of 1903-04.

GOOD GROUND beef combined with a little ground pork, properly seasoned with Tabasco liquid red pepper sauce to bring out the rich flavor, will make delicious hamburgers to grill outdoors. It's easy to make cheeseburgers by blending a little Tabasco with a jar of commercial cheese spread and topping the broiled patties with it.

Ground meat is perishable, so store the fresh product in the coldest part of your refrigerator and use within at least two days of purchase. Loosen the wrap on ready-packaged meat to allow air circulation, as slight surface drying retards bacterial action.

When putting hamburgers together, handle them as little as possible to help insure juiciness and tenderness.

CHEESEBURGERS

1 teaspoon Tabasco
1 teaspoon onion powder
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ cup milk or tomato juice
1½ pounds ground beef
¼ pound ground pork
2 teaspoons salt

Add Tabasco, onion powder and dry mustard to milk or tomato juice. Pour over ground beef and pork, sprinkle with salt; mix lightly with fork. Shape into 8 large patties.

Place on grill over hot coals; cook 4 to 5 minutes on each side, depending on desired doneness and thickness of patties.

Cheese Topping:

¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 jar (8 ounces) cheese spread

Stir Tabasco into cheese spread. When patties are broiled, place on toasted bun. Spread with cheese topping before closing. Yield: eight large cheeseburgers. (SH

Villagers Anticipate Gala Evening at Post and Paddock

STRUMMING UP their own dance music and fun while their mothers completed plans for the Arlington Heights Infant Welfare's annual Post and Paddock Party at Arlington Park are the children of Mrs. William Brinkworth, Mrs. Paul Knott and Mrs. John Kramer. The women spent the recent holiday working on table reservations for the Friday, June 3 dinner dance. (S

This Friday, June 4, will be a significant date for local party-goers, for it will mark one of the few occasions when the exclusive Post and Paddock Club at Arlington Park will have been opened to an area benefit group. Friday evening's affair is sponsored by Arlington Heights Infant Welfare Center and is a repeat of the group's gala dinner dance of last year.

The affair is the club's largest annual fund-raiser and will actually begin for many of the guests, at the afternoon races. This year's tickets, as did last year's, include stubs for attending and viewing the races from the Post and Paddock.

Beginning at 6:30 cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served in the club, followed by dinner at 8:30. Dinner, will again include a large assortment of both hot and cold gourmet foods prepared by the Post and Paddock chef and a tray of the club's famous desserts. Following dinner, George Famelli's orchestra will provide music for dancing.

MEMBERS OF THE Arlington Heights Center of the Infant Welfare, of which Mrs. James Mason is president, have been working closely with officials of the Post and Paddock Club to assure their guests another glamorous evening.

Mrs. Jack Kramer, projects chairman of the group, stated that proceeds of the affair will go to the Infant Welfare Society which aids needy children and their mothers. The Society provides a program of pre-natal care for mothers, professional care for children up to school age and staffs the Society's Child Guidance Center Besides financial aid, area Infant Welfare members donate their time to assist doctors and nurses in the stations and also collect and donate clothing for the mothers and children who receive free help at these stations. AAUW Speaker Tells Of Life in Pakistan

Complaining because your commuter husband has long hours? Wives who do should talk to Mrs. Rolland Kaser of 425 S. Princeton, Arlington Heights. Her husband "commutes" to Pakistan, a month at a time. A civil engineer, he is head of a Chicago engineering firm's reclamation department and makes regular flying visits to Pakistan to supervise their projects there.

Mrs. Kaser's friends heard of her adventures during an earlier, longer overseas trip stay at a meeting recently of the Leisure study group of the Arlington Heights American Association of University Women.

Meeting in the Kasers' Westgate home, they saw slides taken during the family's 2-year stay in Lebanon. Mrs. Kaser also showed some of her souvenirs, used now as living room accents, of that visit to the Middle East. She taught in a demonstration school in Lebanon as she did later when the family spent three years in Iraq.

WHILE THEY enjoyed Lebanon, their stay in Iraq was more exciting. It took place during the time when revolutionaries slew the Iraqi king and took over the government.

"We left after a group of revolutionaries invaded our home with bayonets," explains Mrs. Kaser. Even before that scary visit the country had become an uncomfortable place to live in. Her children, then of grade school age, could not be allowed out on the streets alone.

Her husband has had some close calls, too. He was scheduled to take a Pakistani flight to Cairo, Egypt, recently. Fortunately he changed his plans, for at Cairo the airplane crashed.

MRS. KASER'S program was one of a number held this year by members of the AAUW leisure study group, organized in midyear as the AAUW branch's first daytime study meeting. Its leader, Mrs. T. A. Meyer, will continue in that capacity next year when the study group takes up a study of "The Law and the Citizen," one of the AAUW key topics for 1965-67.

Mrs. Kaser plans to remain in Arlington Heights — and in the study group - - until all her children are out of school. Then she says, she would like to spend some time overseas again.

"But not permanently," she adds. "I've travelled enough that it's nice to be able to put roots down." (S

MRS. ROLLAND KASER uses a brass coffee pot, typical of those used in the Middle East to pour coffee for a fellow AAUW member, Mrs. A. B. Comer, 306 S. Reuter, Arlington Heights. The coffee pot, tiny Turkish coffee cups, and elegant brass tray now acting as a coffee table are all mementos of Mrs. Kaser's five years overseas, first in Lebanon and later in Iraq. (S

Q. Is it ever proper to tip any of the personnel of an airplane?

A. No.

Q. Please suggest a note of condolence I might write to a very good friend who has recently been bereaved?

A. "Dearest Mary: Words are so inadequate sometimes when it comes to expressing oneself. I can only tell you that you are in our hearts and thoughts and if there is anyting we can do for you, we hope that you will let us know immediately. With warmest sympathy and love, Susan."

YOUNG DESIGNER poses with award-winning ensemble. Phyllis Weitzel of Palatine, a student at the School of Design of the Art Institute, created the three-piece dark green wool suit worn by model at her left. The design, the only one to be chosen from the suburbs, was one of several appearing in exclusive showings both at Goodman and Hillside Theatres earlier this week. Carl Swansons Tour Covered Bridges During Honeymoon

A tour of romantic covered bridges was included in the honeymoon plans of the former Harriet F. Wickersheim, daughter of the Harry F. Wickersheims, 35 S. Kerwood, Palatine, and her bridegroom, Carl E. Swanson, son of Mrs. Alfred Lageschulte of Chicago, a former Barrington resident. While honeymooning at Turkey Run State Park in Indiana, the newlyweds visited many of the 38 old historic bridges in Parke County as well as Racoon State Park.

The couple's double ring wedding took place April 24 in St. Theresa Church, Palatine with Fr. Raymond Sullivan officiating. Flowers decorating the church were white stock, white glads and green fuji mums. The 3 o'clock service was followed by a buffet dinner and reception for 300 guests at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Barrington.

THE BRIDE'S wedding gown was a floor-length modified empire of white nylon organza over white taffeta fashioned with detachable chapel train. The bodice, border of the skirt and tip of the train were trimmed with chantilly lace. The bodice was also trimmed with hand-embroidered sequins, and her elbow-length veil was held in place by a crown of silk net leaves, pearls and sequins. White cymbidium, white roses and ivy made up her bridal bouquet.

Mr. Wickersheim gave his daughter in marriage.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Ann Seliger of Palatine, while bridesmaids were Miss Lis Svendsen, also of Palatine, and Mrs. Frank Podzimek of Rolling Meadows. Their gowns were floor-length empire A-lines of linen type ottoman, trimmed at the waist by avocado green satin bands edged with heavy yellow lace. The attendants carried cascades of green cymbidium with trailing ivy.

Also in the wedding party were a flower girl and ring bearer. Four-year-old Diana Weseman, niece of the groom, the flower girl, wore a floor-length pale yellow nylon organza gown over yellow taffeta and carried a harvest basket of white daisies. Diana is from Carpentersville. From McHenry came the 5-year-old ring bearer, Paul Nauman, nephew of the bride.

LIGHT BLUE was the choice of the bride's mother, who wore a silk shantung 2-piece dress with blue hat and bone accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids.

Attending the groom as best man was Wilmer Dreyer of Palatine. Ushers were the groom's brother, Robert Swanson of Carpentersville and Frank Podzimek of Rolling Meadows.

The newlyweds are residing in Barrington where both are employed by the Jewel Tea Co., Inc. The bride is a graduate of Palatine High School and studied at Creighton University, De Paul University and the Ray Vogue School. Her bridegroom took correspondence courses from the University of Maryland. (S

RN Club's Past President Perfects Recipes

ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR recipes appearing in the Arlington Heights RN Cook Book is Mrs. Charles Bloecker's Cherry Coconut Bars. These cookies have a rich, shortbread-like crust and a chewy filling containing chopped cherries, nuts and coconut. They are especially nice to include in a cookies assortment for afternoon coffee parties.

Caesar Salad Is 'Par Excellance'

by LOIS SEILER

Her accomplishments both as a cook and as a willing and tireless worker for the philanthropic endeavors of the Arlington Heights Nurses' Club entitles Mrs. Charles F. Bloecker to truly be called a "successful homemaker."

As a charter member of the nurses' club and one of its past presidents, she has devoted 38 years of service to this organization and is enthusiastic about the club's latest project, the RN Cookbook, which will help perpetuate the club's worthwhile activities.

A non profit organization, the nurses' club maintains a lending closet which loans over 500 pieces of sickroom equipment (hospital beds, wheel chairs, crutches, etc.) per year at no charge to the borrowers. It also awards $600 in nursing scholarships to two young women entering nurses training each year.

"Arlington Heights was the first community in the state to organize a non-profit nurses club," said Mrs. Bloecker, "and all the surrounding suburbs from Park Ridge to Dundee are an outgrowth of this club."

Not only do the members devote service to the community, but club programs are also designed to keep them informed of the latest nursing trends.

TWO OF Mrs. Bloecker's recipes which appear in the new RN Cookbook have created quite a stir among those who have purchased the book. Her Caesar salad has been rated "par excellence," and her cherry coconut bars seem to have unanimous appeal.

"Naturally we all submitted our most popular recipes, "Marion Bloecker said. "I was served the cherry coconut bars at the home of a friend several years ago," she continued, "and was delighted to add this recipe to my own collection."

These cookies have a rich shortbread-like bottom crust which is baked first. It is then spread with an egg-sugar-flour mixture which also contains coconut, maraschino cherries and chopped nuts.

Returned to the oven for an additional baking period, the cherry cookies are cut into small squares while warm.

"THESE COOKIES look Christmasy with their bits of red cherries," said Mrs. Bloecker, but they are good for special occasions any time of the year, such as afternoon teas or coffee parties. And they will keep well stored in a covered container."

Men as well as women enjoy this good cook's appealing Caesar salad. The original recipe this good cook's appealing Caesar salad. The original recipe came from a cookbook, but Mrs. Bloecker simplified it and changed some of the ingredients to suit her taste.

She uses head lettuce and curly endive as greens, and tops them with anchovy fillets, diced tomatoes and croutons. Oil (which can be flavored with garlic) is poured over the greens first, and then a mixture of egg, lemon juice, Parmesan cheese and seasonings.

Tossed lightly, this flavorful salad makes a delightful accompaniment for steak or roast beef.

IN ADDITION to her nurses' club activities, Mrs. Bloecker belongs to chapter FW of PEO and is a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

The Bloeckers live at 821 N. Vail in Arlington Heights. They have a son, Robert, a married daughter, Mrs. Earl Bennett of Algonquin, and one granddaughter.

Mrs. Bloecker suggests that anyone desiring a copy of the RN Cookbook call Mrs. John Langhenry, 392-3598. The cost: $1.50.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Beef porterhouse steak.

Q. Where does it come from? How is it identified?

A. This steak is the largest from the short loin section. It has the distinction of having the largest tenderloin muscle of any steak. This is the smaller muscle which lies to the left of the T-shaped bone. To the right of the bone is the largest portion of meat, known as the loin eye muscle.

A change from older meat cutting methods has eliminated the flank muscle, often called the "tail" of the porterhouse steak.

Q. What is the difference between the porterhouse and T-bone steak?

A. Often the designations are used interchangeably. If the two steaks are side by side, the one with larger tenderloin muscle is called porterhouise.

Q. How is porterhouse steak prepared?

A. By broiling. Porterhouse steaks which are 1 inch thick need 18 to 20 minutes total broiling time for rare and 20 20 to 25 minutes for medium-done. Do not preheat broiler. Seaon with salt and pepper after browing.

Charcoal Steaks With Blue Cheese

Thick, juicy steaks charcoaled just the way you like them and topped with a tangy American blue cheese spread will be delicious eating to help you raise the flag on June 14, Flag Day.

The zesty topping, with just a bit of "bite" to it, will enhance the hearty goodness of juicy steaks.

Complete your Flag Day barbecue with potatoes, baked over the coals, a crisp tossed salad, and fudge brownies for dessert.

MEMORABLE TOPPING

(Makes about ¾ cup)

¼ pound butter (1 stick)
¼ cup crumbled American blue cheese (about 1¼ ounces)
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
Dash of hot pepper sauce
Pinch of sugar

Whip butter and cheese together. Add the rest of the ingredients. Mix well. Refrigerate until serving time. (SH

Pork is Tasty En Brochette

French cookery has endowed us with the term "en brochette," which means cooking pieces of meat on a small skewer.

Kabobs, kebabs, shish kebobs are also meat cooked "en brochette." These names, however, were formerly associated with outdoor cooking.

EITHER KABOB or en brochette cookery, indoors or out, employs dry heat: roasting or broiling. This requires a tender cut of meat, maintains Reba Staggs, widely known meat authority.

BROCHETTE SHANGRI-LA

2 pounds pork tenderloin, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 can (4½ ounces) large whole mushrooms
3 medium onions, cut in ¼-inch slices
8 five-inch wooden skewers
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
½ cup dry bread crumbs
¼ cup melted butter or margarine
Cooked wild rice, if desired.

Drain musbrooms and reserve liquid. Place 4 pieces of pork tenderloin alternately with 3 onion slices on each wooden skewer. Combine salt, pepper and crumbs.

Brush meat and onion with butter or margarine. Roll in seasoned crumbs. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 to 60 minutes.

About 5 minutes before done, place a whole mushroom at the end of each skewer. Return to oven and continue baking until done. Serve with Sour Cream Sauce over wild rice, if desired. Eight servings.

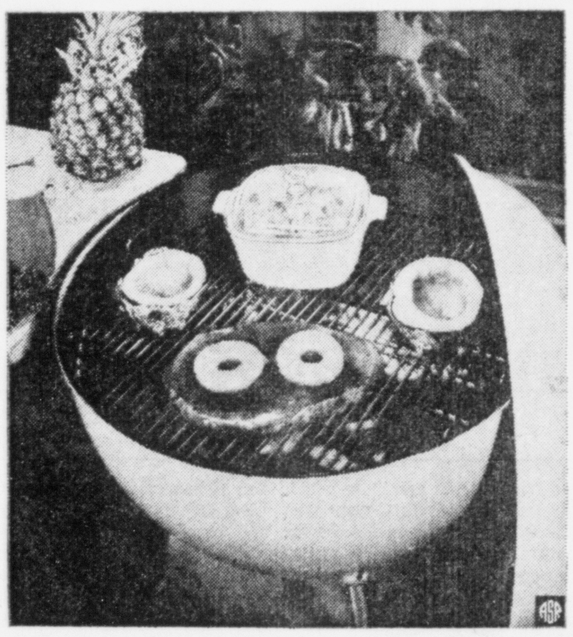
SOUR CREAM SAUCE

Mushroom liquid
Water
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup dairy sour cream

Add water to mushroom liquid to make 1 cup. Make a smooth paste of flour and liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Stir in onion, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Remove from heat and fold in sour cream. Cook, just until heated through, about 5 minutes. Yield: 2 cups. (SH

Kettle Casserole



Cookout recipes don't have to be complicated to be elegant and tasteful. Using a covered barbecue kettle lets the backyard chef prepare just about anything—including casseroles.

For this menu, rings of pineapple have been added to give the cookout a Hawaiian touch.

To cook ham, acorn squash and a casserole serving six, use about 60 charcoal briquettes and spread around so there is a medium thick layer of charcoal over bottom of barbecue kettle.

SCALLOPED POTATO CASSEROLE

6 to 7 raw potatoes
1 small onion
1 can consomme
1 tablespoon Ac'cent
1 tablespoon parsley flakes

Butter the casserole dish, then slice the potatoes thin. Add remaining ingredients, bake in covered barbecue about two hours.

HAM SLICES

Use slices of ham about ¾ to 1 inch thick. Spread mustard on ham, add pineapple rings, and bake on barbecue grille about 15 to 20 minutes. Not necessary to turn. Two large slices will serve six.

ACORN SQUASH

Select two good size squash, cut in half lengthwise and clean out seeds carefully. Pierce the inside about 10 times with a fork, then add pat of butter and teaspoon of honey to each half.

Piercing allows butter and honey to penetrate squash. Season with salt and pepper. Wrap outside (but not top) with aluminum foil. Cooking time: About one hour.

Place the casserole in the covered barbecue, let bake for about one hour, then add squash. Last 20 minutes, add ham slices. (SH

Special Resource Class

Deaf Children Are Helped To Know a World of Sounds

RADIO RECEIVER and harness worn here by Judy Green and other elementary students in the hard-of-hearing class at the William Busse School, in Mount Prospect, are everyday items for the students. (A15

Some persons live in a world of confused sounds which buzzes between deafness and normal hearing.

Among them are 10 children ranging in age from 6 to 8 years who are enrolled in the hard-of-hearing resource room at the Busse school in Mount Prospect.

They are being tutored into a world of hearing and clear speech by Mrs. Barbara Shellist, one of the teachers in the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization.

AS YOU WATCH the youngsters you never would guess that they can't hear the sound of thunder or the roar of airplanes overhead.

They are prankish and playful as other children, and endowed with the same brainpower. Their most noticeable difference is in slurred speech, resulting from having missed spoken words, perhaps from birth on.

Yet, explains Mrs. Shellist, most of these children have become excellent lip readers, and most have their own hearing aids.

During school hours, the boys and girls wear a set of earphones and a shoulder harness holding a radio receiver the size of a sardine can.

Standing in front of the class, Mrs. Shellist holds a microphone in hand. Or she can broadcast from a phonograph.

YOU LOOK up at the ceiling and see a wire stretched in a loop around the room. That's for equalizing the sound, whether a child is in front, in back, or elsewhere in the building.

Seven out of the 10 children are enrolled in regular first or second grade classes. They keep pace with their grade while coming back to the resource room for speech and language therapy.

"I'm on the air from 9 to 5," Mrs. Shellist comments. Even when out of the resource room, the children are in radio contact.

She invites you to put on a head set. Pointing to the dial volume she says most of the children keep it at about 7. You turn it to 3 and your ears jar.

CHILDREN IN the class come not only from Mount Prospect, but from throughout the 10 elementary and high school districts in the cooperative Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization. Roughly this includes Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling Townships.

Special classes are part of the free public education of these children. Started in September 1964, the hard-of-hearing resource room was added to an existing list of programs for children with a variety of handicaps. These special classes are spread throughout all of the school districts. Children are carried to and from their homes by special buses.

Formerly hard-of-hearing children and deaf children were grouped together at a school in Elk Grove Village.

Now this grouping is considered unsound, since each group requires its own type of treatment.

Mrs. Shellist said that the hard-of-hearing children would acquire the speech flaws of the deaf children and the deaf children would learn the imperfections of the hard-of-hearing.

MISS HELEN Appeldoorn, director of special education for the organization, said that efforts are made to identify hard-of-hearing children at the earliest age possible.

At ages 3, 4 and 5 they may be placed in a special pre-school class at the Kensington School in Arlington Heights. This early placement will save them from lost years of communication with the world.

Of the 10 children in Mrs. Shellist's class, five came from Kensington, three from the Elk Grove class and two from regular classrooms, where they were discovered through the regular ear testing program.

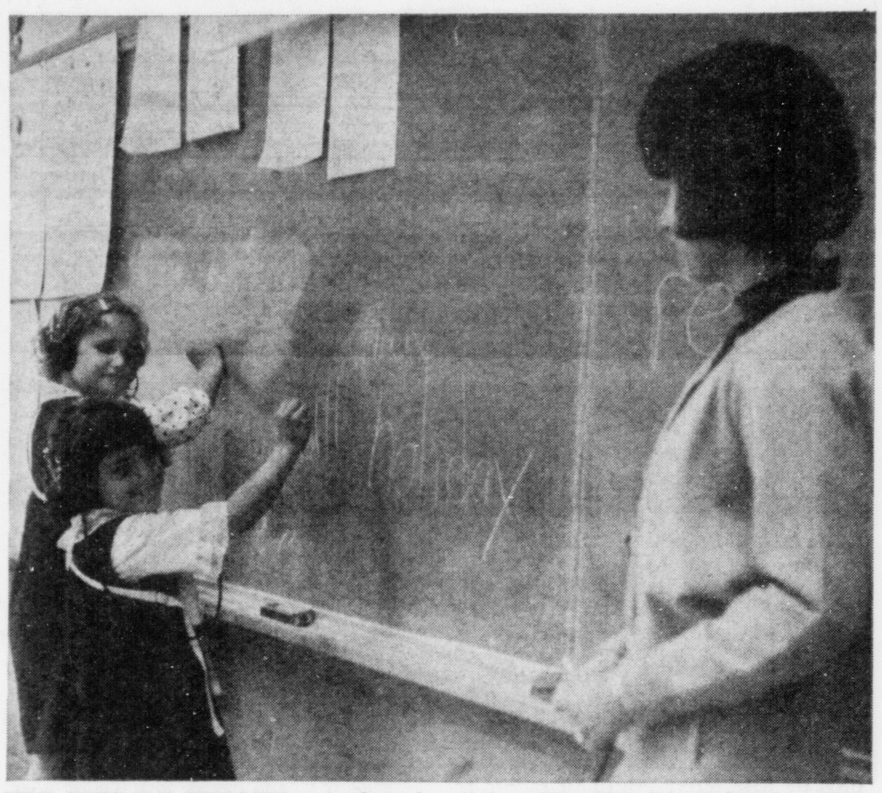
In theory, hard-of-hearing therapy should continue through senior high school. Children need continue training to keep them from developing bad lip reading habits. Also need children can be discovered in need of this assistance: a person can become hard of hearing at any stage of life.

THE NORTHWEST organization, is scheduled to extend the program next year to the intermediate grades and the following year to junior high school, and, hopefully, later to senior high school.

Do you feel sorry for the hard-of hearing child?

"Don't!" says Mrs. Shellist.

"The worst thing in the world for any handicapped child is pity. Too many parents pamper and spoil them. Help them be normal children." (A-15)



MRS. BARBARA SHELLIST, a teacher of 10 hard-of-hearing first and second graders helps Judy Green and Debbie Hagner, both seven-year-olds from Mount Prospect, with their spelling. This class is one of a number conducted by the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization, through which 10 school districts pool their resources.

Organ Club Meets Tuesday

The next meeting of the Lynn Lakin Students Organ Club will be Tuesday at the Encore Buffet, 6463 N. Northwest Hwy., Chicago. Serving will start at 7 p.m.

Judd Taylor, a professional organist from the Hammond Organ Co., will entertain at the organ.

Paul Arneman Honored for 40 Years Work at Paddock's

Calvin Coolidge was in the White House, Scarsdale and Stonegate subdivisions were both brand new, and the depression hadn't even been heard of when Paul Arneman first came to work for Paddock Publications.

Paul had three bosses, too, venerable H. C. Paddock with his cast-iron Dodge automobiles; and sons Stuart and Charlie, both of them involved in getting out the Cook County Herald, the Palatine Enterprise and the DuPage County Register.

A lot of things have changed since then, including the cost of living, the population of Arlington Heights, and the number of lines of type set by Paul Arneman prior to his retirement from Paddock Publications Friday, May 28, 1965.

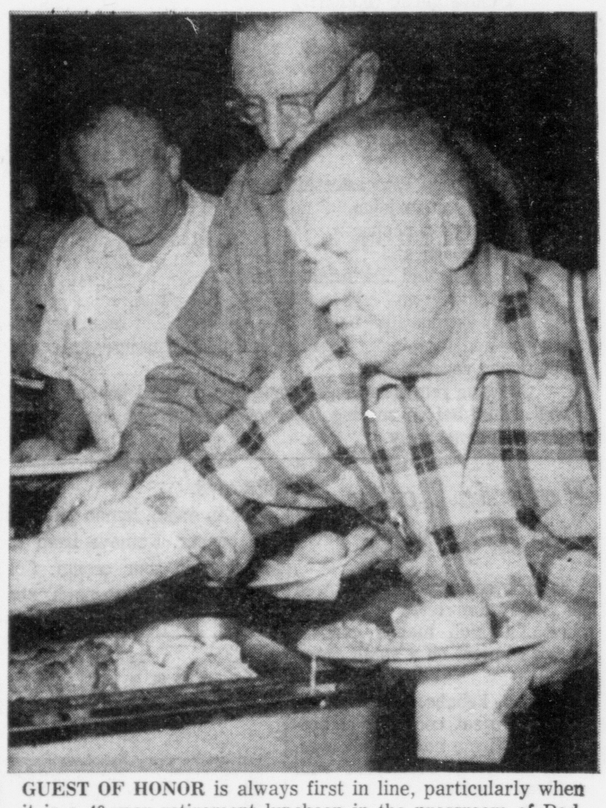
OVER A HUNDRED employes honored Paul Friday with a catered buffet luncheon in the pressroom as the 40-year veteran of the firm called it quits. Plant superintendent Bill Schoepke expressed the appreciation of all the Paddocks and employees Friday, wishing Paul good luck in his retirement.

Paul started working for Paddock's in the days when H. C. Paddock was still accepting barrels of apples as subscription payments. Each employe (there were four) was amply supplied from the barrels. In those days Paul composed and set all the heads for the paper, after the editor (Stuart Paddock) punched out the copy.

PAUL WAS one of the most popular machine compositors of those days, and during the succeeding 15 years, as he sat at the machine closest to the window. Kids and passersby often knocked on the window, waving to Paul. For a time Paul rode a bike in wartime, and became known as "the man with the bike with the skinny tires."

It was also a time of popularity of the Boston bulldog, with Paul and his wife, Maude, raising and loving the familiar short-haired dogs for many years. When Paddock moved to its new plant in 1939, Paul moved over with "his" machine, and helped set up the new operation. He worked alongside dozens of other operators, and even survived the approach of automated typesetting.

Paul will now spend most of his time relaxing in his backyard on South State road in Arlington Heights. He's certain to stop in at the office now and then, and have a cup of coffee with his mates. (A-15



GUEST OF HONOR is always first in line, particularly when it is a 40-year retirement luncheon in the pressroom of Paddock Publications. Paul Arneman filled his plate just ahead of other employees, was then accorded honors for his long tenure. (A

Where Does Blame Lie?

Park Districts Plagued With Vacation Vandalism

A lack of respect for public property seems to be the bane of park districts existence in the northwest suburban area.

And where does the fault lie? With the parents who have failed to point out to junior that destroying public property costs daddy money through increased taxes?

Or with the schools who have been unable to instill the social graces and amenities to junior when they mean nothing to daddy?

BOTH COULD be the reason, according to park district, school and police officials.

But how do you combat something as widespread and "okay" as breaking trees, stealing light bulbs, muddying swimming pools, breaking windows, painting signs, etc.?

Thomas Thornton, Arlington Heights Park District director, said "I don't think there is any way of combatting it, — unless the child is taught some respect for public property, which seems not to have been taught.

"Look around. These kids don't treat their own yards the way they do park land, or their own buildings the same as park buildings. They wouldn't think of doing it at home."

THORNTON DIDN'T blame just the teen segment of suburban life today.

He said adults also cause damage. He said adults vandalize the parks by leaving paper laying around, thereby teaching teens to do the same.

Adults are experts at grinding cigarets out on the floor of a building, leading the kids to do the same.

Thornton said Arlington spends about $5,000 a year on cleaning up and repairing and replacing the vandals "fun."

OTHER PARK districts were unable to place a dollar figure on the amount, asking how you put a dollar figure on cleaning and painting swimming pools the second time; cleaning signs that have been spray painted; clearing trees that have been mutilated by vandals; and so forth.

Thomas Cooper, of the Mount Prospect Park District, was willing to place a $500 figure on the damage. He said "Oh we spend about $500 through time wasted cleaning up afterwards. It isn't really a big thing, more of a nuisance than anything else."

Cooper attributed boredom and the month of August to his district's troubles. He said "Usually, about August, the kids take to sitting on the cars, leaning against the fences, and thinking. Baseball is over; swimming lessons have been going on for two months, school isn't ready to start, the kids are ready for the end of summer — it adds up to trouble."

HE COMMENTED, "The kids won't cut the grass at home, but they will come over to the park and tear a tree apart."

Leo Grosch, president of the Schaumburg Park District, complained that the teens apparently don't want the facilities provided for them.

He cited in particular damage and vandalism to the community swimming pool.

"Even after we had the pool cleaned of mud and debris this spring, it became a real challenge to see how big of a mud ball they could throw into it. We had to do the job a second time."

As to the cost of the vandalism, Grosch said, "The only thing, money wise, is the lamps. They dismantled the carriage lights at the pool, and some of the bulbs have been stolen from others. Of course, we had to replace the lanyard from the flag pole because someone broke the chain off of that.

"WHERE WE'VE lost the most is what has been done to young trees. I don't have the count, but the trees have been mutilated, bent over, twisted, why, one was even tied into a knot."

He added, "I very definitely feel parents have missed the boat in instilling respect for public property in the youngsters. There is just a lack of discipline in the home. If this continues, it just means they don't want the facilities."

"If it continues, the facilities just won't be kept up as nice. We jut can't afford it," concluded Grosch.

George Whittenberg, Mount Prospect police chief, said one effective cure for vandals is to be caught and their parents made to pay restitution. He said "Ordinarily paying for the damage seems to have a stunning effect and those kids don't repeat."

As to the reasons for malicious mischief, the nice phrase used sometimes to describe vandalism, Whittenberg said "Well, the only thing I would say is parents don't raise their children to respect other people's property. They don't teach them right from wrong."

VANDALISM SEEMS to increase with population. No official would say that proportionately more vandalism exists today than 20 years ago.

Donald Jensen of the Bensenville Police Force said he feels vandalism is caused by several factors.

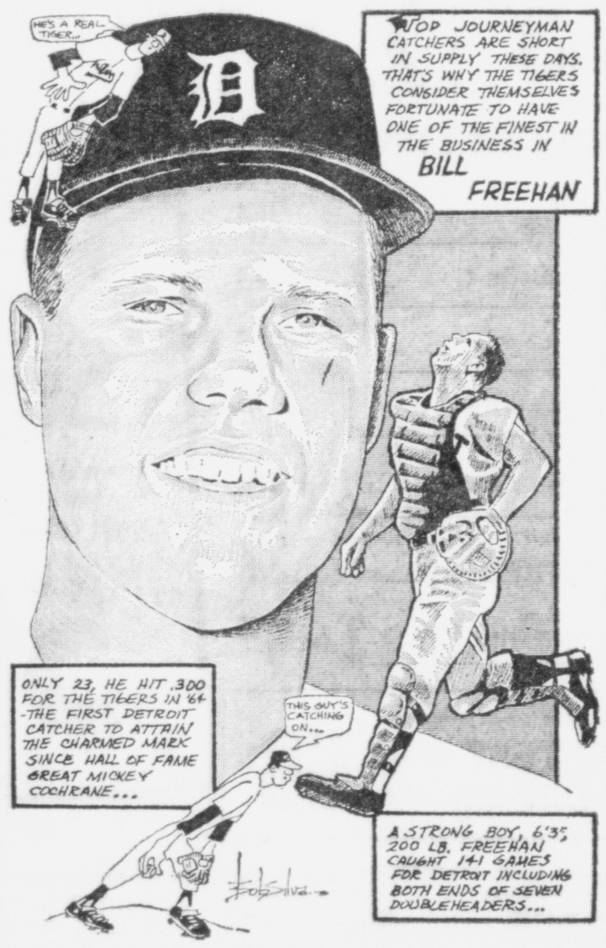
"Probably the biggest reason is the youngster who strikes out is not well adjusted, perhaps unhappy with home life and coupled with a little resentment towards adults. They aren't the type which would go to real criminal acts. They just want to express themselves."

BRUNO WAARA, principal of Arlington Heights High School and member of the Arlington Heights Youth Commission, perhaps summed it up best when he said "The taxpayer is going to pay for the damage, which means it comes out of the fathers pocket. But the children don't seem to realize that he will be paying the bills in just a few years through taxes."

SCHOOLS ARE not immune to vandalism either. Waara pointed out that damage may run as high as $1,000 at his school with window breakage, locker damage, and "other little things that add up to time and money."

Norman West, Fenton High School principal, said his student body is generally aware of the problem. He and Jensen agreed that Bensenville has few vandalism problems.

West, however, said the usual school vandalism is always present, such as desk marking. He added "However, my feeling would be that in our school vandalism is not very common. (A15



3 Editors Initiated Into SDX

Three Paddock Publications editors were among 16 newsmen initiated into membership in Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, at ceremonies Thursday night.

Conducting the initiation ceremony was Carter Davidson of CBS-Television, president of the Chicago Headline Club, professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

THE NEW MEMBERS from Paddock are:

—Daniel M. Pribilski, news editor of the Palatine Enterprise and staff writer for the chain's 15 other suburban newspapers;

—T. William Swinford, news editor of the Mount Prospect Herald and staff writer; and

The initiation was followed by the Headline Club's monthly dinner meeting in the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel, Chicago.

Ralph Otwell of the Chicago Sun-Times was elected president for next year, and Charles E. Hayes, executive editor of Paddock Publications, was elected to a one-year term on the board of directors.

Sigma Delta Chi is the largest professional journalistic organization in the world.

Founded in 1921, the Headline Club has more than 500 members representing all Chicago media. Its monthly meetings are Chicago's leading press forums, the city's counterpart of forums of the Overseas Press Club and National Press Club in New York and Washington, D. C. (A15

Forest Preserves Hoping 'To Bring Back Prairies'

A test program "to bring the prairies back to Cook County" was announced today by County Board President Seymour Simon, as neighboring states and the federal government watched with interest.

"With the prairies fast disappearing from this part of the prairie state, it is appropriate that some of their splendor be recaptured in the Forest Preserves as a legacy to future generations," Simon said.

Simon, who also is president of the Board of Forest Preserve District Commissioners, noted that the state law requires the district to keep the preserves in their natural condition as nearly as possible. To adhere to the statute, Simon said, district conservationists will utilize only those grasses which are native to the Cook County area.

THE FIRST trial plot is 22 acres in the Crabtree Lake preserve, just south of Barrington. The grasses chosen include those popularly known as Western Wheat, Little Blue Stem, Big Blue Stem, Indian grass and Green Needle grass.

The combinations being selected for the tests are those which existed when Cook County was almost completely covered with natural stands of prairie grasses, trees and flowering meadows. The grasses should range in height from two feet to more than six feet.

Later this season, Simon said, the district will plant another 100-acre test plot, in the Busse preserve, near Route 53 and Higgins Rd., just west of Palatine.

District conservationists hope that the tests will enable them to fulfill a broad prairie and meadow restoration program in conjunction with ongoing reforestation efforts—probably encompassing more than 10,000 acres.

DISTRICT OFFICIALS had to buy the seeds from Nebraska, where commercial outlets sell them mainly to Western and Midwestern farmers for forage purposes. Research took district experts to old texts, isolated spots in the preserves, the Morton Arboretum, other local botanists, the University of Chicago, the Illinois Natural History Survey in Urbana, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the National Park Service.

Not only Illinois and federal officials have expressed interests in the prairie planting experiment, but officials in Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana, Simon siad.

The board president pointed out that the importance of the prairie grass experiment could not be measured by its cost, which at the outset is less than $3,000. Further financial outlays probably will be avoided, Simon said, because of the hope that the test plots will serve as seed sources or nurseries from which to plant other areas.

NOT ONLY DOES the district hope to recreate the prairie beauty which is fast disappearing from Cook County, but to provide greater cover for wildlife.

Once established, strong prairie grasses will enable conservationists to prevent continued growth of undesired "scrub trees" such as the hawthorne and crabapple which, when left uncontrolled, become so dense that they crowd out other growing things without providing substantial shade for public recreation. Q. I was recently entertained at a luncheon by a friend. Wanting to return her favor, I subsequently invited her to my home, but she was unable to accept. Is my obligation to her fulfilled, or should I extend another invitation?

A. Your obligation is fulfilled only for the time being.

Q. If dining in the home of friends, and ashtrays are placed on the table, is it permissible to smoke between courses?

A. No. Wait until the meal is over. Even if some of the guests do, they shouldn't. Some folks find it very unpleasant to eat while smoke is wafting around them.

Q. Is it proper to greet friends while seated in church?

A. Obvious greetings are definitely in bad taste. A slight nod and a smile are sufficient recognition.

Suburban Living

Especially for Women

Karen Petersen Is Married In Prospect Heights Church

Since April 24, there have been two Donalds in the life of the former Karen Ileen Petersen. One, her father, Donald H. Petersen, escorted her to the altar of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church in Prospect Heights, and the other, Donald Joseph Riffle, escorted her from the altar after she became Mrs. Riffle. Both Mr. and Mrs. Petersen, Mount Prospect residents at 908 S. Lancaster, gave their daughter in marriage to the son of the Joseph F. Riffles, residents of Dixon, Ill.

Rev. Herman C. Noll officiated at the 4 o'clock, double ring service held amid a setting of glads and altar candles.

A floor-length gown of alencon lace over ivory satin was the bride's choice for her wedding dress. Fashioned with scooped neckline and long pointed sleeves, the gown also featured a back treatment which included French tulle tiers. Her veil of pure silk imported English illusion was held by a princess crown of pearls and crystals. White orchids, lily of the valley and stephanotis made up her bridal bouquet.

MISS JENNIFER MEYER of Woodstock was the bride's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Patricia Ryan of Mount Prospect and Miss Joan Staufenbiel of Prospect Heights. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Susan Summer, also of Prospect Heights. Their floor-length gowns were fashioned of parrot aqua peau de soie. Matching lace jackets topped their sleeveless, scooped necked bodices, and their bouquets were crescents of pale yellow plumeria and ivy.

As headpieces, the maid of honor wore three small roses made of the aqua peau, the bridesmaids each wore a single large rose and the junior bridesmaid a large bow.

Larry Riffle of Dixon served as his brother's best man and ushers were another brother, Roger Riffle of Chicago, Alan Flink also of Chicago and David Thorla of La Grange.

The reception was held in the social hall of the church where a buffet dinner was served to the 150 guests. Mrs. Petersen chose a turquoise sheath dress of silk crepe with matching net flower hat, while Mrs. Riffle was in a navy silk chiffon with hat of light blue netting. Both mothers had white orchid corsages.

THE NEW MRS. Riffle was graduated from Prospect High School after which she studied at the University of Illinois. She was also graduated from Bryant and Stratton Business College and is now employed by Littelfuse in Des Plaines. Her bridegroom also attended the University of Illinois as well as Allied School of Mechanical Trades. He is now with Charles A. Bruning Company in Mount Prospect.

Since their honeymoon at the Holiday Inn in Aurora, the couple has been residing at 4506 N. Racine, Chicago. (S

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Host a Party to Say 'So Long, Good Luck'

By DOLORES HAUGH

Goodby, farewell and all that kind of stuff is in the offering soon, as some lucky people are going abroad or to visit out-of-state or just plain leaving town for good. So, before they leave and in accordance with their earliest departure news, plan a "So Long and Good Luck Party."

INVITATIONS

Use the "carrier" they have chosen, car, train, plane, etc. Cut invitations from bright colored construction paper or buy them with plain front cover which can be decorated with a seal. Or, if you are artistic, a sketch of the carrier is appropriate.

Inside write the following:

We all just got the word and we
Just hate to see you go.
But a party we have planned
Because we like you so.
If and when the time arrives,
Come back to visit or to stay,
But come on over, (date below)—
We have farewells to say.

State time, place and ask each guest to bring something to be used en route, on arrival at destination, or if the person is moving, a lasting gift of silver may be presented along with small, "funny" gifts. Hostess may appoint a "gift committee" for this, providing them with guest list and phone numbers.

For a lady friend, you may have each guest bring an item for a Roll-Up Travel Kit. Some items are laundering detergent in small packets, miniature clothes lines or plastic pliable hooks for hose or gloves. Cleansing towels that may be tucked in a purse may add to the roll-up kit, together with traveling toothbrush, collapsible drinking cup, needle and thread, shower cap, or just use your own ideas.

The hostess hould provide the roll-up kit, which may be made by cutting a pretty piece of cotton, taffeta, brocade, or any bright colored fabric 20"x14". Cut plastic same size and sew together. On inside of plastic sew pockets of fabric lined in plastic. Insert velvet or satin ribbon at one end of long outside piece so it may tie the kit together. This kit is a real help when traveling.

Another idea is a box for the children, not the belt-in-the-head kind, though this helps at times. Cover a box lid with a road map, allowing one child to be the "route marker" and provide dark colored pencil not crayons, as they melt. Inside, much like a treasure hunt, have envelopes marked and packages marked, also. On the first envelope, instructions are "Open after you get to Tollway" (or any route they are starting on).

Inside the envelope, say "Open package one." This may be lollipops or gum, and this contains instructions for the next package such as "Next red barn open Package II," which may be coloring books or travel game.

Use your imagination and include an envelope for dad, containing an aspirin or two and for mother, two cotton wads for her ears and nerves.

Decorations

Use the same "carrier" model for a centerpiece, and if you are really ambitious, make a cake which looks like that carrier. Use a bright blue tablecloth, a map obtained from a gas station as the center mat and use bright red and white accents in flowers, napkins, cups, plates, placecards, etc., each reminding the guest of honor that they are truly Americans. If they are not, use their own country flag, and its colors. Games may be played using letters of destination, but mostly talk.

So say goodby in style to those "favorite people" and wave them off first class with a party just for them Have fun! (S

Wheeling Juniors Hold Installation

Wheeling Junior Women's Club highlighted its annual May banquet with the installation of the new officers. Installed were Mrs. John Koeppen as president, Mrs. A. Fassbender as second vice president, Mrs. G. Wallace as corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. Tyser as recording secretary, and Mrs. G. McMahon as treasurer.

Not present was Mrs. W. Carson who will be installed at a later date as first vice president. Doing the installing honors was Mrs. R. Spletzer, retiring president of the club.

Special guest for the evening was Mrs. Harold Thompson, who has just retired as the Seventh District Junior Director after two years in that capacity. The banquet, which ends the club's business year, was held May 18 at the Union Hotel in Wheeling.

Chairmen of all the club committees for the past club year gave their reports with general agreement that the Wheeling club had completed another year of fine philanthropic and civic work. In her acceptance speech, the new president gave her motto for the next year, "Come alive in '65," and pledged the club to continued efforts to interest residents of Wheeling in civic and community affairs, to beautify its properties, and to work for its betterment in every way possible.

The Lord's Judgment

"The Lord shall judge his people."
—Deuteronomy 32:36

St. Paul reminded the Hebrews that he who sinned wilfully after having received the knowledge of truth faced "a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation."

There should be little doubt that we shall all face judgment for our wilful sins. We do not see God's judgment of our actions in the same manner as we can witness the rulings of a judge in a court of law. But, we know that it exists.

As Christians, we should recognize that the death of Christ, a high price indeed, was a sacrifice for the sins of mankind. With this recognition, we should find a greater measure of faith to resist temptation and avoid sin.

Summer Repair Program Mapped

An extensive summer repair program for Arlington, Forest View and Prospect High Schools was approved by the District 214 school board Monday.

The board approved 75 per cent of the proposed total $1,454,500 building budget. Of this amount $259,600 is tentatively slated for maintenance, repairs and architectural surveys.

Painting at the three schools will cost $13,000. This is about the same amount spent last year, and is part of a four-year complete painting program at the three shcools.

Four washrooms in the older section of Arlington High School are included in a remodeling program. One washroom was remodeled last year. This summer two more washrooms will be done at a cost of $14,000. The fourth washroom will not be remodeled until a decision has been made on possible remodeling of the girls' locker room area.

AT PROSPECT, the inner set of two sets of doors to washrooms have developed frame problems. In order to solve the problem a baffle wall will be installed at a cost of $3,961 for six washrooms.

A major window replacement program in several sections of the older building at Arlington High will cost $30,000. Half of the replacements will be made this summer, with the balance to be replaced next year.

In order to provide needed additional classroom space, a partition will be built in Room A124 at Forest View High School. The room was originally used for the district program for educable mentally-handicapped students. These students now attend school in special rooms at Wheeling High School. Cost of dividing the large room will run $2,532.

Other programs include blind replacement at Arlington and Prospect, sealing and striping the parking lots at Forest View, repair of the bus loading area at Prospect, tennis court repairs at Arlington and reroofing the second section of roof at Arlington.

COST OF replacing the blinds is listed at $8,100, parking lot work is quoted at $9,859 and approximately $25,500 is budgeted for repair of the bus loading area and sidewalks.

The tennis court repairs would be $13,645 and the reroofing is quoted at $8,000.

Approval of 75 per cent of the building budget will enable work to begin on these projects on June 15 according to Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer. (ACM-E

Qualifications Listed For College Pre sident

The Community College District 301 board set in motion the quest for a college president Thursday when it approved qualifications for the post.

The major discussion of the board meeting concerned the salary for the top administrator of this newly formed northwest community college district.

Board member James Hamill's belief that a minimum salary range be specified instead of a flat figure was endorsed by the college consultants. As a result, the board members with the exception of Paul O'Dea agreed and voted on a salary range of $20,000 to $25,000 for the presidency.

Hamill originally had asked for an $18,000 minimum but the consultants advised the board this would be too low for the kind of man they hope to attract.

Hamill said the range would appeal to the same man as the flat $25,000, though it might not have "the flashy appeal." It might be better "public relations as far as the public," he said.

He argued that a "younger and more vigorous man" might be frightened off by a flat $25,000 figure. The public also might consider it "imprudent for the board to offer a man now earning $15,000 to $18,000, the $25,000," he said. "What do we do for an encore if we bring a man in at $25,000?" he asked.

O'DEA SAID the $25,000 figure was established because of the salary of the Rockford College president and because grade and high school superintendents are making $21,000 to $23,000 salaries, he said.

O'Dea suggested it would be a mistake to quibble over several thousand dollars when the board wants not just a "competent" but an "excellent" man.

A. M. Bernstein, board member, agreed with O'Dea saying "the job determines the salary." It might be needed for a man from the East or West Coast to consider resettling in this area, he said. "W're hiring a man we want to keep and he'll have a herculean job."

Mrs. Jesslyn Nicklas, board member, added that a man might require $25,000 and the college president must have the proper status and recognition in the community.

The consultants, Frank Endicott of Northeastern University, J. Marlow Slater of the U. of Illinois, and George Olson of the Lyons Community College, asked for the flexibility. Slater said any man would be astute enough to negotiate on salary.

THE CONSULTANTS commended the college board for its concise description of qualifications for a president.

Under personal qualities, the community college wants a man with "good health" and "considerable energy" since he'll be involved in the construction and staffing of the college. The board prefers a man 35 to 55 years old and with demonstrated ability to work with community groups, communicating orally and in written form.

Candidates must have a doctor's degree, experience of at least five years in administration and supervision at a junior or undergraduate college level, and previous experience in dealing with boards of education, supervising a building program and recruiting staff.

The board favors a candidate with "a firm commitment to the role of community college" and understanding of it. He should have ability "to provide effective educational leadership," an awareness of trends in community college education and professional programs, as well as the ability to coordinate and effectively direct the efforts of administrative and teaching staff.

THE CONSULTANTS will be working on a resume giving the type of area, the philosophy of the program, and the needs.

The board agreed with Olson that it wanted the president "expeditiously but not at the sacrifice of not getting the best man possible."

Olson was appointed chairman of the consultant committee that will begin recruiting for a president. (B10

Vista Area Officially In Village

The Arlington Vista subdivision officially became a part of Arlington Heights when builder William F. Harris signed over ownership of his water company to the Village of Arlington Heights for $125,000.

The vista, consisting of approximately 150 homes and about 600 residents, joined the village following many months of negotiations on a pre-annexation agreement that centered on purchase of the water company.

Vista residents will be among the first in the state to benefit from a bill introduced by Rep. Gene Schlickman of Arlington Heights, and signed last week by Gov. Otto Kerner, that calls for an automatic disconnect from a rural fire district when annexation to an established municipality is accomplished. (A

High School Board Fills Several Posts

Two new assistant principals, a student activity director, math department chairman and two acting department chairmen were named by the District 214 school board Monday.

Edward Spacapan, 41, was appointed as assistant principal for instructional services at Prospect High School. Spacapan replaces Donald Thomas, who was named the new Elk Grove High School principal several weeks ago.

EDWARD SPACAPAN

MILLARD L. YOUNT

Roland Goins, 36, will be the new assistant principal for instructional services at Wheeling High School. Goins, now division head for science and mathematics at Wheeling, will take over the position vacated by Thomas Shirley.

Shirley was named the new principal of Wheeling High starting July 1. On that date Dr. Russell Hill, current principal, will leave the district to begin duties as head of the University of Iowa laboratory school.

A NEW POSITION as director of student activities at Wheeling High School was filled with the appointment of Paul Mueller 34. Mueller presently is a chemistry teacher at Forest View High School.

Mueller lives at 243 Brucewood Drive, Buffalo Grove. He is a graduate of Arlington High School. He received his bachelot and master degrees from Northern Illinois University, and has been teaching in District 214 for seven years with assignments at both Arlington and Forest View.

Goins lives at 626 Merle, Wheeling, with his wife and four children. Before transferring to Wheeling High School on its opening last fall, Goins was at Arlington High for 8½ years. Part of his service at Arlington was as chairman of the science department.

Goins holds a bachelor's degree from Illinois Wesleyan University and a master's degree from University of Illinois.

No replacement has been named for his present position as Wheeling High science and math division head.

SPACAPAN is now chairman of the mathematics department at Prospect High School. He has been at Prospect since it opened in 1957, having previously taught math at Arlington High. He has been witht he district for 11½ years.

Spacapan lives at 2611 South St., Rolling Meadows, with his wife and four children, including a set of twins. He has a bachelor degree from Northern Illinois University and a master degree from Northwestern University.

Spacapan's present position as chairman of the mathematics department at Prospect will be taken by Millard L. Yount, 54. Yount has been with District 214 for four years, serving in the mathematics department at Prospect High.

Before the establishment of a full-time position as adult education and summer school director, Yount headed the District 214 summer school for two years. He is a former high school administrator at Pana, Ill.

YOUNT LIVES at 412 N. Fairview, Mount Prospect. His only daughter is teaching at Wheeling High School. He received his bachelor's degree from Eastern Illinois University, in Charlestown, and his master's degree from State University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Two temporary appointments also were approved by the school board.

Alfred Umberger, 37, was named as acting mathematics department chairman at Forest View. Umberger, who lives at 1036 Gladish Lane, Glenview, will serve as department chairman for a one year period.

Evan Shull, present chairman, will work during the 1965-66 school year in the central administrative offices as an instructional coordinator. His assignment will enable Roderick McLennan, coordinator, to have a year's sabatical leave to study for his doctorate.

Umberger received both his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Northwestern University.

MISS MARIE Hutchens will be acting department chairman for business administration at Prospect High School during 1965-66. Miss Hutchens, a teacher with 14 years of experience, has been in District 214 for two years. She holds a bachelor's and master's degree from University of Nebraska.

Miss Hutchens lives at 610 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights.

She replaces Louis Andy, who has taken a leave of absence for study toward his doctorate.

Eastwood Events

Bob and Louise Luedeking, 746 Beverly Lane, recently enjoyed a two-week business and pleasure trip in Europe. They flew SAS to Copenhagen, Denmark, then flew to Hamburg, Germany. From there they drove to Bonn, where they visited one of Louise's school friends whom she hadn't seen for more than 20 years. Then the Luedekings drove through Austria and on to Rome before their homeward flight.

Louise, scorekeeper for the Eastwood Bridge group, is now busy figuring the final bridge scores for next week's score announcement.

The Eastwood Bridge group's annual dinner dance will be held Saturday, June 5, at the Arlington Heights' Elks' Club. All Eastwooders are welcome to attend. Reservations must be made by Friday night by contacting Mrs. Robert Luedeking, CL 3-4135. She will also accept names of couples interested in next year's bridge tournament.

EASTWOODERS bid farewell to the James Ebbinghaus family of 309 N. Brighton Place. As Jim has accepted a new position as manager of advanced engineering for Allis-Chalmers, he and Mary and their children, David, Don, Janet and Joyce, will move next week to Milwaukee. With this move, Eastwooders are losing fine neighbors and an active bridge couple.

An ice cream choo-choo train helped lend a decorative air to Rebecca (Becky) Meyer's third birthday party May 18, when luncheon was served outdoors at the Meyers' home at 307 N. Hickory. The guest list included Becky's sisters, Pam, Sheryl and Kristin, and neighbors, Brian Cassidy, David Houser, Susie Louenstein, Susie Jochims, Toby Jones, Liz Poetzold and Catherine Ragussa.

Bill and Doris Stueber, 414 Beverly Lane, and their children Kurt and Karen, spent a pleasant time visiting Bill's mother, Mrs. William Stueber, in her home at Horicon, Wis. Highlight of the visit was Bill's high school class reunion on Saturday. They returned home in time for Kurt to be in the Memorial Day parade.

Among other Eastwooders who enjoyed marching in the parade were Pam and Sheryl Meyer, Gary Glader, Bruce Sweeney, Jimmy Cassidy, Steve and Michael Bartolone, Gaylor Jones and his son, Jeffrey.

ALTHOUGH May 29 as Chuck Pederson's birthday, with the three day tournament at Rolling Greens Golf Course, he was so busy that he couldn't find time for a celebration. Mary Jo did serve as hostess last week when the Pedersons entertained Canadian friends, Frank Udvari, head referee, and Ozzie Bluemell, scorekeeper for the American Hockey League. Mr. Udvari and Mr. Bluemell like to spend two days in their busy year playing golf at Rolling Greens where Chuck is the golf pro.

Memorial Day weekend found Don and Marietta Derebey, 416 N. Hickory, trout fishing in the Wolf River at Langlade, Wis. They and two couples from Des Plaines stayed in a cabin on the banks of the river. The couples returned home with trout as souvenirs of the weekend.

DON AND GEORGIA Buxton, 502 N. Hickkory, and their sons, Jeffrey, Michael and Christopher, spent the long weekend visiting Don's mother, Mrs. Walter Buxton in Webster Grove near St. Louis. As Grandmother Buxton is a member of the National Iris Board, her large estate was still showing evidence of her iris fields although the peak blooming season was over. Don, Georgia and the children spent some sun-drenched hours helping Mrs. Buxton with the gardening, as she is now readying her day lilies for a July showing. Then busloads of flower lovers are expected to view the fields.

A Sunday family gathering at the home of Don's brother, Kenneth, gave the Buxtons some unexpected pleasures. First they listened to a tape recording from Kenneth who is in South America for a few weeks, then they listened to a tape recording taken from a St. Louis radio broadcast historical program that spoke of two of Don's ancestors. Legislator Reveals Scholarship Winners

THURS., JUNE 3, 1965

An Arlington Heights girl and a Northbrook youth are winners of four-year all-tuition General Assembly scholarships awarded by State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D, Arlington Heights.

The scholarship winners, announced after their selection by a panel of high school guidance counselors, are:

Cheryl Lynn Moore, 1611 N. Wilke Road, Arlington Heights, a senior at Arlington High School, and William John Lannin, Northbrook, a senior at Glenbrook North High School.

MISS MOORE, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Leroy Moore, plans to attend Western Illinois University at Macomb. Active in Art Club and a Scholastic Art Show award winner, she plans to study that subject at WIU.

Lannin, who has been accepted at the University of Illinois at Urbana, ranked eleventh in a senior class of 312, and plans to major in history.

Each state legislator has two four-year all-tuition scholarships to award each year of his term. One General Assembly scholarship is for the University of Illinois; the other may be used at any other state-supported university.

CHERYL LYNN MOORE, Arlington High School senior, discusses her future college plans with State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman. Miss Moore will receive one of the two four-year, all-tuition General Assembly scholarships awarded by Mrs. Chapman. She plans to attend Western Illinois University to study art.

Mrs. Chapman's scholarships were awarded in open competition, announced publicly in each high school in an eight-township area, ranging from Barrington and Hanover Townships on the west to Northfield and Maine Townships on the east.

A COMMITTEE of high school counselors, headed by W. David Whiteside of High School District 214, made the initial contacts to schools, reviewed the applications and selected the winners.

Serving with Whiteside on that committee were Dr. Louise Paine, of Glenbrook Township High School, Northbrook; Merlin Schultz, Maine Township High School, Park Ridge, and Father Farrelly of St. Viator's High School, Arlington Heights.

Chosen as first alternate for the University of Illinois scholarship awarded by Mrs. Chapman was John Ciemny, Des Plaines, a student at Maryville Academy. Second alternate for the U. of I. scholarship was James Minter, Des Plaines, a student at St. Viator's High School.

WAYNE NAGEL, 1523 N. Yale, Arlington Heights, a student at Arlington High School, is first alternate for Mrs. Chapman's other all-tuition, four-year scholarship, to be used at a state school other than the University of Illinois. Second alternate for that scholarship is Deanna Krecker, 2507 School Drive, Rolling Meadows, a student at Forest View High School.

Mrs. Chapman's method of selecting her General Assembly scholarship winners is not unique. State Rep. Abner Mikva also uses a selection committee to recommend winners for his two. However, it is unusual. All state legislators award two scholarships each year and may do so on any basis that they choose.

Mrs. Chapman, an ex-teacher and former District 214 school board member, asked high school guidance counselors to select winners for her scholarships because she felt they could do the best job, choosing the recipients on academic ability, aptitude, promise and need.

St. Viator Launches State Bid Today

KICKIN' IT AROUND

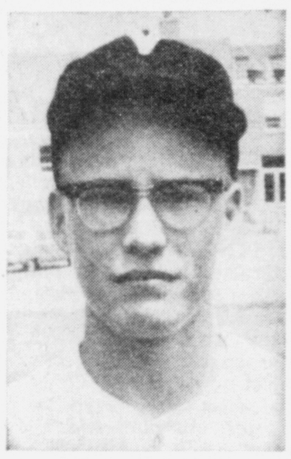
by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

IS IT YORK ALL OVER again? That's what St. Viator followers are asking this week as the state baseball tournament unfolds in Peoria. It's a logical question under the circumstances.

Unheralded and unrated York, a seventh place team in the West Suburban Conference in 1960 with a 4-10 record, climaxed a mediocre season by catching fire in the state championship series, knocking off Waukegan for the state title.

Today, an unheralded and unrated St. Viator nine, possessor of a 5-9 record before the state tourney series began three weeks ago, finds itself in Peoria with seven other high school outfits with the bigegst prize in Illinois prep baseball awaiting the winner of three more games.

There are similarities. Perhaps the most striking is found in the number of underclassmen on the two clubs. Beset with early season difficulties, York's Erl Ellingson had dropped several upperclassmen from the roster and replaced them with eager sophomores. The youngsters replied with some clutch performances.



JERRY DONAHUE

St. Viator's Len Sparacino has been working with a lineup loaded with underclassmen. He has two sophomores and two juniors as his top four pitchers. He has a junior at first, sophomore at short, and two of his young pitchers work in the outfield. Another regular outfielder is a junior. There's youth on the bench.

There's also an important blend of varsity experience on this St. Viator nine. Charley Heinrich at second base has been a varsity regular for three years. Catcher Tim Walinski, the team captain, is a senior and crack receiver. Ron Rose is a senior third baseman. Senior Mike Sheetz is available for outfield duty.

Pitching, labeled a definite question-mark by Sparacino at the outset of the season, has been tremendous in the pressure-packed tournament. Len called on fire-balling sophomore Jerry Donahue four times in the tourney series, and he responded with four wins, two shutouts. Junior John Loughman worked the district finale and checked Prospect, 6-5. Bobby Stevens, a sophomore left-hander with good speed, knocked down heavy-hitting Waukegan in the sectional championship, 1-0.

St. Viator carried a string of three straight shutouts and 24 consecutive scoreless innings by its mound staff into the opening state tourney game today (Thursday) with Peru St. Bede. Donahue had hurled 17 innings without yielding a run.

Depth in pitching is vital in the state tournament where, weather permitting, the champion and runner-up will have to play three games in two days. Sparacino hasn't indicated his tourney rotation, but he probably will open with ace Donahue. There's no tomorrow if he loses that one. Stevens could get the second call — if there is one — after his strong performance against touted Waukegan.

Bob came up with a sore shoulder after a nifty stint against powerful St. Ignatius in Chicagoland Prep League action and was used sparingly until the sectional finale. He had his ball moving against Waukegan.

The breaks have been coming St. Viator's way after a series of frustrating setbacks. Sparacino, who came to St. Viator from St. George, saw his club lose nine games before the tourney — four by one run and five by two runs. The Lions split with Holy Cross, another state tourney entry, with Donahue winning 3-2 and losing 1-0 in ten innings.

A rematch is possible between St. Viator and Holy Cross at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow (Friday). They're in the same bracket with Holy Cross catching tiny Waterloo. A rematch would make a good story. Holy Cross is coached by Frank Mariani, the man who guided the St. Viator baseball program for three years.

St. Viator is hot. They're getting the breaks. The pitching has been superb and the fielding flawless. Anything can happen in the state tourney. But win or lose in Peoria the Lions have written an exciting chapter into the school's athletic history.

Soph Stevens Yields Three Hits

Lions Check Waukegan, 1-0, For Sectional Tourney Title

by BOB FRISK

Do you know the best way to get to Peoria? St. Viator's varsity baseball team found out.

You take a short trip to Palatine, an even shorter trip to Arlington's Recreation Park, and then swing direct west to Belvidere, Ill.

The route is filled with formidable obstacles. There's drama at every corner. There's heartbreak for some.

St. Viator is in Peoria today for the state baseball tournament. The Lions survived three tournaments and a series of cliff-hangers. They won at Palatine, at Arlington Heights, and at Belvidere.

It wasn't easy. Coach Len Sparacino's surprising Chicagoland Prep League nine won its last three tourney games by 2-0, 1-0, and 1-0 scores. But they won and that's the important item in a single elimination tournament.

ST. VIATOR earned a berth in the state finals with a 1-0 conquest of highly regarded Waukegan last Thursday afternoon in Belvidere. Sophomore left-hander Bob Stevens checked the heavy-hitting Bulldogs with only three hits and sent them to their fourth loss in 21 games. They also sent Waukegan right hander Mike Macki to his first loss in eight outings.

The Lions had trouble with Macki, fanning nine times and collecting only two safeties on cold, windy afternoon, but the breaks came their way in the thid nnwnhhedceitiniisgvee third inning when the decisive run crossed the plate.

Don Kulla fanned to start things off in the third but reached base when the ball got past the catcher. Kulla moved to second on a passed ball and advanced to third on Bill Kaveney's grounder to second.

IN ACTION reminiscent of what transpired Tuesday against Freeport Lion center fielder John Loughman ripped a hard smash to Waukegan third baseman Dave Nielsen. Dave made a nice stop of the liner, but the run scored when his throw to first pulled Mike Wade off the bag.

In St. Viator's 1-0 win over Freeport the Lions scored their only marker when the third baseman again handled a hot

Knight Golfers Win Mid-Suburban Crown

Prospect's powerful golf squads completed an impressive season Thursday by clinching the varsity and frosh-soph championships of the Mid-Suburban Conference.

It was easy. Coach Warren Collier's rugged varsity, district champs again this spring, waltzed to a 15-stroke win in the conference headliner at Mount Prospect Country Club.

The Knight frosh-sophs showed 349 strokes for their low four men for a 22-stroke bulge over runnerup Deerfield.

The league championships in the Mid-Suburban are determined on the basis of both dual meets and the conference tourney. Prospect was 6-1 in varsity duals and 7-0 in the frosh-soph matches.

PROSPECT fashioned a 322 in the varsity action over the Mount Prospect layout with the winds bothering the golfers. Balance paid off with only four strokes separating the top five men.

Senior Dave Huntley of Prospect concluded a banner prep career by tying for medalist honors in the varsity competition. Huntley and Forest View's Jim Junkunc registered identical 79s, but Junkunc won the playoff for the first place medal.

Huntley, playing in the first foursome, went out in 39 and came in with a 40. Junkunc had identical totals.

Huntley was the Knight pacesetter but right behind were Doug Lytle and Bill Becker with 80s and Dave Lovgren and Jim Nettles with 83s.

Forest View finished third overall on a varsity level, standing 5-2 in the duals and second in the conference meet.

WHEELING DIDN'T win any league duals during the season but did tie Glenbrook North in the conference meet with a 356 effort. The Wildcats trailed Glenbrook by one point in the battle to escape the basement.

Wheeling, 1-6 in duals, posted a 404 in the conference meet for a seventh. The Wildcats finished seventh overall, one marker ahead of Niles North.

Ken Holliday paced the Wheeling entry with a 95. Scott Bischoff carded a 97 and Robert Selan (105) and Tom Robinson (107) also figured in the team total.

BILL KAVENEY WAS A big hitter for St. Viator High School in its march to the state baseball finals. The junior first baseman had five hits in two regional outings, and he scored the only Lion run in the 1-0 sectional conquest of Freeport, reaching on a bunt single. Kaveney has been hitting in the lead-off spot for the Lions. St. Viator opened its state bid today (Thursday) with a contest against St. Bede of Peru.

Lions Battle St. Bede Nine

Four Games on Opening Day In Illinois Tourney

by BOB FRISK

Peoria, Ill. is where the elite meet every year for the state baseball tournament. That elite field this year includes an amazing gang from St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

Coach Len Sparacino's unheralded Lions, just another club in a field of 427 that initiated state play four weeks ago, today stand as one of eight finalists in the 25th edition of the Illinois High School Association tournament.

The Lions, the first Paddock area entry to advance to the state diamond feature, arrived in Peoria last night (Wednesday). They were slated to open this morning at 9:30 against red-hot St. Bede of Peru. They hope to be around for two more games Friday.

THE LIONS' battle with St. Bede kicked off a schedule of four games on opening day at Tom Connor field in East Peoria. Holy Cross tangles with tiny Waterloo at 11:30 in the second morning game, and the afternoon struggles match Decatur MacArthur and Jacksonville at 2:00 and Lane Tech of Chicago and Peoria Manual at 4:00.

Semi-final games will be played at 9:30 and 11:30 a.m. Friday with the championship game at 4:00 that afternoon.

St. Viator's success story is one they'll talk about for a long time. Sparacino's outfit dropped nine of 14 regular season games, and those losses were painful — four by one run and five by two runs. They became accustomed to cliff-hangers. It helped. They didn't crack under pressure in the tourney action.

THE PRESSURE began at Palatine in the district. St. Viator tripped Palatine by three runs, 7-4, and Prospect by one, 6-5, but admittedly had played better baseball this year. The Lions took care of Highland Park (9-3) and Glenbrook North (2-0) in the Arlington Regional and looked much sharper. The pitching was coming around, the defense was superb, and they were getting the breaks.

Last week in Belvidere, St. Viator won two contests by identical 1-0 counts, eliminating Freeport and highly regarded Waukegan. Two sophomores flipped the shutouts.

The pitching has been remarkable with soph Jerry Donahue the key man. Jerry, a right-hander with lots of speed, worked four tourney games and won four. He shut out Glenbrook North and Freeport.

A PLEASANT surprise was the showing of soph Bob Stevens, a left-hander, in the conquest of heavy-hitting Waukegan. Stevens, bothered by a sore shoulder this spring, appeared sound as he fired a three-hitter at the Suburban League Bulldogs. He had his fast ball hopping.

Donahue, Stevens, and junior right hander John Loughman, the winner over Prospect in the district, currently rank as the Lions' big three although Tom Collins, another junior, is also available.

The Lions haven't had a big game with the bats since the 9-3 rocking of Highland Park, but they've been getting by with strong pitching and defense — and breaks.

THEY'LL NEED a strong mound effort today in the tourney opener as St. Bede sports a heavy-hitting attack keyed around first baseman Tom Peterson, a four-year regular who shows a lusty .470 season mark.

St. Bede dropped its first two games of the season, one a 20-1 decision to Woodland of Streator, but head man Harold Gaffney adjusted his lineup and the Bruins of the Illinois Valley division rebounded with eighteen straight victories.

The Peru nine had an easier time in the sectional than it did in the district and regional play. They belted Rochelle 10-5 and Rock Island 7-1 in the LaSalle-Peru Sectional but nipped archrival LaSalle in the district 4-3 and Toluca 5-4 in eight innings at the regional.

GREG BASALAY and Jimmy Vallero, two junior right-handers, have accounted for all of the Bruins' victories this spring. Basalay is the ace, serving his third year with the varsity.

If St. Viator gets by St. Bede, they may meet Holy Cross for the third time this season in the semi-finals. The Crusaders, guided by former St. Viator coach Frank Mariani, square off with Waterloo in the second game today.

The Lions split with Holy Cross in Chicagoland Prep League play. Donahue posted a 3-2 decision in the first game but suffered a tough 1-0 loss in the second, fanning 19 but bowing in ten innings.

Stevens Tops Waukegan, 1-0

smash by Loughman but threw low to first. Kaveney, who had reached on an infield single and advanced on a passed ball, scored.

Outside of their scoring maneuver the Lions only had two more base runners. Jerry Donahue doubled to right with one out in the second and Ron Rose beat out an infield hit in the sixth.

DONAHUE WAS stranded when Tim Walinski popped to first and Tom Epperly grounded to short. Rose's hit came with two out and Charley Heinrich flied to left to kill off the side.

Waukegan had runners on base in every inning but the fourth and fifth and twice stranded a runner on third base.

Jerry Bond led off the first with an infield hit and moved to second on a passed ball but stayed there as Kulla made a nice running catch of Nielsen's drive for the final out of the inning. Ron Coleman walked after two outs in the second and stole both second and third but also was stranded as Craig Sager tapped in front of the plate to Walinski.

MACKI LED OFF the third with a single to left, reached second on a wild pitch, but was doubled when Loughman made a running catch of Jon Ritz's blast.

Macki was the last Bulldog base runner until Ritz walked with two outs in the sixth. Stevens got Kaufman on a fly to left for the final out this time.

Heinrich helped Stevens out with the fielding gem of the day in the fourth inning, a diving catch to his right of a smash through the box by Nielsen.

Stevens got the first two hitters in the decisive seventh on infield outs but walked pinch hitter Guy Gersich. Coleman doubled to right to put runners on second and third, bu the St. Viator southpaw bore down and got pinch hitter Joe Helbing swinging for the final out.

The chant had switched from "Beat Waukegan" to "Peoria Here We Come!"

BARRY GERAPHTY, left, of Mount Prospect has been named the outstanding athlete at Loyola University in New Orleans. Presenting the trophy is Joseph Barrois, president of the "L" Club. Barry, a star on basketball and baseball squads, is a pre-dental student and plans to enter Loyola's school of dentistry. He is the son of Mrs. Mary D. Geraghty, 549 E. Lincoln. He prepped at Bishop Kenny High School in Florida.

11-3 in Chicagoland

St. Viator's Net Unit Lands Second

St. Viator's varsity tennis team concluded a successful season last week with a 5-0 victory over St. George.

The victory was the 12th in 19 meets over-all for Coach Pete Dunderdale's Lions. They stood 11-3 in the Chicagoland Prep League for a second place tie with St. Mel.

Dave Harris, Norm Zeller, and John Lavigne worked in singles against St. George and posted easy straight sets victories. John Allare and Bill Gordon worked in first doubles and Mike Massey and Paul Demmert were in the No. 2 slot.

Allare and Gordon did need three sets before pulling out a 6-2, 5-7, 6-1 victory.

In other recent net action St. Viator whipped Holy Cross, 4-1, and dropped a 4-1 decision to St. Mel.

Harris and John Schinka pulled out singles wins against Holy Cross, and the Lions clinched the win with two doubles decisions. Gordon and Allare were in the No. 1 position and Massey and Demmert in No. 2.

St. Viator's only point against St. Mel came in second doubles with Massey and Demmert pulling out a 1-6, 6-4, 6-0 victory over Henaghan and Haroldson. Schinka took his opponent to three sets before falling in third singles and Allare and Gordon dropped a tight 9-7, 6-4 decision in first doubles.

No Varsity Titles In Spring Season

While varsity titles were being decided in the Upstate Eight Conference the past week, Elgin and Larkin teams were on the outside looking in.

The first disappointment came when Wheaton and West Aurora tied for the tennis title, with Elgin fourth and Larkin fifth. Neither team advanced men to the finals in singles or doubles.

West Aurora also claimed the golf crown, on varsity and soph levels. West Aurora's varsity shot 315 for golf laurels while Larkin, with 349, was fifth, and Elgin eighth with 367. Elgin's sophs were seventh, Larkin's eighth.

Elgin's defending baseball champs lost all chance for the title this year when they fell 4-1 to East Aurora. But the Maroons' sophomore baseball entry salvaged something, beating East Aurora by the same score and tying for the top.

Elgin and Larkin also engaged in what is believed to have been the first night high school baseball game in the city, with Elgin triumphing 4-2 for its third win of the year over Larkin. Jack Nichols held the Royals to three hits, while striking out 11 men. Craig Powers had two hits—including a home run—for the winners, and scored two runs. The win left Elgin 11-7 over-all and 6-4 in the Upstate Eight. The Royals were 5-5 in the conference.

Dreyfus Signs Wildcat Tender

Gordon Dreyfus, state mile champion from Palatine High School, has signed a track tender with Northwestern University, Wildcat Coach Bob Erhardt announced Tuesday.

Dreyfus, who had a career best of 4:18.6 in the mile run, is the fourth highly regarded Illinois prep to name for Northwestern.

Others heading to Northwestern in the fall will be state pole vault champ and record-holder Doug Macomber of Maine South, hurdler Simon Kent of Oak Park, and half-mile standout Ralph Schultze of Evergreen Park.

Pirate Golfers 3rd In Conference Play

Good wasn't good enough for Palatine High's golfers last Friday, as they challenged for the top of the Des Plaines Valley League standings but had to settle for third.

Niles West sneaked in for first, bumping the team that had been on top all season, West Leyden. Niles made it on the basis of its sparkling 6-1 dual record, combined with its score in the conference meet. Willowbrook actually shot the best team total in the tourney hosted by East Leyden at White Pines Golf Course, but an unhappy 3-4 dual mark kept the Warriors down in fourth.

Proviso West, Maine South, East Leyden and Morton West made up the last four places.

During Friday's meet, which counted half toward the final team standings, Willowbrook's low four boys came in with a total of 313. That was three strokes better than Niles and seven better than West Leyden's total. Palatine's low four had 323.

THE NILES-WEST Leyden results had an extra meaning. Because a scheduled dual between the two teams had been washed out, thy counted their Friday scores toward that end, too. For West Leyden, shocked by Palatine in a dual Tuesday afternoon, it meant two straight losses after five consecutive dual wins.

Palatine also had a 5-2 dual mark for the season, with one of those setbacks a two-stroke margin against Niles in a match shortened by darkness. The good dual record enabled Palatine to squeeze in for third between West Leyden and Willowbrook.

The other team scores Friday were Proviso West 324, Maine South 328, Morton West 335 and East Leyden 356. None of the teams had a good enough dual record to threaten for the top.

FOR TOM SWARSEN'S Pirate linksmen, after shooting a blazing 153 in the nine-hole upset of West Leyden, there must have been a little disappointment in Friday's 18-hole round. But it was still more than creditable golf, and their best 18-hole showing of the spring.

Jeff Carnal was low man for Palatine, finishing in 77. Bill Mellin had an 80 and Ted Wachs and Phil Edwards came in with 83s. Bill Hein, who had a 37 for nine against West Leyden, shot 89, so his score didn't count. In individual scoring, Carnal came in fifth in the conference. He had tied for fourth, but lost on the first hole of a playoff when he parred the hole and his opponent birdied it.

Maine South ruled the frosh-soph half of the conference standings, combining second in Friday's tournament with an unblemished record in seven dual meets. Only six strokes separated the first five teams on the underclass level, with Niles winning with 346. Maine had 347, Willowbrook 348, East Leyden 351 and Palatine 352. Palatine, Niles and Willowbrook had identical 5-2 dual records, so on the basis of Friday's shooting Niles was given second, Willowbrook third and the Pirates fourth.

Doug Sheldon, whose 83 tied him for third in the individual frosh-soph ratings. He lost in a playoff, and was given fourth. Mike Haggard and Jeff Teach came in with 89 each, and Fred Wenter had a 91 to round out the Palatine team score. The fifth score was Kim Rueckert's 92.

Coach Swarsen expressed himself as pleased with Palatine's showing on both levels, and gratified that his players showed steady improvement in their shooting over the spring.

'Y' Entries Sparkle in Gym Finals

The Northwest Suburban Girls gymnastics team placed second in a 12-team field at the recent YMCA state championships.

Nancy Morava captured the state trampoline title in the Midget Division and took second in tumbling and third in the all-around.

In the Junior Division Sandi McBride captured seconds in the balance beam and uneven parallel bars. Gail Alten placed third in three events: free exercise, balance beam and trampoline.

Intermediate Sue Holyoke came home with four third place ribbons as she placed in free exercise, balance beam, trampoline, and all-around.

Gary Morava is now reigning state champion in the all-around in the Prep Division. He captured firsts in vaulting and side horse plus taking seconds in free exercise, parallel bars and tumbling.

Paul Strozewski is state champion on the parallel bars and side horse in the Midget Division. Paul placed second in free exercise and all-around.

Tony D'amica placed second in tumbling and trampoline.

Frase, Friedl Honored

Arlington Lands Two Berths on All-Stars

Mike Frase, a three-year regular in the infield, and Johnny Friedl, a surprise success as a senior after only four innings of work as a junior, were the only Arlington High School players named to the West Suburban Conference all-star baseball team released last week by the league coaches.

Frase, a repeat selection, was one of eight infielders honored on the 1965 star squad. Four pitchers were selected.

Seventeen boys were named to the all-conference team with LaGrange topping the selections with four positions. League champion Downers Grove landed three slots with Arlington, York, Riverside - Brookfield, and Glenbard West picking up two each.

No schools were blanked. Maine East and Hinsdale showed one all-league berth each.

FRASE WAS one of two repeat selections. Pitcher Paul Suckow of York, who also earned all-conference honors in football and basketball, made the coveted squad for the second straight year.

In addition to Friedl and Suckow, other pitchers named were Jim Duffy of Downers Grove and Larry Filippi of Hinsdale. Their all-conference batterymates are catchers Mike Hindman of Downers Grove and Greg Loskkayjian of LaGrange.

MIKE FRASE

JOHN FRIEDL

Outfielders honored were Don Borling and Bill Ringnold of Glenbard West, Phil Brewer and Glen Posmer of LaGrange, and Russ Jablonski of Riverside - Brookfield.

Joining Frase in the infield are Bruce Friedman of Maine East, Bob Perkins of Downers Grove, Wayne Marquaardt of LaGrange, Buy Homoley of York, and Otto Zeman of Riverside - Brookfield.

FRASE COMPLETED three years of varsity baseball at Arlington with a .269 average in 152 at bats. He showed a steady increase each year with a .226 as a sophomore, .289 as a junior, and .298 as a senior.

The senior did his best hitting in the West Suburban. He rapped out 27 hits in 80 at bats for a .338 standard in his last two years of league play.

Frase had a .325 mark for the second place Cardinals during the past conference campaign. He scored nine runs and drew seven walks. He topped the club with three doubles and also stole four bases.

MIKE'S BEST DAY at the plate came in the second game of a double header with Riverside when he banged out three hits. He hit safely in ten of Arlington's 16 games and was 5-for-12 over the final five games of the stretch run when the Cards marched to a second place tie.

Frase finished his high school athletic career with seven major letters. He lettered in football and basketball for two years and in baseball for three.

Friedl, a 5-foot-11 southpaw, was a pleasant surprise for Baker and an instrumental figure in the Cards' drive to second place in the league.

PITCHING WAS the big question-mark in Arlington camp at the outset of the season, but Friedl, who toiled only four varsity innings as a junior, emerged as an effective performer. He had seven of the Cards' ten victories during the season and figured in 13 of the team's 16 decisions.

Friedl recorded six West Suburban victories and had a snappy 0.73 earned run average in league action. He allowed only 31 hits in 47 innings, striking out 34 and walking 12.

Friedl blanked Glenbard West (1-0), York (5-0), and Riverside - Brookfield (1-0) in league action and set down Maine East on a four-hitter, 9-2, and La Grange on a three-hitter, 5-1. He whipped Glenbard for a second time with a relief stint that actually covered seven full innings.

The left-hander's only losses during the season came against league champ Downers Grove, York in extra innings, and Prospect in the district.

Weatherman Hits Play In Meadows

Only three games found their way into the record book last week in the Rolling Meadows Boys Baseball program as the weatherman decided to interfere with the schedule.

Bobby Haas of the Major League Sox won a 5-2 victory over the Yankees, allowing only five hits. Russ Alt and Joe Robinson banged out two safeties each for the Yanks in a losing cause.

The Yankees came back two days later and walloped the Athletics 10-4. Jim Miller fashioned a five-hitter, striking out 11 men. Tom Marcucci also helped the cause by belting a home run.

The Sox League backed the one-hit pitching of Steve Eberhard with an explosive attack and pounded the Cubs 19-1 in American League action.

Webber Paints Has Lead; Loop Needs Golfers

Webber Paints has jumped off to an early lead in the Friday night golf league at Arlington Country Club.

Arlington Furniture is running a close second with Borchardt's Restaurant in third.

Low gross was taken by Bud Barnett with a 38. Ed Wuytack had low net of 43-16-27.

Forsuland, Hart and Aucunas had the birdies.

Due to the fact that the league has had so many men transferred, there is room for at least five more golfers.

This is a handicap division. Anyone desiring to play should call the golf course at LE 7-2240 or Chuck Aucunas at 328-7893.

The standings:

Webber Paints	20
Arlingttn Furniture	18½
Borchardt's Restaurant	17½
Portage Auto Parts	16½
Jack Gunnell's	16
Sylvia's Florist	15½
Wheeling Lumber	13½
Prospect Hts. Pharmacy	12
L-Nor Cleaners	10½
Durand's Rangers	9½

Crown Team Champs in District 54

Hoffman, Hanover, and Fairview captured the team titles in the 1965 Junior Olympics staged by School District 54.

Hoffman won the fourth grade title with 16 points. Hanover scored 27 in the fifth grade competition, and Fairview dominated with 31 in the sixth grade.

There were three double winners in the individual events. Shawn Magee of Twinbrook won the girls softball throw and utility ball throw in the fourth grade action.

Willie Vargas of Schaumburg won the boys 75 yard dash and softball throw in the fifth grade and P. Benedict of Hanover won the girls 75 yard dash and broad jump in the same class. She also ran on the winning shuttle relay team.

Next Week

Pitchers Greg Kowal of Prospect and Tom Lundgren of Forest View and infielders Mark Newman of Wheeling and Rich Henderson of Forest View were the four Paddock area boys named to the Mid-Suburban League all-star baseball team. Twenty boys were honored by the coaches. See the complete story next week.

Meyer Handles Team

Arlington Legion Nine Opens Season

Arlington's American Legion baseball team, scheduled to kick off its season yesterday (Wednesday), will journey to Glenbrook South today and then entertain Glenbard West Sunday in a doubleheader.

Lloyd Meyer is again directing the Arlington legion nine with the home games tentatively set for the St. Viator High School diamond.

Arlington will journey to Glenbrook North next Monday, June 7, with Meyer also trying to arrange games with Downers Grove for the middle of the week.

The Arlington infield appears set with high school regulars Jerry Fink at first, Mike Frase at second, Howie Winkelhake at shortstop, Rich Hoppe at third, and Mark Frase behind the plate.

The outfield is a toss-up. The top candidates are Tom Manderscheid and Mark Newman of Wheeling; Thad Woodard, Tom LeStarge, and Doug Fink of Arlington; and Arlington graduate Paul Splittorff. Although he has attended college, Splittorff is eligible for competition on the basis of age.

The pitching looks strong. Splittorff, a rangy left-hander who was a standout in prep ranks, is available, and Meyer also has the Forest View High School fire-baller Tom Lundgren. John Friedl, who earned all-conference honors at Arlington this past spring, and Newman, who did some legion pitching last summer, round out the top four at this stage of the workouts.

Elk Grove Play Begins; Contests Tight in Majors

They're off and running in the Elk Grove Boys Baseball program. The first returns are in.

Four games were played Saturday and three Sunday on the Lions Park diamonds.

The Cubs, Braves, Yankees, and Cardinals wrapped up victories in Major League play with only one rout.

The Cubs belted the Sox 10-1 with Nick Adams the winner. Rob Tomaselli was tagged with the loss. Dave Gilbert's homer accounted for the only Sox run.

Sean Hanney and Mike Cavanaugh combined to pitch a one-hitter as the Braves shaded the Indians in nine innings, 2-1.

HANNEY STRUCK out 13 in the first six innings and Cavanaugh came on in relief and fanned six over the last three frames.

The Braves won in the ninth on a topped roller by Cavanaugh that the catcher couldn't handle and two passed balls.

Henry and DiGiovanni worked on the hill for the losers and combined for 13 strikeouts. Henry had seven in the first six frames.

THE YANKEES got by the Dodgers 6-4, scoring six runs on six hits and nine walks. Wally Rolph fanned 12 and allowed only five hits for the winners. Brumm was the loser.

All the scoring was confined to the final inning as the Cardinals shaded the Tigers 4-3. Consecutive hits by Randy Gruber, Donald Brunn, Ray Hansen, Bob Thulin, and Pat Dillon figured in the decisive four-run sixth. Hansen was the winner and Peters was tagged with the loss.

Explosive attacks featured the Minor Division. The Braves pounded the Indians, 26-0; the Sox tripped the Cubs, 16-8; and the Yankees bumped the Dodgers, 9-1, with Jim Enslie on the hill. Enslie fashioned a two-hitter, striking out 13.

He topped Palatine, 7-4, in the district; Highland Park, 9-3, and Glenbrook North, 2-0, in the regional; and Freeport, 1-0, in the sectional. He was expected to get the first call today (Thursday) in the state tourney opener with St. Bede of Peru.

$35,000 Added Olympia Set For Arlington

A trio of highly-competitive stakes events highlights the season's initial holiday week during the Balmoral Jockey Club meeting at Arlington Park.

Monday's Memorial Day celebration found the $40,000 added Round Table Handicap for three-year-olds and upward with Saturday's $35,000 added Olympia Handicap suiting a similar age bracket, while Wednesday's mid-week attraction, the $20,000 added Joliet Stakes was the first of a multitude of features for juveniles.

Mrs. Mary Keim's speedster Clem Pac, Mrs. Russell L. Reineman's Cap Size and George Cavanaugh's First Violin loom as strong choices among the possible entrants in the 6½ furlong Olympia on Saturday.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD Clem Pac, a quick starter and often difficult to catch, could find the Olympia's distance just to his liking. The son of Clem tired after setting a brisk early pace in the Illinois, while Ampose and Quita Dude layed back and waited to make their moves.

He won the Sheridan Stakes here last season and bagged a six furlong allowance at Churchill Downs in a blazing 1:09 3/5 May 8. Jimmy Nichols has a good chance to get the riding assignment.

Cap Size, a double stakes victor here last summer, having taken the Swaps and Warren Wright Handicaps, has only made one start this year, that a winning effort for six furlongs at Gulfstream Park April 27.

THE SON OF Sailor out of Damree, also a four-year-old, will have Mickey Solomone in the irons. Cap Size won $91,200 with six triumphs in all for 1964.

A graduate from the allowance ranks if he starts in the Olympia will be First Violin, four-time winner this year, who was purchased by Cavanaugh for $35,000 in Florida last month.

He scored his last win Monday May 24, covering six panels in 1:11 3/5 on a sloppy track.

Both Ampose and First Violin, rated excellent chances in their respective races, are trained by Doug Dodson, former jockey turned conditioner with great success.

Downers Cops League Crown

Downers Grove captured the West Suburban Conference baseball championship Saturday with an easy victory over Hinsdale.

The triumph was the tenth for Coach Larry Wyllie's Trojans in 14 conference games.

Arlington, seeking its first league baseball title in history, and York tied for second with 9-5 records. LaGrange (7-7) rounded out the first division.

Illini Captain

Foster (Larry) Travis, a Palatine High School graduate, will serve as captain of the University of Illinois track team in 1966.

For Lions Park

Ernie Banks School Set

The earlier youngsters participate in athletics, the more skilled they will become.

That is the opinion of both Gordon Gillespie and Frank Mariani, head coaches of the Ernie Banks Baseball Schools which will be held in this area at Lions Park Field in Mount Prospect on seven consecutive Thursdays from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon starting June 24.

These baseball schools are purely instructional in nature and are aimed at boys eight to fourteen years of age who may be experienced players or relative neophytes. The purpose of the Schools is to teach these boys the fundamentals of the game, thus permitting them to improve their league play or just gain greater enjoyment in their sand-lot games.

ALTHOUGH the Ernie Banks School instructional program is aimed at older boys, Gillespie, the successful baseball coach and athletic director of Lewis College, Lockport, suggests that children should be introduced to baseball when they are as young as three or four.

He advises fathers to show their youngsters how to hold and swing a bat initially utilizing a small plastic bat and a toy whiffleball. "By throwing the ball underhand, you start them on the coordinating movements of having the ball and bat meet," said Gillespie.

"As the youngsters mature, they can be introduced to rubber balls and miniature wooden bats until they reach the age of reason.' At this point," Gillespie says, "they should be introduced to some of the other aspects of the game such as throwing and catching the ball."

GILLESPIE THINKS that youngsters who show an interest in baseball should be provided with "decent gloves when they reach 5 years of age and then encouraged to play a lot of catch."

"They can be taught first with a soft ball until they learn how to catch with their gloves. Let them use a hard ball only when they become sure of their abilities.

"By learning the correct way to bat, bunt, catch, slide, throw and play the various positions when they are young, they will not have to relearn fundamentals at a later age," said Mariani. Mariani is the baseball coach and athletic director of Holy Cross High School, River Grove, and a St. Louis Cardinal scout.

HE OFFERS this advice to all adults: "Remember, the game is for youngsters. Let's teach them correctly and let them enjoy themselves. This is the philosophy of the Ernie Banks Baseball Schools."

For complete information about the instructional program, write: Ernie Banks Baseball Schools, 715 LaCrosse, Wilmette, or telephone 274-0456.

Koster Dazzles Mets, Strikes Out 16

Pitchers Warming Up; Post Three No-Hitters in Arlington's Program

Make room for some more pitchers in the "No-Hitter Hall of Fame" in Arlington Heights' extensive summer baseball program for boys.

After a slow start—only two mound masterpieces in the first two weeks of play—the young hurlers warmed up and fired three over seven days, one a combined effort in the North White Juniors.

The big names this week are Ken Koster of the National League Dodgers, Glenn Abel of the American League White Sox, and Brian Nelson and Jim Wilson of the North White Juniors Astros.

Koster probably had the most impressive stint. In his first appearance as a pitcher this season he turned back the Mets 11-0 without a single hit, striking out 16 hitters in six innings. He walked only three.

Koster provided all the margin he needed for victory in the first inning when he followed Bruce Frase's double with a home run to give the Dodgers a two-run lead Frase, Koster, Elsberg and Kuebler delivered eight of the 10 hits produced by the winners.

Abel of the White Sox recorded his gem at the expense of the Senators. It was another rout with the Sox coasting, 12-0, in six frames. Bill Heffernan supplied a home run.

Nelson and Wilson of the Astros teamed up for a no-hitter in the Astros' 7-1 conquest of the Gophers. They each worked three innings and combined for 11 strikeouts.

The no-hitters supplied the big news, but there's a lot more to report from another busy week of Arlington Boys Baseball activity. The weatherman did create some problems with the schedule, forcing postponements at the outset of the week.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

The Senators and Yankees are the pace-setters in this division with identical 4-1 marks heading into the week's action.

Mark Brown was the winner on a yield of six hits as the Senators shaded the Athletics 5-4. Jay Smith rapped out three safeties for the winners and Mike White had two for the losers.

John Brodnan pitched a three-hitter and slammed out a double and single to lead the Yankees to a 7-5 victory over the Red Sox. Scott Swanzey had three hits and Brian Hogan two. Marty Epperly blasted a three-run triple for the Red Sox.

Chuck Dillon was the winner and John Brodnan rocked a home run as the Yankees got by the Tigers 7-2, but the Tigers did score an impressive 3-0 victory over the Athletics with Mike Turner on the hill. Tom Sayre fanned 12 in a losing cause.

The Red Sox nipped the White Sox 5-4 last Saturday.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

The Dodgers were the only unbeaten team in the National League at the outset of the week in a tight race.

The week started with the Giants shading the Cubs 1-0 in a thriller. Dave Lundstedt fired a one-hitter and also had two hits for the winners. He led off the second with a single, stole second, advanced to third on Jay Bensen's sacrifice fly, and stole home, knocking the ball out of the catcher's hands.

Jim Quade had a single and triple and drove in three runs in a seven-run first inning as the Cardinals bumped the Pirates 10-7. Pettenuzzo of the Pirates pitched one-hit shutout baseball in relief over the last three frames, striking out seven.

A six-run fourth inning carried the Mets to a 7-4 victory over the Colts. Both clubs had four hits. Bob Husted and Bill Larson rapped doubles for the Mets, and Jim Bokelmann and Dave Kurrasch had triples for the Colts.

The Colts pounded out 11 hits but still dropped a 3-2 decision to the Pirates. The winners came up with two runs in the fifth inning. Kevin Koenemann and Gary Brosseit made up the victorious battery. Dick Armour had a triple for the losers.

Radcliffe's triple in the sixth inning drove in the winning run as the Cubs slipped by the Cardinals 6-5. Scott Gunnison was the winning pitcher.

The Giants and Braves battled to an 8-8 tie with the Braves coming up with three runs in the final inning. Doug Clark, who had pitched the first two innings, helped his own cause with a double in the fourth and a single in the fifth to drive across three Brave runs. Bob Wilson, the Giant hurler, doubled in a run in the third.

NORTH BLUE INTERMEDIATE

This was not a week for pitchers in the North Blue Intermediate league. In five of the six games the winning team scored 11 or more runs. Two had 15, the winner in a game featured by long blows. Ken Todd, Jim Waldron, Bill Ganzer, Chris Daborich and Jim Donato had the four-base clouts.

The Angels won their fourth game in a row with an eight-run fifth inning, knocking down the Mohawk 11-3. Steve Schwabe's triple with the bases loaded and Craig Bunton's two home runs were features of the explosive attack. Tom Cannon had a home run for the Mohawks.

Norm Van Den Bussche and Brett Huske combined to pitch the league-leading Bruins to a 15-6 win over the Doves, their fourth straight victory. Bill Welnhofer hit two home runs, one a grand slam in the third, and drove in seven runs. Huske also homered for the Bruins.

The Mounties scored in every inning en route to a 15-9 thumping of the Colonels. Mark Gustafson hit home runs in the first and fifth innings and also picked up the slab win. Troy Slinkard hit one out with the bases loaded in a seven-run fifth for the losers.

In the only low-scoring game of the week the Mounties took care of the Hornets 5-4 with Gustafson besting Cris Dabovich.

NORTH WHITE INTERMEDIATE

The Broncs featured the big attack in this division with a 23-5 belting of the Pioneers. Art Miller was the winning pitcher.

The Redbirds came up with two runs in the second and fifth innings and whipped the Broncs 4-1. Chris Marzalek was the winning pitcher with relief help from Roger Obst and Kevin O'Leary.

Keith Mathews won his second game and gave up only two hits as the Triplets topped the Pioneers 5-2. Keith helped his own cause with two hits. Dwight Fenderson also came up with two safeties and Johnny Coulter smashed a run-scoring double.

The Lancers and Redbirds battled to a 7-7 tie with the Lancers knotting the count with a single run in the sixth.

SOUTH BLUE INTERMEDIATE

Joe Luhan was the winner as the Chargers coasted to a 10-1 win over the Rangers. Doug Malmquist ripped a two-run homer in the first and Luhan had a circuit clout with one man on in the second.

Mike Sheehan bested Steve Soderlund as the Stars nipped the Ravens 5-4. Tom Fink and Jim Parish had triples for the long blows.

Doug Hochstettler fired a nifty one-hitter as the Ravens bumped the Chargers 6-1. Luhan had the only hit, a triple in the first. Soderlund had a three-bagger for the Ravens.

The Dons scored six runs in the third inning on three Seal errors, a single, walk, and two doubles in a 10-6 victory. Greg Chapman was the winner. Bob Bledsoe and Dick Schoell had triples for the long smashes of the evening.

The Dons broke a 7-7 deadlock with nine runs in the sixth inning of a 16-7 victory over the Rangers.

SOUTH WHITE INTERMEDIATE

Two two-run innings were all the Barons needed in a 5-3 victory over the Ramblers. Terry McLaughlin was the winning pitcher with Tom Bebber absorbing the loss.

The Marlins ripped the Royals 14-9 with nine runs in the first two innings. Mike Conley got the win here.

In a well-played game the Marlins and Mike Mandele edged the Bearcats 2-1. Mandele pitched a one-hitter and also rapped out a triple.

The Huskies exploded with 11 runs in the second inning of their 13-6 victory over the Terriers. Mike O'Hara was the winner in a game that knocked the Terriers from the top rung.

Gordon Kaser hit a home run in a losing cause as his Ramblers dropped a 7-4 game to the Solons. John Lynch was the winning pitcher.

Ed Emerich of the Barons struck out 14 of the 23 batters he faced and posted an 8-3 victory over the Royals. Bill Harris was the loser although he yielded only five hits.

Two big innings carried the Terriers to a 10-5 victory over the Bearcats. Jay Schmidt worked on the hill for the winners who scored three in the third and six in the fourth. Dennis Foreman rapped a home run.

NORTH BLUE JUNIORS

Curt Schavitz of the Boxers, who had pitched a no-hitter the previous week, allowed only one safety Saturday, a two-run homer by John Stevenson, but was plagued with wildness in dropping a 7-6 decision to the Apaches. Schavitz hit a two-run homer in the first. Mickey Csep pitched four complete innings for the Apaches, striking out 12. Steve Eggleston finished up and got the win.

Jon Harman struck out 17 batters in six innings and pitched a one-hitter as the Larks bombed the Apaches 11-0. Mickey Csep had the only safety off Hardman, a solid double. Glenn Westman had two doubles for the winners.

The Blues fell behind 3-0 in the first inning but bounced back to score an 8-3 victory over the Wasps. George Karavas, one of three pitchers, got the win for the Blues and also contributed a triple and single. Mike Iverson helped in the field with an unassisted double play with the bases loaded.

With two bouts in the sixth inning and runners on second and third Dick Van Dan Bussche hit a 1-and-2 pitch for a double to drive in the tying and winning runs in the Sox' 6-5 conquest of the Blues. Dave Kucera was the winner.

The Larks showed their second 11-0 victory of the week in a thumping of the Wasps. Chuck Murdock got the win and Jim McBride walloped a home run and triple.

NORTH RED JUNIORS

The Panthers showed their power in a 26-8 rout of the Badgers, scoring six runs in the third and 11 in the fourth, and the Millers rocked the Trojans 19-0 with Steve Firnbach firing a two-hitter. Steve Loughman had two home runs and John Burns and Jeff Hammond also collected round-trippers.

The Trojans had to hold off a final inning rally to post a 9-7 victory over the Gulls. Doubles by David Groh and Gary Lenhert and a home run by John Brown accounted for the big blows in the Gulls' six-run sixth. The Trojans scored four in the first with Bobby Tamaso and Bob Milham contributing key hits.

The Millers turned a close game into a rout with five runs in the fifth inning and dumped the Badgers 11-5, and the Panthers knocked down the Wolves 10-6. Jim Jenkens had a home run.

NORTH WHITE JUNIORS

The Bees exploded with 10 runs in the third inning and waltzed to a 14-3 victory over the Robins. Larry Peifer and Mike Reschke worked on the mound with Mike getting the win. Ron Sesterhenn had two triples and Tom Good belted a home run.

The Bisons batted around in each of the first two innings on their way to a 23-5 mauling of the Owls. John Caruso struck out eight men in his three innings on their way to a 23-5 mauling of the Owls. John Caruso struck out eight men in his three innings and Dave Kman fanned four in two for the winners. Jeff Kunnen had a home run and 11 of the Bisons' 16 hits were made by Caruso, Kman, and O'Neill.

The Bees had no trouble registering a 15-1 victory over the Owls. Robby Skiera got the win although Dick Casey came on in the fifth. Mike Lodge had a double and two singles nd Reschke belted two doubles for the winners.

The Bisons scored a 5-4 win over the Astros with the two decisive runs coming across in the fifth. Mike O'Neill was the winner, fanning 11. Brian Nelson struck out 14 in defeat.

Tom Good had a tiple and home run in the same inning as the Robins whipped the Gophers 11-8. Mark Kleiner also homered in a nine-run fifth and Jim Walker had a triple.

SOUTH BLUE JUNIORS

Tod Schoell was the winner as the Beavers nipped the Oaks 10-9, and Tom Mueller picked up the decision in the Spartans' 13-6 conquest of the Buckeyes.

The Beavers scored a single run in the first and two in the third and fifth for a 5-2 victory over the Chicks. Randy Hollinger was the winner.

John Dillon got the decision as the Buckeyes bumped the Sioux 9-6. Tom Lagrave had a home run. The Spartans got by the Oaks 12-8 with Mike Saugling topping Mark Turkcan.

SOUTH WHITE JUNIORS

Several games previously unreported were turned in this week with some lusty hitting featured.

The Bulldogs posted a 12-2 victory over the Gems with Dick Sleger popping two home runs and also getting the mound win. Scott Rowader had a homer for the Gems.

The Stags had their hitting uniforms on in a 22-10 thumping of the Padres. Jim Johnson was supported with this impressive attack. Mike Weber had two home runs for the losers. Al Christenson hit one out for the Stags.

The Atoms and Wrens battled to a 4-4 deadlock with all the scoring confined to the first two innings. Brian Gaare and Will Faherty had home runs.

The Jays scored a 9-0 victory over the Jets, and the Padres pounded the Bulldogs 15-3 with two six-run innings. Craig McDougall got the victory. Dan Sheetz homered for the winners and Don Bledsoe belted a four-bagger for the losers.

Jim Peterson's two home runs sparked the Wrens to a 9-8 victory over the Jays, and the Gems and Jets battled to a 7-7 deadlock. The Gems needed six runs in the fifth and the Jets had to come back with a pair in the home half of the fifth.

A 10-hit attack carried the Stags to an 11-4 victory over the Gems. Dan Brown had a home run for the Stags. Scott Rowader had a homer for the Gems and also supplied a double and triple in a big evening.

Two runs in the fifth inning pulled the Wrens into a 6-6 tie with the Gems, and the Jays rocked the Bulldogs with nine runs in the second and five in the third but still had to hold on for a 14-11 victory. John Lerchenfeld was the winning pitcher. George Vukovich had a home run for the Jays.

Jim Barrett fired a three-hitter, striking out 15, as the Atoms shaded the Padres 3-1 in a well-played contest. McDougall struck out 14 in a losing cause. Brian Gaare and Barrett had home runs.

The Stags had little trouble posting a 13-6 victory over the Jets. Ray Heidenson was credited with the mound win. Mark Gunnison and Barry Brown had triples for the Stags.

Keppen Key Man As Barbers Hold Lead at Rob Roy

The Prospect Heights Barber team of the Rob Roy Tuesday League clung tenaciously to its hold on first place mainly because of the fine play of No. 4 Bill Keppen, who had one of the best rounds of his career on the back nine with a 41-7-34 for low net and two points.

The victims of the 5 to 2 win by the Barber team were Howard Metals and one of the two points captured by the losers was the 38-3-35 carded by No. 1 man, Fred Groh.

Joy-Di crept a little closer to the leaders with a resounding 5½ to 1½ victory over last place L'Nor Cleaners to remain in a tie for second place just one point back of the leaders. Fred Bruyn, in the No. 3 slot, was responsible for two of the points with his round of 45-8-37.

Ken Miller found the range for Prospect Heights Pharmacy and kept them in contention with the league low gross and low net of 36-3-33 for the second place tie with Joy-Di.

Webber Point continued to press the leaders just 1½ points back in fourth place. Joe Vabrec, shooting in the No. 2 position, clubbed around the front nine for a fancy 39-5-34 for the two points and top team honors in a 5 to 2 win over Borchardt's Restaurant.

Other rounds worthy of mention were Irv Sinard No. 3 man for Golf Rand Golf Center 44-8-36 and Bill Asher, No. 3 for C. P. Floor & Tile 42-7-35.

Berney Magneson led the alternate group with a par round of 35.

Sam's Needy Golf Tips

Golf Instruction Series: First Lesson.

Subject: How to Make A Fair Golf Swing Out of An Old Baseball Swing.

Series Conductor: Sam Rauworth, area professional and instructor for Arlington Heights and Palatine Park District. Promanager of "Pore-Boy" Country Club, Rohlwing and Route 14, Palatine.

Picture 1—Your old baseball swing won't hurt your golf swing if you adapt it . . . just a little bit. Don't raise the right elbow . . . notice . . . the hipps turn, the weight is between the feet, the knees are 'braced' inward.

Picture 2—Here's how you can train yourself to do this in your golf swing. Stand erect. Hold the club vertical.

Picture 3—Now turn. Your hip should not move toward the club . . .

Picture 5—Confirm this "weight inside the feet" position by pretending a quick sidearm throw to first base. Check your position in the mirror.

F. J. Die Mold Starting Climb?

F. J. Die Mold made its move to escape the cellar in the St. Colette golf league last week by whipping E. J. Ryan Plumbing 6 to 1.

John VanVeen, Al Austin, Bill Rademacher and Russ Niesen all turned in winning scores for F. J. Ryan's lone win was carded by Syl Seick.

Lortie Plumbing continued its winning ways by edging Jim's Service. Blil Lortie, Radunz and Irv Alquist chalked up wins for Lortie. Jim Niesen and Ed Cremerius grabbed Jim's tallies and Niesen's 45-13-32 was good for the individual net.

Quadriga Manufacturing Co. increased its 1st place lead to three points by taking five from Interstate Steel. Bob Ulbrich, George Smego and Bill Kohnke all marked up wins for Quadriga. While Chet Mrozek and Len Bronke brought home Interstate's wins. Bob Ulbrich's 45-14-31 low net brought in an additional point for Quadriga.

Imprinting Service moved into second place by taking 5½ points from ailing Beverly Lanes. Bob Wirth and Jack Rafferty won their matches for the Imprinters while Herb Neuman and Bill Nueller fought to a tie. Bob Duffy took the lone win for Beverly.

Of Tuesday Loop

Carter Music Has Top Spot

It took Carter Music Shop four sessions to do it, but to nobody's great surprise they finally worked their way to the top of the Tuesday division of the Mount Prospect Twilight League.

They did it by knocking off Kruse's Tavern 9-1, which coupled with an 8-2 victory over Moler's Barber Shop a week ago, gave them a total of 17 points in two weeks, and enabled them to nudge Busse-Biermann out of first place by half a point.

Busse-Biermann had enjoyed a five point lead a week ago but swooned in a 7-3 defeat at the hands of Keefer's Pharmacy and this point loss enabled Carter's to sneak out ahead of them.

KEEFER'S VICTORY gave them sufficient points to move into a tie for third place with Morton Pontiac, who themselves enjoyed an 8-2 victory over Wille Lumber and Fuel who appear to be in a 2-point rut.

Thunderbird Bowl came back this week with a strong 8½-1½ victory over Kirchhoff Insurance which moved the T-Birds into contention once again.

In the remaining two matches Licht's Paint Store edged Mount Prospect Electric Constr. Co. 6-2/3 to 3-1/3 while Moler's Barber Shop enjoyed the first victory of the season as they walloped Kersting's Garden Center 7-3.

INDIVIDUAL MATCHES in the Carter-Kruse contest went as follows: Ken Shipley, "A" player for Carter's took two points from Ted Small. Gene Raasch, another "A" player won 2 points from Andy Raab, and a third "A" player for Caters, Hal Jauch, won 1½ points to Eal Thompson's one-half point. Vic Bowen, an honest "B" player, but somehow located in "D" position for Carters, wound it all up by winning 1½ points from Clyde Peterson, who had to settle for one-half point.

Raasch was awarded a bonus point for low individual net. Carter's final point was for low team net.

Low scorers for the night were Ron Scherer, 36, and Gene Raasch 38, both over the first nine.

Birdie shooters were Ed Spletzer on No. 5 and Bob Kline on 16.

Irish Grid Opener

Notre Dame opens the 1965 football season meeting at the University of California, at Berkeley, Calif., on September 18th. Technically speaking, this is not the earliest opening in a calendar year for a Notre Dame football game. On April 20, 1838, Notre Dame lost to Michigan, 26-6.

Ken Arnold Records Ace

A hole-in-one is always something to talk about.

A 215-yard hole-in-one belongs in the "very impressive" category.

That's what proud golfer Ken Arnold can boast about these days. Ken aced the 215-yard fourth recently in Friday night action at the Mount Prospect Country Club. He used a spoon.

It was erroneously reported on these pages that Len Arnold had fired the ace. Len is an excellent golfer, but this hole-in-one belongs to Ken Arnold.

JUST DOGS

By Dave Terrill

Dog Hero Date—

The date for the presentation of the Ken-L Ration gold medal, awarded each year to the dog adjudged as having performed the most heroic feat of the past year has been set for August 3, in the state ballroom of the Palmer House in Chicago.

Entries for this year's award, already including over 50 dogs from Massachusetts to Hawaii, will close June 30. At that time a panel of three judges representing various segments of the dog world will select the five finalists, and choose the national dog hero from among the five.

The winner and his owners will be brought to Chicago for a three-day stay at the Palmer House where a banquet will be held on Tuesday evening, Aug. 3, at which time the dog and his owners will be presented with the Ken-L Ration gold medal. Other awards will include a $1000 U.S. bond, a gold plaque, a gold plated leash and collar, a custom-made dog blanket, and perhaps most important to the dog, a year's supply of Ken-L Ration dog food.

Wheaton Show—

The Wheaton Kennel Club will hold its 14th AKC licensed all-breed dog show and obedience trial on Saturday, July 10, at the DuPage County Fairgrounds in Wheaton.

This is one of the top shows during the summer held in this area. If you plan to have an entry in the show, better get going with that entry blank. All entries must be in the superintendent's office, Webb Dog Shows, Auburn, Ind., by noon, Tuesday, June 29.

If you need an entry blank or any information, call Mr. Hoyt, NE 4-3414, or Mrs. F. Kinderman, HO 9-2426.

Poor Feeding Habits—

A finicky appetite in a dog is usually caused by spoiling him with rich tidbits between meals, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center. A dog should be ready and eager when feeding time comes, but if he's filled up on snacks and leftovers, he'll pick at his regular meal or ignore it entirely. In consequence, he is deprived of the wholesome food and balanced nutrition all dogs need for good health and well being.

Leaving the dog's food out for no longer than 20 minutes will help him acquire good eating habits. If the food is not eaten by then, it should be taken away and no more offered until the next regular feeding time. Don't feel sorry for the dog and tempt him with tidbits, either then or an hour later. It doesn't take long for a picky eater to realize that it's a now-or-never proposition when his dinner is served. And in the long run, the dog will be far better off.

About now someone will ask about a bone and the answer is to use your own judgment. Just be sure it's not a chicken bone or some other such type that will splinter and cause problems. Keep in mind, also, that if your dog refuses food over a period of time and a loss of weight takes place, such symptoms can be caused by a number of disturbances which should have veterinary attention.

Barks & Bays—

In these days of who will do it first, the Swedish state police have trained their first air-borne police dog. In this case the dog flies in a special kennel attached to the side of a helicopter.

Help Wanted

SEND BILL SCHWALL TO THE INTERNATIONAL GAMES FOR THE DEAF

Contributions to the 10th International Games for the Deaf Fund, which will help finance the participation of Bill Schwall should be mailed to:

Bob Frisk, Sports Editor
Paddock Publications, Inc.
217 W. Campbell

Checks, which are tax deductible, should be made payable to:

U.S. International Games for Deaf Fund

Time is running out. Money is still needed to help send Bill Schwall of Prairie View to the 10th International Games for the Deaf in Washington, D.C.

A story in Paddock Publications' chain of suburban newspapers last week revealed that Schwall, who lives in the town five miles north of Wheeling and works for United Air Lines in Elk Grove Village, needs $500 to participate on the United States basketball team in the Games.

Schwall, who has been deaf since birth, was selected from a field of 80 top deaf basketball players to play for the United States in the 10th International Games. The 1965 Games are scheduled from June 27 to July 3.

The funds for the nine other squads are almost fully subscribed, but the USA basketball team was only recently selected after an elimination tournament and has not had enough time to raise money.

Anyone interested in helping send Schwall, one of two Chicagoland athletes in the Games, to Washington, D.C. should make their checks payable to the U.S. International Games for Deaf Fund and send to Bob Frisk, Paddock Publications, Inc., Arlington Heights. Contributions are tax deductible.

The checks should be sent as soon as possible to expedite the red tape that accompanies the financing of these deaf athletes.

Talented Duo

Bill Wolski and Nick Eddy give Notre Dame one of the better halfback combinations in the country. Wolski, a senior from Muskegon, Mich., has rushed 206 times for 977 yards (4.7 yard average) in his two years, while as a sophomore in 1964, Eddy gained 490 yards in 98 carries (5.0 average). Eddy is from Lafayette, Calif.

Conley's 35 Is Hot Round on Cold Night

The sign on the tee said "summer rules," but that certainly was no indication of the temperature as the weatherman was very uncooperative for last Friday night's Scratch League.

The golfers were dressed more like they were going to a football game, but despite all the extra clothes to combat the cold, the scores were reasonably good, although they are still a little short of what we can expect in a few more weeks.

One man that the weather didn't bother a bit was Joe Conley, captain of the Bob Burrow Chevrolet team. Joe fired the best round of the season, as he combined seven pars with one birdie and one bogie to fashion an even par 35 on the tough front side. This was a big asset in helping his team collect six points from Arlington Realty who picked up their two points on wins by Bob Lee and John Neubauer. Also giving Joe a hand were Bob Moore with a win and a fine 39, and Cal Meyers with a win.

Two weeks ago Miles & Miles Inc. were resting on the bottom of the standings, but after tonight's action they have jumped all the way to the top. Led again by their captain Len Arnold who turned in a 38 in winning his match, they rolled to a 7-1 win over L-Nor Cleaners, who had been on top at the start of the night's play.

The only pointmaker for L-Nor's was Wayne Rolfs who carded a 39. Other winners for Miles & Miles Inc. were Len McGee with a 39, Mike Graft, and Gene Bergmark who posted his fourth consecutive win to remain undefeated.

BAIRD & WARNER was another big point winner, as they dropped 444 Press down a few more notches in the standings. Roy Johnson was low man with a 38, and he had good support from reserve Jim Krueger and Jim Neubauer, who finished strong after a shaky start to nose out Bob Reiland on the last hole. Rich Kronn was paired against his dad, and he proved to be a little too tough for the senior Kronn. His 39 was the best round for the Pressmen, who only managed to pick up two of the possible eight points.

Ralh Becker and Joe Rouse had a nip-and-tuck match that wasn't decided until the last hole, with Ralph coming out on top in both the match and medal play. His 38 gave his team, Pitzen Cartage, the low ball, and was very instrumental in the 4½-3½ win over Busse's Flowers. Bruno Waara picked up a win for Pitzen's with a fine 39, while Dan Musser and Emil Piscopo were winners for the Florists.

Haire Funeral Home held their position in the second spot by splitting the points with Robert L. Nelson Realtors. Jack Peters won his fourth consecutive match, and Howard Haire picked up the other win for his team. Don Hager, who seems to have a monopoly on winning the golf ball for closest to the pin on the par three hole, won his match for the Realtors despite a disastrous eighth hole on which he must have used up a couple of the balls he has won.

MIKE SPINELLO kept his match record clean as he won his fourth match, and his 38 also enabled him to grab a share of the lead in individual averages along with Bob Reiland. Both are now averaging 38 for four rounds. Mike's win along with the same by John St. Germaine, enabled Peters & Co. Realtors to gain a split with Lohr's Pharmacy. Winners for the Pharmacists were Dick Bokelmann who had a 38, and the sponsor of the team, Joe Lohr.

The toughest hole on the front nine proved to be the third hole, as only four out of thirty golfers were able to match par. The first hole also proved rough by holding the golfers to six pars, and number eight restricted the men to seven pars.

The back nine did not seem near as troublesome with only two holes, the tenth and the eighteenth, causing a bit of a problem by holding the number of pars or better to nine.

The league congratulates Len Arnold on his hole-in-one at a neighboring club last week. Len, incidentally, holds the Scratch League record with a brilliant five under par 31 shot last year, just one week after Don Hager had a 32.

Builder Offers to Give Nature Trail

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission has asked its subcommittee on plats to meet with the park board to review a subdivider's plans to dedicate a nature trail along McDonald Creek.

The proposal was made by developers of Ivy Hill Unit 6, a 65-acre residential development north of the existing Ivy Hill subdivision. McDonald Creek cuts across the proposed development.

PARK OFFICIALS had sought a park dedication adjacent to an existing school site in Ivy Hill; the developer's first tentative plat included a 3.2-acre dedication there. But developers have submitted a second preliminary plat, showing a dedication of roughly 5 acres along the creek.

No date has been set for the joint session. (A

THE CLASS OF 1965

The Class of 1965 represents many personality types, many outlooks, many degrees of perception, of realism, of idealism.

To get an idea of their outlook, hopes and plans as they leave their suburban high schools to enter the world of full-fledged adulthood, we invited a group of senior class presidents to sit down . . . and sit still for two hours of difficult, provocative questions.

The cast as we saw them: Mary Jo Woods, sensitive, concerned about social conditions; John Maheras, outgoing, with a quick humor; Ralph Thompson, poised, interested in Latin American affairs; Jim Hallett, thoughtful, candid; Grover Gauntt, earnest, diplomatic.

They look forward to their immediate post-high school years as a time when their views will be challenged time and time again. They expect their outlooks to change, to become more valid through this testing process.

A report on our conversation with them is on page two of this special section, devoted to them and their classmates.

'Everything I Believe in . . .'

Graduates Look to Testing of Views

Air Thoughts, Hopes, Plans

by DAN BAUMANN
Staff Writer

"Everything I believe in right now will be subjected to challenges from people who have 100 good arguments to my one. I expect a complete change; by the time my beliefs are settled, every one of them will have been tested."

"Most kids worry about their reputations. Some teachers will make a check —mentally—if they see you with a 'greaser'."

"People our age read about national problems; state and local problems don't interest us, though we probably should take an interest."

"Lyndon Baines Johnson is a politician's politician's politician, able to swing more things than any politician in this century."

"There are parents who pamper their children, and they seem to pamper friends of their children. . .I wish I knew a few of 'em."

THOSE STATEMENTS were frankly lifted from a two-hour conversation in which three Paddock staff reporters shot deliberately provocative questions at a group of suburban high school leaders.

The quotes, in order, are attributable to: Ralph Thompson, Prospect High; Jim Hallett, Arlington High; Mary Jo Woods, Sacred Heart of Mary; Grover Gauntt, Lake Park, and John Maheras, Forest View.

All will graduate from high school this month. The boys are presidents of their senior classes; Miss Woods is president of the student council at SHM, which has no senior class officers.

THEIR REACTIONS were completely off-the-cuff, with no chance for reflection, and should be taken in that light. Some of their reactions were intended as pure humor, not a serious response.

Our conversation with these five people led us to some general conclusions about them and their attitudes, though there were exceptions in most every case:

—They have firm college plans, but their vocational plans are less certain. They expect to do well, but they haven't refined that to the point where they will estimate their take-home pay in 1975.

—THEY AREN'T necessarily planning to settle in suburbia. With no marriage plans, they seem to be looking forward to a few years' post college freedom, possibly in a big city atmosphere.

—They have limited interest in local and state problems. Their awareness of them mainly concerns specific cases—like a controversial apartment development.

—The exception, really a national problem, is civil rights. Reactions appear to vary from intensely in favor of Negro rights in the area of integration to a lesser commitment.

—None see themselves in the role of placard - carrier — for any cause. Some reject the value of placard - carrying to a cause.

—THEY ARE interested in international affairs, feel President Johnson has done the right thing in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. But they seem otherwise wary of the President's politicking skills and aren't sure they like his personality.

—They didn't feel a strong affinity with President Kennedy until after his murder. He died shortly after they entered their junior year — apparently too young to feel the attraction he had for young adults.

Miss Woods and Hallett live in Arlington Heights, Maheras in Elk Grove Village, Thompson in Mount Prospect and Gauntt in Itasca.

MISS WOODS has a scholarship to attend Mundelein College where she will major in history. She wants to teach that subject.

Maheras plans to attend Illinois State University at Normal, probably entering as a social science major. He may become an American history teacher.

Thompson intends to go to Brown University, Providence, R. I., in preparation for foreign service. He was an exchange student to Columbia last summer, loves the people of South America and "may even spend my life there."

Hallett is going to Northwestern University, starting in liberal arts. Though it's "too far ahead" to decide on a vocation, he may go into math or computer work.

Gauntt has applied for the Air Force Academy; he will attend the University of Southern California if the appointment does not come through (he is an alternate appointee of former U.S. Rep. Elmer J. Hoffman). If he goes to USC, he will take a general course, with a possible goal in engineering or law.

THOUGH ASKED to give their candid, personal reactions to questions hurled at them, they did on occasion attempt to give the general views of their classmates.

Here are a few of the questions, a few of their reactions:

Q. What pressures are there to attend college, what pressures are there in selecting a college, what help do you receive?

Maheras: The high school counselors see that undecided students meet with college representatives and talk, helping them decide.

Thompson: The guidance counselor helped me in deciding between Cornell and Brown. I chose on the basis of atmosphere at the schools.

Miss Woods: At Sacred Heart, they do not assume all are college-bound. You could go to one of the faculty for help in deciding, but there's no pressure.

Thompson: There's social pressure among the students. If you're not going to college, you're not doing anything.

Q. WHAT ABOUT girls and college? How do they view it?

Hallett: A girl doesn't have to go to college. There are jobs, like secretary, that are fine.

Thompson: This depends on the girl and what she wants.

Miss Woods: Girls should have some kind of school or job training.

Maheras: Girls who go to college are looking for husbands. (Miss Woods registered disagreement.)

Thompson: I think many go to college who do not expect to finish. But a girl should have education to the same level as her husband. It's a waste when a smart girl marries too soon. Junior college is an excellent idea.

Hallett: If you're a brilliant scientist or doctor, it's unrealistic to expect your wife to go this far for equal education. A good wife should have two or three years' college, though.

Thompson: I'd just as soon she didn't have the same background as I do, since I wouldn't want the children to be so influenced or limited by us.

Q. WHAT ABOUT varying attitudes of high school groups—the so-called "collegiates" and "greasers?"

Hallett: The 'greasers' are about 10 per cent of the high school, usually identified by their dress. Usually a girl with ratted hair is identified as a greaser.

Thompson: They have their moments too. I try to have friends in all groups. Apart, they're fine; they're different in a group.

Q. Are the "greasers" the rowdies?

Maheras: I wouldn't say the collegiates aren't rowdy.

Hallett: They are distinct groups. You can tell the attitude of some teachers who often will discriminate. Maybe stop a greaser for doing something and let another kid go by.

Q. What about complaints that teenage morality is declining, crime, sexual promiscuity and drug addiction are on the upswing?

Hallett: I heard of a kid about four years ago who was supposed to be on goof balls.

Maheras: There is some beer drinking. Kids do it every once in awhile.

Hallett: I think the drinking age should be lowered to 18. If you're old enough to fight for your country at 18, you're old enough to be able to drink.

Q. DO SUBURBAN parents pamper their children?

Miss Woods: I think some parents stick up for their children too much and the result is immaturity in kids who are 19 years old. In school, they're quick to defend them and don't give children enough responsibility.

Maharas: There are parents who pamper their children, and they seem to pamper friends of their children. . .I wish I knew a few of 'em. I live in Elk Grove Village—poverty pocket U.S.A.(Citing parent - sponsored drinking party for teens which gained nationwide attention in Connecticut) Maybe they do this in some area where the homes run $50 - $60,000.

Q. How do you feel about integration?

Hallett: It depends on the type of Negro who moves in, what class of person they are.

Miss Woods: I don't expect riots. It's more subtle than that here.

Thompson: I wouldn't carry around a sign. I'd like to see everyone put down their signs and let it develop on its natural course. But I hope if a situation developed I would have the intestinal fortitude to oppose an anti-Negro crowd.

Q. DO YOU PLAN to live in the suburbs?

Miss Woods: Most of the girls and I probably will live in a community like this.

Hallett: Willthere be a community like this in 10 years?

Thompson: I plan to live either in South America or on Lake Shore Drive.

Q. What role does religion play in the lives of high school students?

Miss Woods: At my school, religion can't help but play an important part; most of these girls have had 12 years of Catholic education. Some minimize it and rebel.

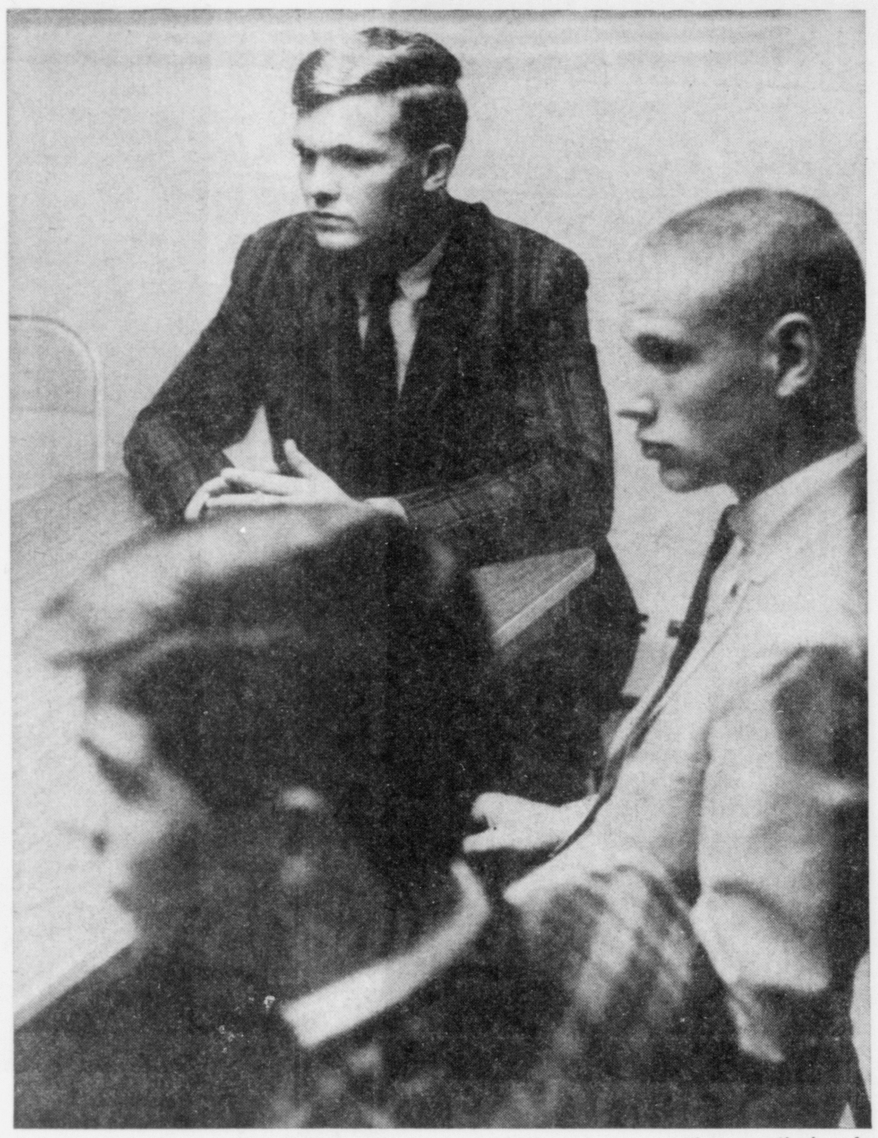
Thompson: This is one subject that is very personal. Probably only your best friend knows how you feel. Kids who talk loudly about being a Christian or an atheist are usually trying to show off.

HALLETT: Religion does not play too much of a role in kids' lives. There are some parents say they want their child to grow up and go to church—maybe they'll even drive them to Sunday School—in their pajamas.

Miss Woods: There are many points of faith that are not easy. Kids question it or question their ability to live up to it.

There is a great deal of conflict between religion and daily life, and there shouldn't be.

We are questioning ourselves and life in general. We've been pretty sheltered.



RALPH THOMPSON, Jim Hallett, Grover Gauntt and other suburban high school senior class leaders sat through a two-hour session of deliberately provocative questioning by three Paddock staff reporters on the life, outlook and mores of today's teenagers. SS

Class of '65 Better Prepared Than Predecessors: McElroy

by BEN BURNS
Staff Writer

The class of 1965 is much better prepared to handle the problems of the world than its predecessors of 10 and 20 years ago, in the opinion G. A. McElroy, superintendent of Palatine-Schaumburg District 211.

McElroy has been viewing the development of the northwest suburban version of U. S. education since 1931, when he began teaching and coaching in Palatine.

Students have changed considerably and for the better, according to McElroy. "Students today are more academic minded," he said.

"THE RESPECT for scholarship has really gone up. Students now look up to the people on the honor roll and there is not just an interest in getting into college, but an interest in getting into the good schools," he said.

The graduates of 1965 have more definite goals than their peers of a decade ago, McElroy said. "They know what they want to do when they graduate."

Thoughts of a career have been pushed earlier into the high school experience, he said.

"THE PROGRAM we now offer to talented students graduates them with about a year's more training than was the case 10 years ago," he said. "The graduates today are considerably more serious. They realize the competition they are against, now, I think," McElroy said.

The modern graduate is not the gambler of 10 and 20 years ago. He considers ability, grades and college board tests to decide where he fits, rather than gambling on going to Yale," McElroy said. "He is thinking of something more within his reach."

Another aspect of the modern graduate, who is not headed for college, is a better vocational preparation to make the youths employable, McElroy said.

IN 1945 SOME of the students with the highest intelligent quotients might graduate in the lower third of their class, McElroy said.

"Quite a number ranked in the lower half of the class and just didn't see the purpose of a high school education. Many of these went to college and were successful.

"It was never a question of would he go to college or not. For instance the University of Illinois would take anyone at that time," he said.

THERE IS A decided difference in the 1965 version of the high school graduate. The student who has ability has been motivated to use and to go on and do something with it, McElroy said.

Increased numbers are heading for additional training or education, according to McElroy. In 1945 about 25 per cent of each class would take additional studies; in 1955 that figure had jumped to about 45 per cent and the figure now stands above 60 per cent.

IN SUMMARY the 1965 graduate has been forced to do more work, has exhibited stronger qualities of leadership and has a better general attitude than his predecessors.

One thing, however, has remained pretty much the same during the past two decades in regard to the graduates, McElroy said.

"They are still 18-year-olds and they still have to grow up a little more." (SS

Wide Opportunities for Non-College Bound

But Added Study Is Recommended

by KEN KNOX
Staff Writer

It is a popular practice—almost a vogue—during the current pause in history to assert that the boy or girl coming out of high school simply must go on to college.

If he or she does not, the assertion continues, the future is destined to be a dreary current pushing without purpose and direction through a mass of humanity deprived of social or economic rewards.

The assertion is popular, but it is also a myth.

IT IS — IN countless cases—something akin to nonsense to propose that the formula for success is a college education, that it is the key to opportunity.

Few will debase the college education, or the increasing need for it in an age of mushrooming technological, political and social complexity. But a realistic look at the youngsters now coming out of our high schools, and their potentialities and interests, should demonstrate that for many of them college would be a costly mistake.

It is folly for a student to occupy a place in a college for one, two, or even the full four years and gain little from the experience. It is a waste of time, a waste of money, and a waste of space that could have been filled by someone else.

THE ALTERNATIVE IS huge, and it is promising. There are jobs to be had, careers to be made, for the young people collecting their high school diplomas now. There can be satisfaction and adequate rewards and prestige.

For the boys, there need not be the futile world of chain gang work by day and tire chain recreation by night. And for the girls, even if they're contemplating marriage, there can be a valuable association with the business world.

There are new studies, — among them those recently reported by the Prudential Insurance Co. and the research magazine "Changing Times" — supporting the suggestion that the high school graduate has a lot to look forward to, without formal higher education. Conversations with several area high school guidance counselors underlined the optimism.

"THE SITUATION," said Ron Rosenthal, head of counseling at Lake Park High School, "is much brighter than we had expected."

The high school student, according to the Prudential study, "couldn't pick a better time to be graduating into the world of work."

There are, in the estimate of the Prudential report, some 30,000 different kinds of jobs in the United States. The high school graduate is eligible for some 20,00 of them. That is a lot of availability and diversity. But there is a rub.

There will, in this decade, have been some 26,000,000 young people entering the job market for the first time. With that kind of competition, it is apparent that a little extra touch is needed to win the happiest job placement.

THE COUNSELORS, like Rosenthal and Arlington High School's Don Stansbury, report that prospective employers in and away from their areas have been coming to the schools to seek out employes. But they're not going to grab just anyone.

"I try to inform the students," said Stansbury, "that they have to have something they can sell the employer, something a little extra. They have to show a willingness to work, to learn."

That is where the critical ingredient enters. Though all types of enterprises are appealing anxiously for high school graduates to fill their vacancies, it is nevertheless becoming more and more important to have some added aptitude to offer the employer. If it is not a special skill, it must be the willingness to acquire one, or a thorough understanding of the job and what it can lead to.

That means, simply, that the youngster must accept the importance of what he or she does in school, and must plan to continue the learning process after high school.

GIRLS OFFER THE most stunning examples of how careers can be launched while still in high school. Some girls will spend the bulk of their high school time taking advantage of courses in typing, shorthand, bookkeeping and related subjects.

The result — when they get out of high school — is that they're ready to step into clerical or secretarial jobs, and they have very little trouble finding them.

Similar advantages are available for the boys who want to make use of them. Few high schools are without extensive programs in mechanical and industrial arts, in wood shop, in metal craft, in drafting. The student who is genuinely interested can log invaluable experience before he even leaves school, and that's what employers are looking for.

THE PROBLEM IN many cases is that the students aren't decided as to what they want to do when they get out of school, what kind of career — if any — they want.

That's why the counselors are encouraging the students to come to them early, so they can work out possible programs for those who don't or can't plan to attend college. The students are urged to seek advice on possible careers, and how to prepare for them.

At Arlington, plans are going ahead to test freshmen and sophomores for job aptitudes to help the school guide them toward occupational training. Arlington already is cooperating with the state employment office to test 50 seniors a year for job placement.

The most important thing for the high school student is to decide what he or she wants to do. The student may aspire to be a butcher, banker, baker, barber or bricklayer; a secretary, seamstress or salesman; a farmer, foreman or forest ranger. There is an enormous range of possible careers. Not just jobs, but careers.

"THERE IS NO real problem for the student," said Rosenthal, "as long as he takes some training and works at it. I tell them they have to get some kind of education beyond high school. It doesn't have to be elaborate, but is should be something that can help them with their jobs, or just keep them learning."

The study beyond high school should not be diminished or ignored simply because the diploma is in hand. The study — especially for boys — can be an apprenticeship, the big step toward entering a field like machine working, tool and die making, plumbing, carpentry, auto mechanics.

The study can be in a trade school, of which there are scores in and around Chicago, teaching everything from interior decorating to the operation of heavy earth moving equipment.

The study can be on-the-job, in special schools teaching subjects like radio-TV repairing and airline hostessing, at home through correspondence schools or by watching television, at adult classes in the high schools.

HOWEVER THE extra training is acquired, it should be, at least for the young person concerned about job advancement and occupational diversity. Four years — often less than that — learning about a job and working at it can be more valuable to some people than the same amount of time on college work that will be almost meaningless.

It can open up worlds in specialized fields like electronics, laboratory assistant, surveying, commercial art and photography.

And if money is a concern, there is solace there, too. Some of the best-paying jobs are those whose primary prerequisites are apprenticeships, or on-the-job study. An asbestos worker or truck driver, for example, will take home a lot more pay than the university-trained oceanographer or economist.

The young person may find he has to change his mind about a career two, three or more times in his life, and train over again. But he has to make a decision and work at it.

THE STUDY BY the Kiplinger editors in "Changing Times" sums up the formula as well as any. It recommends that the young people take advantage of their strongest abilities, capitalize on what they do best; that they do what they like to do, because there are rewards other than money; that they are aware of their own worth, and are not inferior by nature of their occupational skill; that they continue learning; and that they realize that what counts most is what is being learned, and the use to which it can be put.

You are not doomed to failure if you do not go to college. Far from it. There is a lot from which to pick and choose, but the picking and choosing should not be delayed. For the future to be bright, it must be met head-on.

Outdoors Ceremony First in History

Graduation ceremonies for Lake Park High School will be held outdoors for the first time in the school's history.

The exercises will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 11, in the football area behind the school for the 264 students expected to graduate. In case of foul weather the commencement will be conducted in the school gymnasium.

The minister of the First Baptist Church of Bloomingdale, the Rev. George Beckstrom, will give the invocation following the processional to "Pomp and Circumstance." The pledge of Allegiance will be led by Bill Peterson, student council president.

PRESENTATION of the class gift will be made by Grover Cleveland Gaunt III, as president of the senior class, which has chosen a groundcloth for the new auditorium. Administrative Asst. Eugene Swierczewski will accept on behalf of the administration.

The class theme, "Away We Go," will be presented by C. Scudder Smith.

Class valedictorian Judith Volkmann and salutatorian Sandra Duncan will be presented, and James Vincent, senior counselor, will speak. Stanley Wheeler, administrative assistant, will announce scholarship winners.

FOLLOWING FORMAL presentation of the class by Supt. Carl Forrester the president of the board of education, Frank D. Whipple, will award diplomas to the graduates.

St. Viator Events Opened With Party

Commencement activities at St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, started Friday, May 28, with the senior class party and were climaxed Tuesday with the graduation program.

Presiding at the school's second commencement and giving the address was His Excellency, the Most Reverend Jaroslav Gabro, D.D., bishop of the Diocese of St. Nicholas in Chicago for the Ukrainians.

Bishop Gabro also presented diplomas to the 174 graduates who were presented by Brother Gerard M. LaMarre, DSV, dean of studies at St. Viator.

Rev. Francis E. Williams, St. Viator's principal acted as master of ceremonies.

THE VALEDICTORY address was given by the high school's top student, Timothy L. Moder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Moder, Lincoln Lane, Elk Grove Manor.

Fr. Williams also presented academic awards and honors during the commencement exercises.

On Sunday, May 30, graduates and their parents attended a baccalaureate mass in the school auditorium at 9 a.m. Fr. Williams was the celebrant.

Immediately following the mass, the students, parents and faculty traveled to Villa Venice restaurant, Northbrook for the baccalaureate breakfast.

THE CLASS salutatorian, Joseph D. Gallgher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph V. Gallagher, 14 Winthrop Lane, Weathersfield, spoke on behalf of the students.

Gallagher is entering the Viatorian Novitiate in Arlington Heights after graduation to begin eight years of further study for the priesthood.

Also speaking at the breakfast was Rev. Emmet Walsh, CSV retreat master for the Viatorian Fathers and former English professor at Catholic University and Loyola University.

The senior class party on Friday, May 28, was held at the Mount Prospect Country Club. Dancing and refreshments were provided. Music was by The Chessmen. (SS

Military Doesn't Interest Most Grads

Recruits Get Special Plans

by DON HEINE
Staff Writer

Most 1965 high school graduates in the northwest suburbs are shying away from military uniforms—unless worn by some one else.

To overcome this reaction, military recruiters are offering modernized versions of the appeal to "travel, education and career."

The Army, Navy and Marine Corps each have programs tailored to fit the future needs of individual male graduates, with or without college.

Sgt. 1.C Harold Dir is army recruiter for the area spread from Park Ridge to Palatine. He says a recent survey of senior boys in this area showed that about two per cent plan to go directly into service.

THIS PERCENTAGE, he adds will be inflated in the next few months as recnent graduates either drop from college or fail to start.

Chief Petty Officer Arthur Morris, a U. S. Navy air force recruiter who occasionally talks at student assemblies, says:

"On a show of hands you get the impression that 100 per cent of them are going to college. We know this isn't true. We'll get a lot of them when they are 20, 21 or 22."

The strong interest in college by most students was noted by Floyd Hillman, a senior counselor at Forest View High School.

HE SAID that out of this year's class of 500 students, 10 or 12 have indicated they will go directly into uniform, including one girl whose father is a career military man.

The school administration, he adds, "is very honest with the students. We tell them if they enter college they probably won't be drafted as long as they keep up their grades."

He observes, "Kids are very optimistic at this point." Most of them expect to finish college, despite drop-out averages.

Hillman said that he does advise some boys that military service would be a good trade or technical school for them. He added that one difficulty is that many boys who enlist aren't the best students and have problems passing the tests for service schools.

AT FOREST View the school holds no assemblies for speakers from the military services, but does have an annual military service day. Representatives from each branch of service are available to junior and senior boys on their free periods.

Hill pictures the average senior boys as independent-minded on their personal situation: "They go more by what they see than by what they say to them." They may have older acquaintances who graduated and weren't drafted.

Seniors bound for college, he observes, generally show little interest in ROTC, preferring to take a chance with the draft.

YET A LARGE number of the graduates will don a uniform sooner or later. The Department of Defense in May set a quota for 21,100 men with no prior service—including 15,100 draftees.

Dir points to the Army's new high school graduate specialist program as a good opportunity. It gives the graduate a choice of 107 different occupations from motor maintenance to bookeeping.

Here in the suburbs young men show a strong preference for three fields: business machines and computing, printing, and electronics.

The graduate is free of any obligation until he is ready to be sworn in. First he takes an aptitude test, in the field of his choice. If he passes, he is put on a waiting list. In printing, for example, he now would have to wait until September.

AFTER EIGHT weeks of basic training and two weeks of leave, the man will get the school which he has been guaranteed.

If a graduate isn't interested in a guaranteed school placement, he can get another guarantee in advance of enlisting—that he will get a specific overseas assignment.

Dir said he can arrange six months in advance for a young man to be in Alaska, Hawaii, the Far East or Europe (which means France or Germany). "We can't guarantee them Viet Nam." he adds.

YOUNG MEN interested in the Naval Air Reserve may join a summer time training program.

Morris calls it "the best one we have to offer."

This is open to men 17 to 26, which includes many high school juniors, since a high school diploma isn't a requirement.

The first phase of training will consist of 85 days this summer at the Glenview Naval Air Station, starting with four-week boot camp.

"It's a good summer job," says Morris. "You get room and board and $78 a month. We feed good here."

SECOND PHASE will be another 85 days next summer at one of 18 naval air stations, most likely other than Glenview. The sailors then will go to specialty schools. Morris said 90 per cent of those completing the second summer became third class petty officers — a high rating for their relatively short training period.

This is followed by two years of active service, except that deferments are given for college. "If a man completes two years of college we try to switch him to an officer training program," Morris explains.

Recruiters emphasized the variety of programs available. Morris said he likes to go to the boys' homes and talk with parents.

Dir said the hardest boy to work with is the one who has no idea what he wants, whether he wants to work outside, in a shop or in an office. Once a boy has a general idea of his ambitions he can be shown how to achieve them. (SS

Exchange Student Is Among Speakers

A foreign exchange student from Rhodesia, Margaret Starr, will be one of three graduating seniors on the Prospect High School commencement program Friday, June 11.

Also speaking will be Don Jernberg and Julieann Thomas. They will be introduced by Ralph Thompson, class president.

The ceremonies will begin at 8:15 p.m. at the field house. After the traditional processional to "Pomp and Circumstance," the invocation will be offered by the Rev. Edwin I. Stevens of South Church Community Baptist. The choir will sing "Born to Be Free" by Ralph E. Williams, and "America, Our Heritage" by Hawley Ades.

The class will be introduced by Alvin L. Kulieke, principal, and the response on behalf of the school board will be given by T. Earl Thompson. Board members Thompson and Richard Bachhuber will present the diplomas while Donald Thomas and Louis Schultz, assistant principals, read the graduates' names.

THE PROSPECT baccalaureate service will be held Sunday, June 6, at 8:15 at the field house.

The Rev. Robert F. Klepper of Prospect Heights Community Church, will offer the invocation. The choir, under the direction of Sterling Mische, will sing "Canticle of Peace" by Joseph W. Clokey and "Ye Watchers And Ye Holy Ones" by A. T. Davidson.

The Address will be presented by the Rev. Stevens, South Church. Rev. Klepper will offer the benediction, and Terry Blackley will play the processional and incidental music.

Festivities Crowd Schedules As Final Night Approaches

by PAT ADAM
Staff Writer

Graduating high school seniors somehow find time to squeeze in some partying between final examinations, commencement rehearsals and the other activity that accompanies graduation.

The calendar of events for most seniors includes a class dinner or similar celebration in addition to the traditional junior-senior proms.

The first graduating class at Sacred Heart of Mary High School for girls in Rolling Meadows already has had its class picnic. They enjoyed an outing in the Deer Grove Forest Preserve May 27.

SENIORS AT Arlington Heights also have had their all-class party, an evening of skits, dancing and refreshments last Friday. The same night the juniors at Palatine High School feted the 1965 graduates with an all-school farewell party.

Banquets are planned by seniors at Fenton and Lake Park High Schools. The Fenton graduates will have their dinner at Plentywood Farm Wednesday, June 9, while Lark Park seniors are holding theirs in the school cafeteria the same evening.

A more casual affair is planned by the seniors at Willowbrook. They'll observe Class Day tomorrow (Friday) starting with breakfast in the cafeteria at 7:30 a.m., followed by a hootenanny, dancing and skits. After that they'll be excused from school for the rest of the day. Many probably will have informal beach parties, said one of the school counselors.

SOME GRADUATES may have private parties between now and Commencement Day, like Kathy Dunn of 34 Woodcrest, Elk Grove Village, who entertained her fellow speech students at Forest View High School with a party at her home.

Come Commencement Day, however, Kathy and her fellow seniors at high schools in the area seem to prefer being with their families. Open houses, receptions and family dinners are the favored ways of celebrating.

Kathy's parents will have a reception for close family friends and relatives following the Commencement exercises.

"We think most of the seniors prefr ob wih hir familistte prefer to be with their families at this time so we won't be inviting any of Kathy's friends to the reception," said Mrs. Robert T. Dunn.

MARKING THE BIG occasion with an open house will be Kathy Polacheck of 1323 Rosita Drive, Palatine, who's graduating from Palatine High.

Relatives and close friends will be invited to the celebration, according to her mother, Mrs. William Polacheck.

For some seniors, like Lynne Schomburg of 305 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, it will be a double celebration. She'll be graduating from Arlington High on June 11 and observing her 18th birthday the next day. Lynne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schomburg, will toast her with an open house, including supper, for relatives and intimate friends.

Typical of the many families who'll be observing double graduations are Mr. and Mrs. William Mott of 15 S. George, Mount Prospect, who have sons graduating from high school and college. Bob Mott will be getting his diploma from Prospect High School, and brother Tom is graduating from Culver-Stockton College. They'll celebrate with an open house with the boys' friends and close family acquaintances as guests.

AT LEAST TWO post-graduation parties are planned for entire senior classes.

In Mount Prospect, a group of private citizens will sponsor an all-night dance at the Mount Prospect Community Center following graduation exercises. A similar activity is planned for Forest View seniors after their commencement ceremony. Neither of these events is school-sponsored. (SS

No tickets will be issued for the latter event. Seating will be on a first - come - first - seated basis.

New Song To Have Premiere

The new Sacred Heart of Mary High School song will be sung by the 139 members of the senior class tomorrow for the first time.

"A school whose lesson never ends,
"A home within a home of many friends,
"Where wisdom wears a youthful smile
"And faith grows deeper all the while."

The opening stanza describes the school, say the graduates, who are lauding Sister de la Merci, RSHM, for completing the song for their class day Friday, June 4.

The song will be presented by the seniors to Sister Columba, RHSM, school principal, and mother Loyola, RSHM, suprior of the Rolling Meadows Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary community.

A SPECIAL TREE planting ceremony will be held before the premiere of the song. The ceremony will be conducted by Rev. Daniel Coughlin, assistant pastor at St. Raymond Church, Mount Prospect. Fr. Coughlin has been conducting a series of classes on marriage for the seniors at the school.

The maple tree will be the first of a line of trees to be planted by graduating seniors immediately to the west of the senior wing of the building. The tree will bear a plaque "Elan," French for youthful verve or joy of life. It is the name the class has used during their four years at Sacred Heart.

Class awards will be announced late Friday at a special assembly of the entire student body of 782. The awards are kept secret until the special assembly.

COMMENCEMENT activities begin today, June 3, with an Alumnae installation and tea. Elections for the 1965-66 year of the new Alumnae Association will be held.

A baccalaureate mass will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 5, in the school auditorium. Officiating will be Rev. Robert Minton, pastor of Holy Family Church, Richmond, Ind. He is an uncle of one of the graduates, Marsha Minton, 800 I-Oka, Mount Prospect.

Breakfast for the graduates and their parents will be held in the school cafeteria following the baccalaureate mass. The senior awards and honors will be presented at the breakfast.

The first SHM graduation will be held at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, June 6, in the school auditorium. Admission is by ticket only.

The class valedictorian is Janet Skupien, McHenry Road, Prairie View.

PRESIDING AT THE graduation will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William E. McManus, superintendent of schools for the Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago. Msgr. McManus will present the diplomas to the graduates and introduce the guest speaker, Dr. John H. O'Neill. Dr. O'Neill is assistant superintendent for instruction and pupil personnel services in the Illinois Office of Public Instruction.

A 40-member gless club, composed of underclassmen, will sing Nicholas Brodskey's version of "I'll Walk With God"; "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" by Julia Ward Howe; and the prayer of St. Francis of Assissi, "Lord, Make Me an Instrument of Thy Peace," arranged by Denise Mainville.

THE CLASS GIFT, a statue of the Sacred Heart of Mary, will be presented to the school at the first alumnae meeting in the fall. The statue will be placed in the center of the quadrangle court of the school. The graduates have raised $2,000 for the statue through activities during their four years of high school.

The first graduation activity was the school's first senior prom on Friday, April 30. The prom, attended by 107 senior girls with their escorts, featured music by Ronnie Rogers Band. Dinner was served at midnight and a "coketail party" was hosted by the junior class before the prom.

The seniors also held a farewell picnic at Deer Grove Forest Preserve near Palatine on Thursday, May 27. Team sports, games and food were the main features for the girls and some of the teaching sisters.

More Openings, Summer Job Supply Low

'Depends on Timing and Who You Know'

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

"It's who you know," a high school senior said after looking for a summer job.

"No, it really is timing," a Prospect High School senior believes. He described "pounding the pavement" for a job and then striking a store that was hiring many students.

"Job opportunities are better this summer than previously but we're still short," said Everett Callaway, manager of the Des Plaines office of the Illinois State Employment Agency.

STATE AND NATIONAL employment officials have noted the shortage of jobs for the teen-agers who are part of the "baby boom" of the late Forties.

A Chicago radio and television station is attempting to help in finding jobs for youth this summer, he said.

Callaway has 1,300 teen-agers registered with the employment office. He is in contact with 14 high schools.

Thomas Thornton of the Arlington Park District said the park district hires about 25 high school students. Hiring students is also the practice in Palatine Park District. The teen-agers work as maintenance employes, concession stand clerks, and checking room attendants. They are always supervised, Thornton said.

COLLEGE STUDENTS would get preference in jobs, Thornton admits. But many college students would not be interested in the kinds of jobs these high-school-age youngsters get. Collegiates want supervisory work that involves them directly with children.

Thornton said a high school student is paid less than a college student.

To hold jobs, students must be 16 years old or older, Thornton said.

The gas station, source of teen jobs, is open for limited teen - age employment. A spokesman at the L & S Standard Service Station near Randhurst said he has two high school students working. But they have worked part-time throughout the year as well as summers. He gives seniors preference, he said.

GOLDBLATT'S STORE in the Mount Prospect Plaza hires about 40 teen-agers for summer and part-time work, Saturday, Sundays and evenings. The high schooler gets some preference because he is able to work earlier and more than his college counterpart. Girls are used for sales and boys primarily in stock boy capacity.

Carson Pirie Scott and Co. in the Randhurst Shopping Center has had a teen board but a personnel spokesman did not know whether one would be instituted this summer. She said the store does not hire replacements for vacationing employes and it is not interested in part-time help.

Callaway said a variety of jobs exist that teen-agers can do in factories, retail operations, and offices. The only limit because of state law would be for those under 18 years old who are not allowed to work with dangerous or hazardous equipment.

CALLAWAY attributes the brighter picture for teen-age summer employment to a lack of sufficient labor force in the area and an increasing awareness by employers that teens can make dependable vaction replacements for regular personnel.

He finds many of the students ambitious to find jobs to make money for college and even girls of "well to do" families are working for the experience and money.

Employers who have hired teen-agers are divided in their opinion of the work of these youthful employes. Mickelsen of Goldblatts says frankly it has been a "50-50 story" with a "lot of real good kids" and "some who just collect their paycheck."

"WE TRY TO weed out the ones who just come to collect a pay check," Mickelsen said. He finds the greatest problem is with part-time yearly help. The students have many school activities, and they may call up near the last minute saying they can't work. This plays havoc with the scheduling of work, he said.

The park districts have found their experience with the youth generally good.

The youghful attitude can be a problem, some employers have found. Elk Grove Village, for example, used college students in the street department in the summer. The youth just did not do the work of laborers they since employ, the street department foreman said.

One employer found boys and girls on a truck farm job had a brief tomato throwing contest. But these cases seem to be the minority.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE Pres. Jack Pahl talked during this year's political campaign of having the government urge plants in the Centex industrial park to provide job opportunities for teen-agers. Nothing has been done officially yet.

The Illinois Youth Commission working in conjunction with the Rolling Meadows Youth Commission several years ago tried to set up placements for teen-agers 14 to 19 years old. This agency no longer exists.

Callaway expressed interest in working with youth commissions on a job placement service.

The high schools usually list jobs available to students. At Arlington High School one of the counselors is considered a vocation specialist and encourages the listing of jobs for students. Even baby sitting opportunities are posted on a bulletin board.

THE NORTHWEST suburban area has nothing like the North Shore with a volunteer B'nai B'rith agency trying to list and match jobs with teen-agers.

For most students finding a summer job requires enterprise . . .and a bit of luck.

"Are We Prepared?" is the theme of the senior addresses, to be given by John Chalupa, Dave Swingley, Franz Peterson and Karen Helgeson.

Area Schools Give Sound Education

By TOM EDWARDS
Staff Writer

Area high schools generally are providing a sound education, particularly in preparing students for college, students feel.

The major curriculum weakness indicated by a cross-section of students is vocational education.

These were some of the assessments made by students from six local high schools. A total of 55 were asked last week to evaluate their educations, and about 38 returned the questionnaires provided by Paddock Publications. The handwriting indicated more girls replied than boys.

The schools were asked to distribute the forms to the alphabetically first 10 students, whose names began with "C" in order to have a non-selective representation. Included were five public schools and one parochial school.

Perhaps most heart warming to the school staffs would be that nearly all of those returning questionnaires gave their teachers an over-all rating of excellent, and said their own high schools were tops or well above average.

ADDITIONALLY, to the question, "What do you like best about your school?" the majority cited a warm and cooperative relationship between teachers and students.

Nearly all of the students, nevertheless, had some criticisms and suggestions.

But often more indicative might have been the overtones of some of the statements, and what wasn't said rather than what was.

For instance, their answers emphasized their schooling has been valuable for preparing them for college or for a job. Few, however, stressed it as a broadening and enriching experience which will help them to appreciate and taste life more fully.

MANY lauded what they expect their education to do for them in the future, but few spoke of concurrent benefits.

There were such telling statements as: "In spite of the fact that I am not going to college and have not participated in the college prep courses . . .. I do feel that I have benefited from the industrial arts program. . ."

A large number indicated they expect the intangibles from their college education, that their high school education "has been a solid base, but worthless until built on and expanded."

"Without further education I would be lost," was one comment. Another referred to his education as "profitable."

MANY OF those obviously headed for college felt their high school had been inadequate for those who weren't planning on college.

Three even said they wished that courses of a general mechanical nature had been available for students in college prep courses. One mentioned he would like to know enough to avoid getting scalped in house and auto repairs when he is older.

There were also several direct requests that an auto mechanics course be added to the vocational education department.

A number thought that psychology courses should also be added to the curriculum, and existing sociology courses came in for some severe criticism.

Over three-fourths of those responding, though, felt "our educational system is meeting the needs of students and society" in most respects.

One asked for a course on marriage and family relationships, and another commented that the duty of school is to provide opportunities for students to meet their own needs, "which they are doing."

What many said they liked best about their schools was the "variety and diversity" of courses offered, and some said they would like even more variety.

Two cited the "traditions" of their school as its outstanding feature, one a "reading center," and another the "liberalness of the school paper." School unity and student productions were other favorite points mentioned.

AS THEIR chief gripe, a significant number pointed to "in groups" and "cliques" which they said are favored by the school administration. One went so far as to say that social "elites" are given particular attention and privileges.

A majority said there is "favoritism or discrimination" shown by the faculty. But several limited this to "some faculty members, and some said they feel the favoritism shown is perhaps even warranted.

One pupil stated there is no discrimination by the faculty, except "between the collegiates and greasers."

Another referred to the "division of greasers, rah-rahs, athletes, eggheads, etc.," and its effect on school spirit.

BUT IT was a practically unanimous opinion of the respondents that their schooling had had a "positive effect" on their "ability to think and reason," and that they had been "provided with a useful store of knowledge."

And most said if they had it to do over again, they would study harder.

Other dislikes were that rules are too strict, grades are overemphasized, students aren't allowed to leave school during lunch, classrooms are drab, there is too much old-fashioned thinking, and too much "censorship of ideas and activities."

Slightly over half felt students are not given enough say about the operation of the school. Some indicated they are allowed to speak up, but they aren't being listened to. A few commented that most students are too timid to speak up anyway, that there are few leaders.

One called for a "suggesion box" to be installed in schools.

SUGGESTIONS for improvement included student exchanges with Puerto Ricans and Negroes, varying class schedules to help break the monotony, better English and foreign language programs, more supplemental reading, elimination of study halls, more "work to do on your own, not under an iron hand," more interesting classes, less and more constructive homework, "deeper and more complex" subject matter, and periodic re-evaluation of teachers.

There were several suggestions for more seminar type courses, and some thought group discussions should be increased. Many indicated that the worth of their courses depends upon the teacher, with some complaints about "old" teachers.

A few spoke for "on the job experience," and there were several comments of praise for the work-study programs.

MOST AGREED with the amount of time now being spent in school. Several spoke for earlier classes and year-around school with staggered vacations.

One said fast learners should be allowed to proceed through school faster.

A need for more counselors was cited by a substantial number, and most praised the work of their present counselors.

One student suggested that the students should have one of their regular classroom teachers for a counselor. There is greater rapport between a student and teacher, the suggestion was explained.

A substantial majority felt parents should play a greater role in education, with one opponent saying that education should be left to "experts."

Few complained about overemphasis on sports or other extracurricular activities. But several thought school clubs "dull."

The National Honor Society was the only extracurricular activity mentioned by name, with two expressing distaste for it.

TOO MUCH emphasis is put on "competition" in schools, one student criticized. Cited as an example was a drive to collect canned goods for needy people in which the "slogan" was to "beat" another school in the amount collected. The need of the project should have been stressed, the student explained. Several expressed concern for the education of students in areas like Chicago's South Side.

"It's been O.K.," one student tersely said of his education, but "it could have been better if I'd wanted it to be."

Most of those replying said they thought the questionnaire was good and thorough. They cited the questions on their "personal estimation of the worth" of their education and its social significance as the most important, although there was considerable variance in opinion.

"It has set me thinking," one commented on the questionnaire. Another said it was "ridiculous."

Fresh, Candid Comment

"I wonder, will anything except for an article, come out of this questionnaire.

"An article is interesting to read, but will it influence anyone to think and act?"

So wrote one student at the end of a form used to prepare the accompanying evaluation of area high schools.

Adult criticism of the questionnaire was that students aren't qualified to critique the worth of their education. So perhaps this student's pessimism concerning the questionnaire is well founded.

THIS CRITICISM OF the questionnaire may be true, since few students have anything against which to compare their educations. (Some even stated this.) Since school has been the focal point of practically their entire lives to date, they have had little opportunity to put to work what they have learned, or to see if it works.

But the same is true of many educators, who may never have come into contact with their subject matter outside a school environment. Indeed, the focus of their entire lives may have been schools, returning to teaching immediately after completing high school and college.

Few are the people, it seems, who can say that the expenditure of their energies in life does not seem worthwhile to them if they have no alternative experiences for comparison.

Anyway, youth sometimes supplies a fresh candidness which is at least interesting.

Teacher Finds Elk Grove Ill-Informed on Capitalism

I recently assigned the pupils of one of the schools of this community with the following: Ask five adults, "What is a capitalist?"

A sample of the replies received follows.

"A very wealthy person whose worth is derived from the efforts of others."

"A Republican or someone who has control of a lot of money."

"One who exploits our natural resources."

"A person who believes that the weak should suffer and the strong have it made."

"Someone who takes advantage of somebody."

"The power and wealth and influence in the hands of a few."

"One who pursues the type of economic freedom that gives us the Great Society."

"A person that believes in Communism that lives in the United States."

"A rich business man who hogs the market."

"One who has enough but wants more and more."

"A person who and with other people control the government."

"Government ownership."

Since I believe it is safe to assume that Elk Grove Village is an average community, and average adults were asked the question, the answers reflect a true sampling of what the average American believes a capitalist is.

The answers sound like the Communist Party line right from the book. Is communist propaganda effective? Every one of these answers is in some way erroneous. The "true definition" is what the students learned in a unit studying the Stock Exchange.

The students were from Grove Junior High School, Elk Grove Village, the adults were all from the same community.

Want Ad Calls Please Reader

Picking a name for a college must be a very difficult thing to do, even for the Board of Education.

Because, for a name to be appropriate, it should bespeak the dignity of higher learning, and at the same time have some erlationship to its locale.

But it is difficult to meet both of these requirements. For example, if you called it the John F. Kennedy Junior College it would have dignity but it wouldn't have any connection with the area and it wouldn't be very original. If you called it WEPS Junior College so that each letter in WEPS stands for the first letter in each of the four townships (Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg) it ties in with the area but it has no dignity or educational uplift that I can see.

And if you called it Northwest or Northwestern Junior College, I'm sure it would be confused with a hospital and a senior college in Evanston.

If you called it Randview or the Halls of Ivy, it might be picturesque, but again, not very meaningful. If you called it Wheeling Junior College, it would conflict with Wheeling College (senior) in Wheeling, West Virginiaand if you called it Elk Grove, Palatine, or Schaumburg Junior College this would not be good.

Most names of junior colleges don't meet the requirements of dignity and a relationship to the locale. In looking at the 1965 Almanac here is a smattering of typical junior college names: Casper, Citrus, Compton, Ellsworth, Glendale, Highland Park, Lee, Mitchell, Olympic, Sinclair, Taft, Thomas, Weatherford, Yuba. I think we owe it to ourselves in this great area bounded by these four townships to have a junior college with a name more significnat than these.

Such a name does exist because it would be named after a very important, tree-lined and highly regarded main street cutting through the heart of Wheeling Township and into Palatine Township — and at the same time a name that carries the educational dignity and inspiration of one of the greatest Greek scholars and mathematicians of all time: Euclid Junior College.

Believes Ad Circulars Are Aid to Burglars

The increase in the number of robberies in our community is quite disturbing, especially now that vacation time is here. I believe everyone should do his part to put down this increase.

One way would be to stop the deliveries of advertising material to our homes. I refer to all those pieces of junk mail fastened to our front door many times every week.

We're told to stop deliveries of mail, newspapers, etc., which we do, but what of these deliveries that can't be stopped? They leave quite a bit of evidence telling one and all that "No one's at home here."

I have tried and tried to stop these deliveries, but to no avail.

We are about to go away again soon and I simply dread leaving the evidence behind. Can't someone put a stop to this? These ads are read very little, if at all, and they could prove to be an expensive free delivery.

Grateful for Honors During Police Week

In behalf of the police department of the village of Arlington Heights, I most humbly wish to thank the president and the board of trustees who, acting upon a resolution presented by the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, proclaimed the week of May 9 through May 15 as "Honor Your Police Week."

A presentation of awards and open house was held May 12 at the Municipal Building.

Individual silver stars were presented to each officer and letters of commendation from Mr. J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Col. James P. Strauss, Nike Site, and Mr. William H. Morris, Superintendent, Illinois State Highway Police, were presented to the department.

We also received many other letters of commendation during the week and they will adorn the walls of our police section. The Arlingtones entertained during the ceremonies and refreshments were served during the open house.

This is not only appreciated by members of the department, but their wives as well. We are all extremely grateful for the honor bestowed upon us.

Disapproves Of 4th Graders Frog Activities

This is a copy of the letter I sent to Mrs. Freeman, teacher in Wheeling.

Dear Mrs. Freeman:

Great sport!!

Fourth graders hunting frogs for vivisection. They should be studying nature and enjoying it with a feeling of concern for God's creatures.

There is plenty of time — the rest of their lives — to see life in the raw, its cruelty, sickness and sadism.

If the children are taught such callousness at this age, it is no wonder teenagers can and do have much disregard for human life and property.

Support for Art Center Is Appreciated

We would like to extend a sincere thank-you to the many persons and organizations who have supported the activities of the Countryside Art Center during our past years of growth.

We are cognizant of an increasing interest in art within today's society, and we are happy to be able to promote this interest through our art gallery at 10 W. Miner St., through special events such as the recent Spring Art Festival which was attended by hundreds of visitors.

The support which is extended to our work by members of the community is both inspiring to our artists and deeply appreciated by all of us. We would like to especially thank Paddock Publications for their cooperation in reporting art events and to the Park District which has offered facilities to us at Pioneer Park so many times.

A special thank-you to all of you!

Track Star's Parents Pleased By Coverage

As the parents of Gordon Dreyfus, we wish to express our deep appreciation to your newspaper for its coverage last Thursday of his winning the state championship in the mile run. We particularly thank Ken Knox of your sports staff for the factual account of Gordon's track career and the beautiful manner in which the article was written.

The Palatine Enterprise does a very commendable job in covering the high school sports scene, and we believe it is safe to say that this thorough coverage provides inspiration for many of the athletes and serves to encourage more boys to participate in some phase of athletics.

Special credit for Gordon's success must be given to his fine teammates and to Palatine's dedicated coaching staff. Without the encouragement and advice of these people, particularly coaches Dick Storm and Joe Johnson, Gordon could not have attained the honor of this championship.

Despite the lack of adequate indoor track facilities, the staff consistently fields superior track teams, and Palatine can be proud of the accomplishments of these fine men. Providing such a fieldhouse would put Palatine on a more competitive basis with such schools as Evanston, Proviso West, Maine West and Oak Park.

We hope Gordon's story will result in more parents encouraging their sons to take part in athletics in high school because every class has its potential champions, but they will never be known unless they make the effort. Gordon's story should be a good example that a boy never knows his ability until he tries.

Again, we thank you for your always fair and complete reporting of school athletic activities. Gordon's scrapbook is filled with clippings dating back to his freshman year, and we know they will be a source of pride to him in future years, thanks to your newspaper.

Disagrees on Bold Type Used On News of Rubbish Complaints

Your front page article in bold headlines was most unfair to the Laseke Disposal Co. While the complaints mentioned by our mayor are perhaps justified, this does not mean that bad and "messy" service is general throughout the entire village! We have no complaint and in speaking to some of our friends found that they had none either, so we feel an apology is due Laseke for blowing up this story to such proportions! Anyway, we do not consider it good front-page news.

A couple of weeks ago I happened to be in our garage when the pick-up man came for our garbage. Since there was very little in the container that day, he noticed a clothesbasket full of cutting and twigs near where I was standing and asked me if I would like him to take the contents along. I replied that I would be very glad to have him do so. We have an extra long drive and they do not cut across our lawn to make the trip shorter.

When curb service was in order I often noticed many overly-loaded containers set at curbside not to mention very inadequate and overly loaded cardboard cartons also, when all it would have taken was a gust of wind, or a heavy rain to either whisk loose the contents from the top or make a soppy mess of the same (this has happened) and I wondered how the men liked to be confronted with something of this nature on pick-up days.

However I have also noticed that many folks, if their containers are overloaded will take precaution and cover same carefully in some manner. It just may be that the Laseke Company like many other concerns have some employes who are conscientious about their jobs while others do not care how they do the work just so they get their pay check. It takes time to weed out this type.

While we're about it, I would like to mention another company which has my sympathy. For years folks have complained about the North Western Railroad, poor service, etc. Some years ago our depot was remodeled and a year or so ago it was repainted. I was delighted to see this transformation but what happened?

Commuters continued to drop their cigarette butts on the floor and I was appalled the last time I took an early morning train to the Loop to see the deplorable condition of the floor caused by this inconsideration and carelessness. I did, I must say, not notice any receptacles for smokers to use, and there should be some, but until there are certainly there must be a container somewhere on the premises where folks could dispose properly of their stubs.

Also, there is a certain store in town that seems to be a hangout for teenagers. I noticed early yesterday morning that the proprietor had evidently swept up after he arrived to open up, but just drive in front of the place later in the day and you will find the sidewalk littered all over with papers from confections. There is a refuse can nearby and it is a crime it isn't used! The proprietor should "lay the law down" to these young folks!

We had to put out over $400 to put a sidewalk in along the side of our property so that the children could walk safely to and from the school nearby (we are on a corner and had sidewalk in front of our premises). Now I have to pick up papers etc. that the youngsters occasionally let slip out of their hands, but they are tiny tots so I do not hold them responsible. However if the matter gets worse from time to time I will, in a nice manner, ask the schools to instruct their pupils in "nonlittering," but I wouldn't think of putting an article in bold headlines in the town paper.

Suburbanites in the news — Design for Living — Business Building Improving

New Colonial Heights Split-Level Wins Favor

The split-level "Salem" has been drawing steady acclaim from visitors since its recent unveiling in Colonial Heights in Mount Prospect.

The new model is one of several ranches and split-level designs now showing in the all-residential community, located on Busse Road, three blocks north of Golf Road (Illinois Route 53). The community has just opened another section to purchase of sites and home building directly across Busse Busse Road from Mount Prospect Country Club.

Builder Neil Hunter reports, "The public seems to like the idea of being practical in layout, but providing a novel twist to the design here and there. And that's what we've done in the 'Salem'."

THIS APPROACH to design details in this new Colonial Heights model is noted as soon as the visitor enters it. The front entry is attractively set back under the roof, open only to the front, and there is room for making the area even more attractive with planter or other decorative device. The buyer has a choice of colors in the exterior.

The entry foyer is floored in slate, offers a convenient guest closet directly opposite the front door. Entrance to the garage is to one side; to the other is the living room.

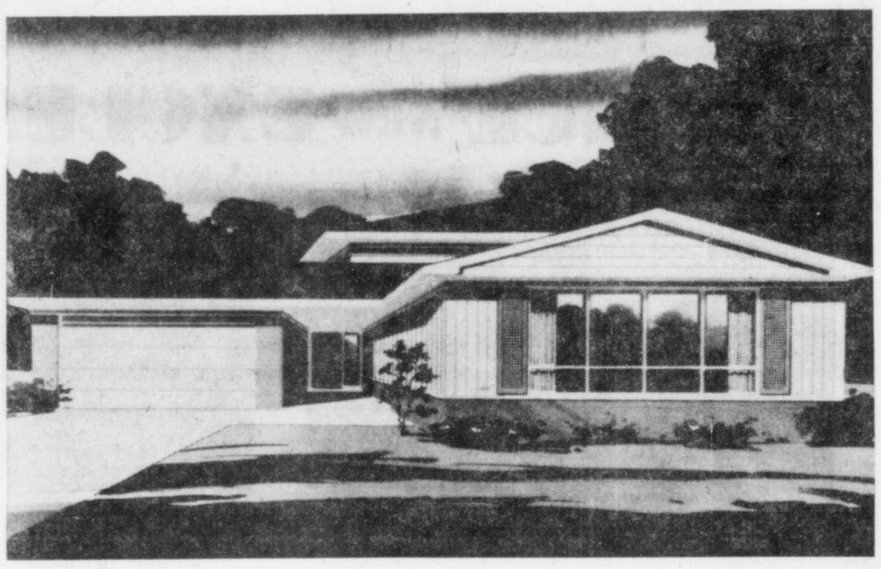
In this plan, the stairs to upper and lower levels are centered and meet at one corner of the living room. The traffic flow thus directed is direct and practical.

THE LOWER level of the "Salem" contains a spacious toy or storage closet at the foot of the stairs, powder room, large laundry room and a family room. From this room sliding glass patio doors open onto a concrete area a few feet below grade level.

The kitchen in this model has built-in appliances and work areas in an L-arrangement, with cabinets, counter tops and oven and range in a choice of colors. Rear entrance to the house is at one side.

On the upper level are the three bedrooms and family bath. A second entrance to the latter is private to the master bedroom. The distributing hallway is spacious and rectangular, with a linen closet convenient at the head of the stairs.

The new "Salem" and other model homes are on display every day in Colonial Heights from 10 a.m. till dark. (BB



RECENTLY ADDED to the homes being shown by Colonial Heights in Mount Prospect is the "Salem," a split-level with three bedrooms, 1½ baths, a large family-recreation room and laundry-utility room. It is one of several models on display in the community on Busse Road, three blocks north of Golf Road.

Patio Popular with Regent Park Dwellers

California style outdoor patio living has become an important facet of home ownership in Chicago. In keeping with the growing trend, the United Development Co., builders of Regent Park in Arlington Heights, include a 180-square foot concrete patio with each town and garden home.

"Today's home buyer is not merely looking for, but demanding many of the extra luxuries available only to the very wealthy," stated United Development's director of sales, Herbert H. Lipson. "Patios and the way of life conducive to patio living are an important one of the extras."

Regent Park patios are extensively used by the families residing there. Among the many uses for these patios are dining, sunbathing, cocktail parties and just plain old-fashioned relaxing.

THE REGENT Park town and garden home has among its "other luxuries," at no extra cost, a fireplace, central air conditioning, General Electric disposal, ceramic tile baths with oven and range, dishwasher and marble vanity tops, complete landscaping, complete storms and screens, sunken garbage cans, underground utility lines, slate and oak hardwood floors, copper plumbing and insulated patio doors.

The homes are located on Kensington Road in Arlington Heights and have their own private lake on a 45-acre site, as well as a private swimming pool and tennis courts. (10BB

New Riley Homes Feature Walled Patio, Tudor Style

Since its opening early in May, Plum Grove Village, located on Kirchoff Road about a half-mile west of Illinois Route 53, has been winning increasing acclaim for its attractive, original concept of both community and the individual homes.

Designs offered include both ranch and two-story plans, with exteriors in basic English Tudor styling. Each home has its own walled, competely private patio-terrace. This is similar to the old Roman atrium and to the inner garden-courtyard of today's fine villas with the home designed around the secluded patio.

In addition to the walled patio, each design includes two baths, two or three bedrooms, living room, dining room, fully-equipped kitchen, basement and attached two-car garage. Fireplaces are optional, with two different types offered. In some plans, there is also an attractive dressing area and a spacious informal activities

ALBERT RILEY, well-known builder and designer who also developed Plum Grove Countryside on Route 53 at Euclid Lake Avenue, about a mile west of Arlington Heights, commented, "The village is ideally planned for active adults, and children at least thirteen years of age. Privacy and comfort are the keynotes.

"Each of the attached homes is laid out around its own patio-garden. But, frankly, it's hard to describe them. They're not apartments, nor townhouses nor condominiums or co-ops. Really, you have to see Plum Grove Village in order to appreciate it —it's so different!"

Riley noted that the entire community is surrounded by a rustic palisade of weathered wood and there are no sidewalks anywhere in the village. Paved lanes wind through the park-like community, and the homes are grouped along wide courtways off the principal lanes. Near the center of the community a small park and lagoon are now being constructed.

LAWNS, shrubbery, parkways and other landscaping are professionally maintained the year around.

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

With the warmth of summer finally here, gardens can now be planted with even the most tender plants. Should the fall be a mild one, certain flowers such as petunias and roses could, with night protection, be attractive as late as mid-November. This means that with proper care in planting and selection, you can enjoy these flowers for almost half a year.

To obtain the best display for the longest period of time, use started plants. Many will already be exhibiting a sample of their bloom in garden center displays.

One of the most novel items this year is the yellow petunia. It comes in three varieties: moonglow, brassband and high noon. Moonglow is the best variety for Chicago area gardens. The yellow is not a strong yellow . . . more the color of pale butter. In high temperatures this will fade until it gives just a suggestion of yellow.

WITH THE introduction of this color, petunias are now available in almost every color except orange. Some of the doubles are even edged with lime green!

New this year is the all-America winner petunia, Apple Blossom. The flower is aptly named. The background color is light pink flushed with a deeper pink. The central tube is yellow. In test gardens last year, we observed that it was a very heavy bloomer.

It holds up well, too. Instead of going limp under light rains, the sturdy flowers are attractive and undamaged. The color did tend to fade under high temperatures. However, later blooms produced under cooler temperatures did again have the attractive shading of deep to light pink.

ALTHOUGH THE petunia is the most popular bedding plant, the snapdragon is making a comeback. It's not only attractive in the garden, but it can also be cut for indoor use. Plants so treated branch from the base and send up new spikes for a continuation of bloom. The Rocket, Vacationland, Hit Parade and Sunrise series are all good tall growing varieties for this area. Half-dwarf varieties are the Carioca, Frontier, Knee-high and Sprite series.

The most novel item this year is the dwarf floral carpet series. The six-inch bush plants are covered with well-proportioned flowers. One color of this series, floral carpet rose, is an All-America winner this year. Having observed it for two years before its introduction, I feel it is a worthy edging plant. Unfortunately, the supply is short, and it will not be available at all garden centers. (15BB

Activities Schedule Set Up

Rehearsals for graduation activities at Fenton High School will begin Tuesday, June 8, when seniors will practice for Senior Evening.

Fenton's commencement is scheduled for Friday, June 18. The senior dinner will be Wednesday, June 9, and Senior Evening Wednesday, June 16.

On June 8-10, graduating seniors will be dismissed early from classes to rehearse for commencement and Senior Evening. At the evening ceremonies, achievements in various fields are recognized.

MEMBERS OF THE class of '65 will pick up their caps and gowns Friday, June 11. The cap and gown fee of $4 is due before that date.

Semester examinations for seniors are scheduled for June 15 and 16. The latter afternoon will be spent practicing marching for the commencement program.

June 17 is officially the last day of school for seniors. On that day, seniors will pay fines and meet in homerooms for final clearances.

An additional commencement practice will be scheduled for June 18 if needed.

NO REHEARSALS are scheduled for the final week, so students may prepare for their semester examinations.

"All rehearsals and meetings are compulsory. Tardiness and absence will not be tolerated. Each day listed is considered a day of school," said Norman West, principal. (SS

Let's look at the RECORD(S)

BY LINDA NORRIS

Gather 'round, sentimental album collectors who dote on island music . . . Columbia Records has a new LP called Farewell, Hawaii, featuring the Klima Hawaiians which is a most apt substitution for today's modern tranquilizer . . . Soothing to the nerves in this hectic day, the soft strains of this Hawaiian daydream will provide a real relaxing evening . . . Songs included are On the Beach at Waikiki, Song of the Islands, Honolulu March, Softly Murmurs the Sea, Song of Samoa, Bali Waltz, Auf Wiederseh'n Sweetheart, Tigershark, Hilo March, Samoan Flower Lei, Hawaiian War Chant, and Aloha Land, among others.

It's always good news when Jerry Vale cuts an album and his new one for Columbia is just another welcome addition to the great music this talented lad has dished up to disc fans for lo these many years with so little credit or fanfare . . . In his latest, Jerry does a medley of Italian numbers, including, O Sole Mio, Mala Femmina Mama and Come Back to Sorrento, as well as popular standards such as Hey, Look Me Over, Lulu's Back in Town, With a Song In My Heart, I Left My Heart in San Francisco, If I Had You, Granada, I'm Always Chasing Rainbows and The Song Is You.

Another vocalist with real talent who has been stampeded by the no-talent groups is Vic Damone and he's back on Columbia with his usual fine offerings . . . Entitled The Best of Vic Damone, the LP lives up to its title in every sense . . . Vic does a great job with Gigi, The Second Time Around, An Affair to Remember, Separate Tables and On the Street Where You Live, along with others, mostly from Broadway shows and well known.

Bartlett Girl Wins Top Scholar Honors

A Bartlett girl will graduate from Elgin High School next Thursday as one of its top scholars.

Eileen M. Rivers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Deward A. Rivers, 119 N. Tatge Ave., Bartlett, tied for first place in senior academic standings with Linda Sodenberg, an Elgin girl.

Both girls maintained a straight-A average for all four years of high school, including the last year of junior high, to qualify them for highest senior academic honors awards Tuesday at the school's academic honors day.

TWO STREAMWOOD girls also got senior academic honors awards at Larkin High School late last month after maintaining a 4.6 or better grade average for one year.

The girls are Phyllis Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil H. Harris, 604 Ridge Cir., and Linda Schmieder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Schmieder, 418 Cedar Crest Cr.

Both Elgin and Larkin are on the 5.0 grading-scale, where an A equals 5.0 and a B equals 4.0.

Miss Rivers, 17, intends to go to Knox College this fall and eventually go into veterinary medicine, which she admits is an unusual choice of occupation for a girl.

"I'm interested in that, though," she explains. "I worked at Apple Orchard Country Club stables a couple of years ago and like to ride. And, we've always had dogs."

Miss Rivers, who does her horseback riding at Dunham Woods Stables, will attend Knox on a scholarship from the college as well as a state scholarship.

"I think I got a lot out of high school," she said, "but the more I learn, the less I feel I know."

HER FATHER is a rural route mailman in Bartlett, while her mother works in the shipping office of an Elgin manufacturing firm.

She attended Ellis Junior High, where she confessed sadly she had a B-average in the seventh grade.

Both Streamwood girls intend to go into nursing careers. Miss Harris, 17, will study at St. Anthony's in Rockford this fall on a partial scholarship from the Zonta Club, an organization of business women, while Miss Schmieder will enter training at Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago. (SS

CONFUSED? NO, IT ONLY looks that away. Actually, two vacationing Arlington Heights citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Kouzmanoff, can't make up their minds, whether to fish, play golf or swim in the pool at Clearwater Beach, Fla. The weather was ideal for all such activities the entire month they were in Florida. Most of the time, while Tommy toured the fairways in quest of pars and birdies, his wife combed the beaches for shells. In eight trips to Florida, Tommy and his missus said they enjoyed this one the most.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS — By C. D. Smith

Parents Laughed At Her Ring

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a problem. I am thirteen years old. I have had a few boyfriends. I got a boy's ring once and when I showed it to by mother and father, they laughed at me. My relatives did the same. After that, I have had no boyfriends. When I am with my girlfriends, they talk about their boyfriends and I feel out of place because I have no boyfriend to talk about. What should I do?"

OUR REPLY: You are much too young to let boyfriends—whether you have any or not—be such a problem in your life. Wait until you are older, without being guided or concerned about what your girlfriends do. When the day comes, when the right boy comes along and you really get a ring—for real—you will not find your parents laughing at you. If you have chosen wisely, if it is the "right" boy, you will find them happy for you. This great day in your life is a long time in the future however.

In the meantime, concern yourself with a happy school life and a happy home life. Enjoy growing up; it doesn't have to be painful. You can put forth the effort to do your best at school, to be helpful at home, and still have time for friends, both boys and girls. You will be surprised at how well things go if you keep everything in its proper place.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Family Pot Luck — BY HELEN HALE

Good Eating

Dot drained canned pears with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon sugar. Broil and serve with sour cream for a sweet-simple dessert.

Variations on a theme should include cole slaw which can take pineapple (crushed and drained), diced pears or apples and strips of ham and cheese if you like a main dish out of it.

A quick sandwich that's satisfying as a lunch or supper item: Toast white bread, top with drained canned sardines and a slice of cheese. Broil until cheese melts.

Good sauce for fish? Saute slivered almonds in butter until lightly browned and pour over fish fillets.

Add some pineapple to a barbecue sauce and use it on spareribs after they're broiled. Mighty tasty!

Sliced cucumbers chilled in salted water, mixed with sliced red onion rings are wonderful in a salad. Vinaigrette dressing is indicated.

Helen's Favorite:

Black Cherry Salad
(Serves 8)

2 cups cherry juice and water
1 package black cherry gelatin
2 cups canned black cherries, drained
1 cup chopped blanched almonds
8 stuffed olives, sliced

Heat cherry juice and water, add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until thickened, add remaining ingredients, pour into a mold and chill. Unmold on greens and serve with mayonnaise-whipped cream dressing.

MOUNT EMBLEM

"Illinois' Most Beautiful Cemetery"
Site of the
OLD DUTCH MILL
Built in 1850

The DuPage County Historical Society presented an AWARD OF HONOR to MOUNT EMBLEM CEMETERY in 1956 for preserving the Old Dutch Mill as an educational and historic exhibit.

Visitors to the Old Dutch Mill are always welcome.

Autumn brings a glorious burst of color to the superb landscape of Mount Emblem. This is one of Nature's most impressive moments which we invite you to enjoy.

You will see acre upon acre of multi-colored effects from our great variety of trees and shrubs each lending its particular hue to the scene.

For such extensive landscaping you could reasonably expect to pay more Yet our prices are moderate. It costs no more to own the best.

"It is better to have it and not need it—than to need it and not have it."

MERCY

It is comforting for the Christian to rely on the mercy of God, yet we should never forget that God is just as well as merciful.

We have never been granted license to knowingly do wrong. Because we know that we can seek forgiveness, we are not free to plunge into a wrong act with the idea of making proper amends tomorrow.

When we do wrong, we turn our back on God, or so we believe. This we cannot do. God is everywhere. What we actually do is shut our eyes to God's truth and to our own heritage as Christians and believers.

In the days of the Old West, the Calvary had its share of "Winter Soldiers." They signed up for duty with the arrival of winter, only for the food and shelter provided. With the arrival of spring, they vanished with the wind.

We cannot turn our back on God, nor can we seek God's mercy if we are "winter soldiers" in the army of salvation.

The Way We See It

Illinois Awaits Equitable Remap

Observers of the Springfield scene have reported the first signs of life in the special Senate-House bipartisan conference committee responsible for drafting reapportionment maps for the state.

The committee has only one month to complete the work and get it adopted, unless the legislature is to remain in session beyond its usual adjournment date.

The delay on reapportionment is not due to any great difficulty in drafting a plan which would comply with all the laws. Anyone who knows simple arithmetic, and is provided with some maps and a few sharp pencils, could come up with an acceptable districting—acceptable to the voters, that is.

The delay results from the wish of both parties, and individual politicians in the parties, to squeeze the last drop of partisan and personal advantage from the remap. Thus politicians behave like hot-rodders playing the game of "chicken," determined to sit tight and force the other fellow to swerve from a collision course.

All sorts of legalism is trotted out in support of differing viewpoints. Thousands of words are spilled over whether the Supreme Court's one man, one vote decision invalidated the 1954 Illinois amendment separating Chicago and the rest of Cook County. Lawyers indulge in subtle arguments about which court in case the legislators fail to do their duty.

In fact, if all the brainpower expended in explaining what should be done after legislative failure were applied to the task at hand, it would be enough to draw legislative districs for three or four states.

Some Democrats adopt an exaggerated concern for absolute equality among all districts, even if it means chopping a township from one county and lumping it with a neighboring county to the confusion of the voters. Some Republicans, on the other hand, would like to stall redistricting in the hope that an amendment to the federal constitution would upset the Supreme Court's decision.

Some more responsible legislators are concerned about a possible repeat of the fiasco of two years ago, which led to an at-large election. They know this would tarnish still more the not-too-shiny image of the Illinois General Assembly. We hope these legislators will speak up—in opposition to their party big-wigs if need be—in support of a sensible and legal solution.

Fortunately, the public has protection against inaction that was lacking in the past. Illinois went 54 years without redistricting because lawmakers simply ignored the Constitutional mandate to redistrict every 10 years. They preferred keeping their seats to obeying the law. And the courts refuse to intervene.

This was one of many similar situations which impelled the Supreme Court to enter a field from which it had held aloof for so long. Now the public has protection in the knowledge that the courts will act if the legislature doesn't.

In Connecticut, the court set a deadline beyond which the Yale University computer center would take over the job. The legislature of that state responded with a map.

Perhaps the same threat is needed now in Illinois.

Just a Beginning

Paddock Publications is pleased to present a special Commencement Supplement with this week's editions. We hope that students and parents will find it a valuable souvenir of an important milestone.

It is not at all unusual for commencement to be regarded as the end of a high school career, although the word plainly means the opposite of "ending." This is not as contradictory as it sounds, because if a new phase is to begin, an old one must end.

Commencement is the beginning of a new phase of life for high school graduates. For perhaps a majority of those in the northwest suburban area, the next step will be college. This represents a sharp change from the past, when the great majority of high school graduates had finished their formal education and were entering directly upon their life work.

The success of the high school program must be judged on how well it prepares its graduating seniors for their next steps, whether they be in college or at work.

The formal education obtained from textbooks and in laboratories is the basic element in this preparation, but not the only one. Also of great importance is the education received in learning to get along with others.

Getting along with others includes establishment of satisfying family, social and neighborhood relationships.

It means being ready and able to play a part in the life of the community where one lives.

It means understanding mankind's common heritage, despite differences of nationality, race and religion.

Perhaps the knowledge of how to get along with others is more important today than ever before. At least it would seem that the consequences of not geting along will be worse. The daily headlines are an ever-present reminder of that.

The many achievements of our high school seniors in scholarship and extracurricular activities, most of which have been reported in these papers, give us confidence that they will be able to conquer the challenges ahead of them.

Jobholder Scandal

Several state driver license examiners have been fired after Secretary of State Paul Powell received evidence that they solicited money to grant passing marks on the tests.

Powell should be commended for moving against this practice, which has been a source of complaint, particularly from out-of-state people moving to Illinois, for many years. Whether he will be able to obliterate the petty bribery remains to be seen.

Most of the driver license testing positions are patronage jobs. A person holds his job as long as his party's standardbearer is elected secretary of state.

Certainly, if the jobs were put under civil service and became career positions, the prospects of attracting examiners who were not "on the take" would be greater.

Speak Up!

Suburbs Skip Bird Crisis

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

Illinois has a state bird—the cardinal.

But recently an Illinois Representative whose district includes Griggsville, center of the purple martin house industry, proposed Illinois change its bird from the cardinal to the purple martin.

In the midst of the debate another representative with alleged syndicate connections is reported to have suggested a "stool pigeon" might be more appropriate because he was protesting grand jury hearings in Chicago.

Now it seems Illinois legislators may please both proponents by leaving the cardinal the state bird and the purple martin the "honorary state bird."

FEW PEOPLE, except for legislators, seem to have given the bird matter much thought. But the opinions they give are as variable as the colors people prefer.

A Wheeling 14-year-old who has enjoyed bird watching in an Audubon Club perhaps gave the most perceptive answer. Eleanor Burns, 365 S. Nancy St., observed that the purple martin is a pretty bird but it is difficult to show this in pictures. The cardinal is more vibrant in color and more common, she said.

The cardinal should remain as the Illinois state bird, Eleanor said. It will be more appropriate for the uses for which a state bird is intended.

A Mount Prospect youth observed that the cardinal was a better bird for Illinois because it stays in the state through the year.

MRS. WILBUR Davis, 15 E. Jeffry St., Wheeling, backed her opinion with logic as a nature lover and observer of birds. Though she admitted "I love them both" she favored the purple martin.

"It would be sort of nice to be different," she said. A number of states also use the cardinal as the state bird.

"Illinois is certainly a farm area, Mrs. Davis said. The purple martin is useful in eradicating insect pests of the farmer." The cardinal normally stays in a three mile area and never leaves the vicinity. He often is seen in woods area, she commented.

Mrs. Ralph Sandeen, 21 S. George St., Mount Prospect, sees no reason to change from the cardinal as the state bird. "Why not keep the cardinal," she asked. "It's a beautiful bird. Everything is changing so rapidly. We've had the cardinal for so many years, we should keep it. There is no reason to change."

LORENSON

"The cardinal is so happy and cheery and he's here all year round," she noted. Purple martins do not stay.

Children also find it especially easy to recognize the cardinal, Mrs. Sandeen said.

MRS. WALTER Meyer, 1205 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, put her choice as the cardinal simply because "I like the color red."

Another Arlington Heights woman disagreed with her. Mrs. Felix Fronczak, 221 S. Dwyer St., Arlington Heights, preferred the purple martin "because it's a useful bird."

A Schaumburg man who declined to be named wasn't completely sure what the cardinal looked like. "It's red isn't it?" he asked. He preferred the purple martin he said because "it's a nice bird."

"You hardly see the cardinal around except maybe in the woods," he added.

"THERE ARE not enough cardinals around to see," said Thomas Dunk, 817 S. Emerson St., Mount Prospect. He added that he might be biased in favor of the purple martins since he has a purple martin house in his backyard and likes having the birds around to watch. "All you have to do is put up a martin house and they're there," Dunk said.

I Remember Radio

by DICK LEONARD
Staff Writer

I read the other day that the Lone Ranger was dead.

Sounds impossible, but sadly true. The original masked rider of the plains has turned in his silver bullets. Strange how something like that can make a man suddenly feel quite old. Imagine, never again will there come "out of the west, the sound of hoofs and a hearty 'Hi-? Silver, away.' " Great Caesar's ghost! Has it really been that long ago? Fifteen years . . . it seems more like a lifetime.

WOULD YOU believe me if I told you that my otherwise well - balanced youngsters have no idea what the word "radio" means?

When I have enough courage and turn the "thing" on (what with Wild Man Gregory and his all night twist party in the offing) my trio asks sincerely what happened to the video?

Radio to them is only one-half of a TV set. If only I could somehow tell them of the wonderful world that has passed them by. But would they be able to understand what it means to sit in front of that small box eagerly awaiting the next sound which could be . . . "Henree, Henry Aldrich . . ." "(gulp) Coming, Mother." Or perhaps, " Duffy's Tavern, Duffy ain't here. Archie the manager speaking. Oh, hello Duffy."

TELL ME honestly, was there a red-blooded boy alive worth his salt who failed to thrill to the strains of "Raise the Flag for Hudson High, Boys" that ushered Jack Armstrong onto the air waves?

Sometimes, late at night after the kids are bedded down and the late show it just a shade too much to take, I start wondering whatever happened to Johnny - you know the one - that little fellow who used to shrill "call for Philip Morreees."

And that usually starts me going. A parade of disjointed ghostly voices from the past rings softly in my ears. Close your eyes a moment. Think back. Remember. . .

"There's good news, tonight . . ." "Can a girl from a little mining town in the west find love and happiness as the wife of one of Britain's most titled lords, Lord Henry Brinthrop?"

REMEMBER these familiar voices: "This is Cecil B. DeMille saying so long from Hollywood. . ." "In the disguise of a mild-mannered reporter for a metropolitan newspaper, Clark . . ." Or the sound of a creaking door and "Welcome to the Inner Sanctum." "I have a lady in the balcony, Doctor. .." "Why, I used to woik in that town. ." "Stop the Music."

And that brings me to Sunday, the best time of all. It was a family affair. First, without fail, "J-E-L-L-O . . . Jello, again, this is Jack Benny speaking. . ."

Remember the gas man? Frank Remeley? And the Sportsmen quartet with their "Hmmmm?" And you could bet your bottom dollar that before the show was through you would be sure to hear "Trains now leaving for Anaheim, Azusa and Cucamonga. . ."

AFTER BENNY came the master: "Oh Mr. Allen, Mr. Allen. . ." "Yes, Portland."

And once again that famous trip down Allen's alley with its four wacky residents. . . "Ah, say somebody whammed mah — what's this. Claghorn's the name. That's Senator Claghorn. I'm from the South, son. That's the deep South." And Mrs. Nussbaum and her "Howdy Doody. . ."

Ajax Cassidy, a man of aches and pains with "What's all the fiddle-faddle? Who's instigating the din? Oh, how do ye do!" And of course that beloved New Englander, Titus Moody.

Today, I guess the old routines would sound corny. But I'd gladly trade Shindig and Peyton Place for one more moment that would sound like. . .

Titus: Howdy, Bub.

Allen: You look depressed Mr. Moody. Is there something wrong?

Titus: My wife lost an ear.

Allen: Gosh, your wife lost an ear. In an accident?

Titus: She was carryin' a basket of corn in from the born.

Allen: And?

Titus: My wife lost an ear.

Allen: I see. Tell me, Mr. Moody, have you a hobby?

Titus: I have been on Hobby Lobby twice. Fust time I went to New York with 200 pounds of putty. Savin' putty was my hobby.

Allen: And what did you do on Hobby Lobby?

Titus: I jest spoke my name. Said the putty was mine. The feller who was runnin' the program felt my putty and said "No hard feelin's" and "Thank you, Mr. Moody." The audience stomped and whistled. I picked up my putty and came home.

. . . Yes, I remember Radio.

New Look for Boxing?

By BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

The second Clay-Liston fight has raised a howl of complaint from boxing purists. They want an investigation. They want purses held up. They want the contestants barred forever.

They just don't realize that times have changed. They hark back to the "good old days" when skilled boxers like Johnny Dundee and Kid Chocolate would climb into the ring and put on an expert demonstration of hooking, jabbing, feinting, and throwing uppercuts. Those days are gone forever. Now we are in a new phase.

CUMMINS

Boxing may be following the same path wrestling took. First there was the deadly serious era in wrestling. Grapplers followed the Greco-Roman rules. They skilfully applied half-nelsons and scissors holds. There was no kicking or biting.

BUT WRESTLING adjusted to changing times. The participants abandoned ordinary names like Frank Gotch and chose more appealing ones like The Masked Marvel, The Bald Angel, and Mr. Moto.

They developed exciting new athletic techniques, like the two-footed kick. They formed themselves into two broad categories—the good guys and the bad guys. They began to generate excitement.

Like lots of other people, I deplored the mayhem which resulted. But then a good friend told me that it really wasn't as brutal as it looked.

I WAS incredulous. "Do you mean to say that when The Bald Angel kicked Haystacks Calhoon in the mouth, it didn't hurt?" I asked.

"It might have hurt a little," I was told. "But not much. You see, all these things are arranged. Haystacks knew the Angel was going to kick him in the mouth." But I still wasn't convinced — until a few nights later, when my friend and I were watching Ivan the Terrible and Mr. Moto in a television bout.

It was prime TV time, from 9:30 to 10, which indicates the popularity of wrestling in those days. Ivan and Moto had been going at it hammer and tongs, without appreciable advantage for either contestant.

FOR EVERY slap Ivan gave Moto, Moto had returned a kick. For every Mr. Moto gouge, Ivan had twisted some extremity of Moto's body with merciless ferocity. It seemed all even.

Then my friend exclaimed, "Watch out, now! Everything is about to bust loose!"

"How do you know?" I asked.

"Because it's 9:58 p.m.," I was told. "They have exactly one minute to finish the bout before the final commercial and sign-off."

HARDLY HAD my friend completed this sentence than frenzied action began. Ivan was thrown against a ring post with terrific force that should have split his head. In return, he dealt Moto a tremendous kick in the chin, causing the Japanese athlete to do a double backward somersault.

Then Moto tossed Ivan completely over the ropes and Ivan ricocheted off some folding chairs and down a concrete aisle. Ivan climbed back into the ring, rushed Moto, threw him against the ropes, and applied what the announcer called "the crucifix hold," i.e., Moto's neck and wrists were entangled in the ropes as if he were being crucified on them. Helpless in that predicament against Ivan's pounding, he was forced to give up — at precicely 9:59 p.m.

Then we heard an important message from the Reliable Furniture Company ("The Workingman's Friend") and the program signed off at 10 p.m.

Perhaps some day Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston can put on as accomplished a performance as that. They are crude now, but they have the spirit. If they work at their trade, they may someday be signed by Reliable Furniture Company.

Suburbia's Nightlife Isn't for 'Squares'

By FAY TOQUE

Suburbanites aren't "square" after all.

So reports a successful entertainer who laughs at the claim suburbia rolls up its sidewalks at 9 p.m.

"It's not true that suburbs are dead after dark," explains Elinore Sten, pianist and satirist currently marking the first anniversary of a long-run engagement at the Flying Carpet Inn at Mannheim and Higgins Roads, Rosemont. "There's often as much or more nightlife available out here as in most areas of the city."

She credits the shift of entertainment to the growing suburban population, development of O'Hare Airport and its adjacent complex of motels and restaurants, and a rising income level which enables suburban couples to afford a "night on the town" close to home.

ELLIE STEN'S STYLE of entertainment is sometimes regarded as "too sophisticated" for suburbanites — a claim she refutes. "I've found my audiences to be as sharp, fun-loving and good natured as any I've played to anywhere."

This is high praise coming from a performer whose career has spanned a continent and embraced theaters, ballrooms, hotels, lounges, and films.

"My career has run the gamut of show business —from girl band to touring stage shows," she laughs.

The blonde comedienne launched her career at the age of 16 when she quit high school to join an all-girl band as pianist.

Later, she organized her own all-girl group — Elinore Sten and the Smoothies — which "toured everywhere."

"I learned my apprenticeship the hard way," she recalls. "We were stranded more than once, surviving every possible disaster — dust storms, tornadoes, floods, even two hotel fires!"

ON A FIRST-NAME basis with a host of top show business personalities, she made national theater tours with such stars as Van Johnson, Roy Rogers, Ethel Merman, and Tex Ritter. Her motion picture debut was in International Pictures' "Romance and Rhythm," and she has had several successful radio shows.

Her LP recording, "The Mental Blocks of Elinore Sten," is still in demand.

The strain of one-night stands and theater tours became tiresome. "I wanted to settle down and enjoy a home."

In 1950, Ellie dissolved her band and developed the "single" which has proved so successful in nightclubs and lounges from coast to coast.

FOR SOME YEARS, Ellie had written special material for other performers. "I finally resolved to do something for myself."

Her new act, featuring original songs, risque patter, and satire, was introduced at the Taj-Ma Room in Atlanta, Ga. It eventually brought her to Chicago, where she's enjoyed extended engagements in the Loop, Near North, and suburbs.

She was featured entertainer for two years at a motel lounge in Des Plaines and for one year at the Maitre d' in Elk Grove Village. After a 10-month engagement in a Loop hotel, she opened at the Flying Carpet in June, 1964, for what has been an "indefinite" run.

"I enjoy playing for suburbanites," she relates. "They are warm, friendly, appreciative and responsive. And especially important to me, they're brighter, better educated than average people."

THIS IS significant to Ellie Sten's brand of fun. Literate and well-informed, she describes herself as "self-educated" and "a voracious reader of newspapers." Her taste in books runs from Schopenhauer to Spillane.

Her original repertoire reflects her wide reading tastes, including such routines as "Square Peg Intellectual" and "The Analyst Is My Shepherd."

Among her most popular routines are naughty parodies of such famous fairy tales as "The Three Bears," "Jack and the Bean Stalk," "Little Red Riding Hood," and "Cinderella."

OTHER SPECIAL material includes fun-poking at Hollywood with a satire on old movie queens entitled "The Rochelle Hudson Tango" and several devastating take-offs on film star Bette Davis.

Ellie Sten encounters no language barrier in her cosmopolitan repertoire of songs. She sings in Arabic, Greek, Russian, Jewish, French, Italian, Japanese, and Spanish.

"Not bad for a high school dropout, eh?" she chuckles.

"IT'S NOT TRUE that suburbs are dead after dark," exclaims entertainer Elinore Sten. "There's often as much or more nightlife available out here as in most areas of the city." The sharp-tongued comedienne is observing the first anniversary of her long-run engagement at the piano bar of northwest suburbs' Flying Carpet Inn. (Staff photo

Teen Theatre Plans Musical

Teen Theatre Club of the Arlington Heights Park District is planning a summer project for teens who are interested in music and theatre.

Two students at Prospect High School have written an original musical which will be produced this summer by the park district group. An invitation is extended to all area students to participate.

The show is entitled "We Are the Grandest" with book and lyrics by Adrienne Kulieke and music by Jim Grady. It is based on the true story of Napoleon's younger brother Jerome, who came to America on a Naval cruise, met and fell in love with Betsy Patterson, an American girl, and married her against Napoleon's wishes.

ALL HIGH SCHOOL and college students are eligible to try out for the show. There are 19 speaking parts and a chorus, and only five parts require solo singing voices. The music requires a 15-piece student orchestra which will be directed by Scott Nyquist, also of Prospect High.

Tryouts for speaking and singing parts will be held Monday and Wednesday, June 14 and 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Arlington High School Little Theatre. People who are interested in backstage work can sign up at that time also. Singers should bring their own music, and an accompanist will be provided.

Rehearsals will be on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

THE FINAL performances will be Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, Aug. 6, 7 and 8, at Wheeling High School.

Interested teen-agers should inquire at Pioneer or Recreation Parks where registration for summer membership is being conducted. Additional information may be obtained by attending one of the Teen Theatre meetings on Tuesday evenings at Recreation Park. Coach and director of this group is Mrs. Ann Hume. (Bill

New Countryside Show Features 5 Painters

Works by five painters in a new show entitled, "The Spring Chord," will be featured at the Countryside Gallery, 10 W. Miner Street, Arlington Heights, from May 28 to July 2. The featured artists are Marguerite Brockman and Christine Siegfried, Arlington Heights; Sylvia Birch Halperin, Winnetka; Inez Abrahamson, Highland Park; and Catherine Glosser, Niles.

There will be an opening reception for the artists next Sunday at the Countryside Gallery from 1 to 4 p.m. The public is invited.

Marguerite Brockman attended Bowling Green University in Ohio and studied oil painting and watercolor techniques in Cincinnati for many years with Carl Von Volbroth. She exhibited her work at various art fairs in and around Cincinnati, winning several honorable mention awards, and showed her paintings at Mabley and Carew Department Store there, the YMCA, the Hilton Hotel and other hotels.

SINCE MOVING TO Arlington Heights, Mrs. Brockman has exhibited her work in the Chicago area and will serve as vice president of the Countryside Art Center for the coming year.

Christine Siegfried studied at the University of Colorado, Colorado State University and with Barrington artist Ruth Meade. Her paintings, drawings and serigraphs have been exhibited in the Chicago area at McKerr Observatory Gallery and The Sun-Times Show, and they may currently be seen at the Baptist Art Center. She has also been represented at Old Skulkin Gallery in Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

The artist won an honorable mention award for drawing at the Hubbard Woods Art Fair of 1964, and she has served as a director of the Countryside graduated from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. She has taught various YMCA adult art classes including classes in ceramics. She has exhibited her work in numerous art fairs in the Chicago area, notably at the Hyde Park Art Fairs and the Village Green Art Fair. Besides painting and drawing the artist works in ceramic sculpture and pottery.

Catherine Glosser, who received her education at Western College and the Art Institute of Chicago, has won many prizes for her paintings. She has received first, second and honorable mention awards at the Evanston Art Center, second prize for prints and drawing at the North Shore Art League, third prize at the Northwest Art League and twice has won first prize at the Old Orchard Bank Show through the Skokie Art League.

She has participated in numerous juried and invitational group shows in the Chicago area, and is represented in the sales and rental gallery of the Art Institute of Chicago and the Illinois State Museum at Springfield. Mrs. Glosser is also affiliated with the Deerpath Art League Gallery in Lake Forest and the Sneed Gallery in Rockford. She works in oil, the drawing media and encaustic.

SYLVIA BIRCH Halperin has studied art at the Art Institute of Chicago and the Evanston Art Center with Paul Weighardt. She is represented in the Art Institute sales and rental gallery, and has exhibited her work in the Jens Rison Show Room of the Merchandise Mart, Madison Art Gallery in New York, the Otto Seligman Gallery in Seattle, Wash., at the invitational Old Orchard Art Fairs and the annual Chicago Artist Competitions.

She won first prize at the Highland Park Art Fair of 1963 and in the same year was awarded the Manuel Kahn Prize by the North Shore Art League. She received a first prize for drawing from the North Shore Art League in 1962. Mrs. Halperin is also a member of the Evanston Art Center and the Suburban Fine Art Center in Highland Park.

The Countryside Gallery is open daily except Monday from 1 to 4 p.m. For further information concerning gallery shows call 255-9718 during gallery hours. (Bill

Richard Tucker Is 1st Ravinia Soloist

Richard Tucker, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, will appear as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at Ravinia on Thursday evening, June 17. Seiji Ozawa will be the conductor.

Tucker replaces Idil Biret, the young Turkish-born pianist who was to have appeared as soloist with conductor Nadia Boulanger at the festival's opening concerts on June 15 and 17. There will be no soloist on June 15.

This will be Tucker's second appearance at Ravinia. He made his festival debut during the 1959 season.

THE CANCELLATION of Miss Biret's bookings followed Mlle. Boulanger's cabled notification to the Ravinia Festival Association that she would be unable to keep her conducting engagement because of a close personal tragedy.

Ozawa will open the season, replacing Mlle. Boulanger on the podium both Tuesday and Thursday, and also will conduct his originally scheduled concert on Saturday evening, June 19, when pianist Andre Watts will be the soloist.

Ravinia coupon books are available until July 1. These represent a 25 per cent saving over gate admission.

"MARRY ME!" sing each of the suitors for the hand of the fair Bianca in the Shakespearean segment of the sophisticated musical comedy "Kiss Me Kate." Betty Jane Martin, 527 Shadywood Lane, Elk Grove Village, is perplexed as she considers "Tom, Dick, or Harry," Peter Piper, left, 1205 Greenwood, Mount Prospect; David Frost, Mundelein, and Jerry Butz, 1810 Hatherleigh Court, Mount Prospect.

Technical Crew Has Own Show to Stage

Working on the production crew of a play or musical comedy is sort of like putting up a Christmas tree.

First you've got to find the right tree, then place it in the stand and bring it into the house, only to discover how tiny the livingroom is. Next the ordeal of decorating, lights and ornaments all over the room.

But Christmas Eve that tree is something special — soft, twinkly and beautiful. The feeling you get looking at it is what the production crew experiences on opening night.

IN THE Best - Off - Broadway Players forthcoming production of "Kiss Me Kate" there will be an entire cast of players who will never appear on the stage.

Yet, who will know "Kiss Me Kate" better than set designer Joyce Zeller, 808 W. Thomas, Arlington Heights? Or better than set builder Chuck Baehne, 314 Home, Itasca, or wardrobe designer Marilyn Greiner, 30 N. Donald, Arlington Heights?

Set designer Joyce Zeller, with her wealth of experience designing shows for many other groups as well as the BOB Players, will have a real challenge in "Kiss Me Kate," because the show combines a Shakespearian drama within a musical comedy framework.

LARAE Biesterfield, Barrington, who is in charge of lighting, must study the script and plan colors and light intensities which will affect the various moods of the play. Making sure the colors of the scenery, costumes and lights are coordinated is quite a headache.

So is following up on everything that has to be done for the show. That enormous job belongs to Tom Ellison, 845 N. Beverly, Arlington Heights.

Gathering all the properties, including things such as flowers, furniture, lamps, will be Lee Notari, 209 N. Pine, Mount Prospect. Of course, finding the props is only half the job; she also has to make sure that they are in their proper places for quick scene changes and stage entrances.

BEING IN charge of the make-up room for a show is like dressing 20 children for Sunday School on Easter morning. This job will belong to Kelly Gavlin of River Grove.

Then last, but never to be forgotten, is the state manager. A stage manager is an acrobat, electricial, psychiatrist, plumber, diplomat, carpenter — you name it. Rick Janda, 320 S. Dale, Arlington Heights, is to be stage manager for "Kiss Me Kate."

Anyone who has ever worked "behind the scenes" will agree that an audience really sees two shows — the one produced by the technical crew and the one being acted out on stage.

Both productions of "Kiss Me Kate" can be seen June 18 and 19 and June 25 and 26 at 8:30 p.m. at the Prospect High School auditorium. For ticket information call Nan Prince. 392-0667, or Martha Brayton, ME 9-9446. (Bill

The public is invited to this last meeting. Members are urged to support the art league by attending and bringing guests. For reservations, call Barbara Liljequist, CL 5-3510.

BIKINIS AND BATHING SUITS race down the beach to where the boys are in "The Girls on the Beach," starting tomorrow (Friday) at the Mount Prospect Cinema. Exhibits For Artists

The works of art of members of the Mount Prospect Art League will be on display at several local locations during June and July.

During June, the Mount Prospect State Bank will show the work of Thelma Bliss of 405 S. Hi Lusi, Mount Prospect. Darlene Mitchell of 1 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect, will have a one-man show at the Thunderbird Bowl on Rand Road in Mount Prospect during June and July.

During June, July and August, 10 members of the art league will have paintings on exhibit at Lutheran General Hospital, Dempster Street, Park Ridge.

SEAN CONNERY and Ursula Andress star in "Dr. No," on a twin bill with "From Russia with Love," at the Catlow Theatre. Both United Artist releases are in Technicolor.

'Opal' Should Be Funnier

by JIM PHILLIPS
Paddock Drama Critic

"Everybody Loves Opal," but not everybody understands her. It was true Friday evening at Prospect High School. Village Theatre offered John Patrick's vehicle to a ready-to-travel-light audience, but somehow or other their Opal just couldn't get out of second gear.

The Richard Tyler-directed itty bitty ditty about a cruddy fuddy duddy was true-to-life, all right, but not true to one important facet of presenting comedy to a suburban audience: you can't hide the funnyisms under the rug. This is not to say that "Opal" was entirely matter-of-Patrick — there were some hilarious moments, but they were few and far between. And Opal, the mistress of junk, is quite a comical character.

Doris Silver, VT's choice for the title role, was easy going, handled herself capably on stage, but she was much too pleasant looking and seemed more similar to one of those early Saturday morning supermarket shoppers on the near north side of Chicago, and not an itchy-scratchy old thingamabob whose middle name might be "Raunchy."

IN FACT, Miss Silver had a very clean face and a coiffure which, though plain, was much too well-kept — and wouldn't you know it — in real life, the program notes, she's a hairdresser!

Jan Hausler's Gloria didn't begin to boil until the second act. Perhaps she was warned about approaching the Billie Dawn-type dumb blonde—perhaps she felt the danger of treading upon such well-traveled ground. She shouldn't have worried. That's exactly what playwright Patrick had in mind. Miss Hausler could have put into the first act a bit of her well-timed, neatly - delivered moments spent in acts two and three.

Dave Dove's Bradford was adequate, but somehow Dove just doesn't come across with the flair of a "leading man type." He remains much too aware of the fact that there are lines being delivered on stage and not portrayals. And a classic example of this dangerous temptation occurred in act one, when he reacted in facial expression and movement to a line that hadn't even been completely finished by an on-stage colleague!

"RED" POWNALL'S Sol was a wonderful touch to the show. Just right, gravel voice and all.

A highlight of the production, I thought, was a brilliantly - played (and underplayed, too) duel of lunacy between Opal and her doctor (John Lobenhofer). It was splendid to watch and showed the interest of the two people in what they had to do for laughs.

Also worth mentioning; an outstanding job of make-up on Lobenhofer. His (the doctor's) age was allowed to come through by way of characterization — without dominance of eye pencil, graying, brow streaks, etc.

Glenn Erickson's police officer was satisfactory, but at times very stiff — as if he would have given a few pennies to get offstage and breathe easy for a moment or two.

THIS WAS not one of Richard Tyler's better directorial feats. "Opal" should have burst a little more at the silly seams. Doris Silver should have come forth stronger as a freshman in the school of daffiness, and a little prompting from "Dean" Tyler might have added more life to the junkyard joust.

Some noticeable weaknesses Friday night: the sound effects combination of actual-on-stage crash with recorded crash is rarely successful. It wasn't successful when I heard it. Better everything goes - up - for-grabs on stage (or backstage to complement the on-stage noise).

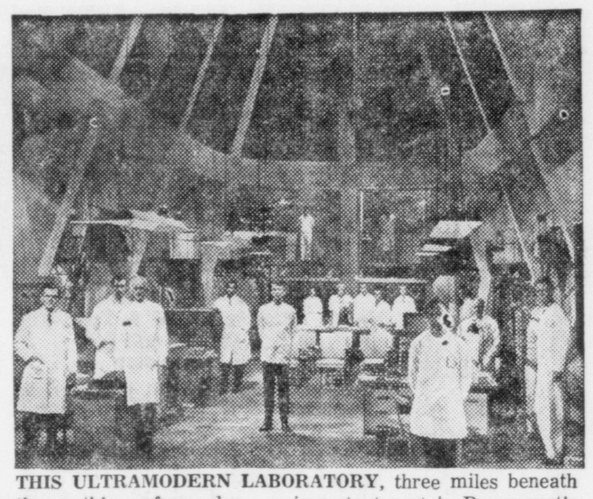
Dave Dove's end-of-act-1 reaction with the slurping of the tea was much too much. More subtlety at this moment is the answer, not spit.

OPAL'S SECOND act exit was too quick, and most of the audience saw her leave quickly before the lights had been killed and blackness had a chance to overpower eyesight.

I found Dave Dove's set a masterpiece of careless-b u t-oh-so-expertly - careless bedlam. It was (ugh) beautiful and well balanced. Arlene Nemecek, who was responsibe for set decoration, should get an orchid for her accomplishments in conjunction with Dove's touch.

Village Theatre Inc. is in its 15th season, with "Opal" adding not too juicy a cherry to the dramatic sundae. It continues to hold on to a rather lengthy patron list. Now is the time to consider more challenging comedies and a program which will prevent VT's members from "just putting on plays." This is meant as a thoroughly constructive criticism and certainly not a slur.

I'd like to see different people taking the spotlight on VT's stage, and I'd like to see a number of plays not regularly done on the suburban theatre circuit. Village Theatre's guys and gals can do it — they must want to. (Bill



THIS ULTRAMODERN LABORATORY, three miles beneath the earth's surface, plays an important part in Paramount's new Technicolor semi-science fiction thriller, "Crack in the World," opening tomorrow (Friday) at the Arlington Theatre, along with "Major Dundee," starring Charlton Heston and Jim Hutton.

Offer Lessons in Landscape Painting

An outdoor landscape painting and drawing class for high school students and adults will be sponsored this summer by Countryside Art Center.

Instructor will be George Schneider, teacher at the Chicago Art Institute.

Classes will be held for six weeks from June 16 to July 21 from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Wednesdays. Students will meet at Arlington Heights' Pioneer Park and drive to nearby locations to sketch or paint.

SCHNEIDER ALSO will teach children's classes on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Pioneer Park. These will run from June 14 to July 21.

Information may be obtained by calling Jeanne Alderson, CL 3-8542, or leaving the name at Countryside Gallery, 10 W. Miner St., Arlington Heights, between 1 and 4 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. (Bill

Paddock Days Set At Santa's Village

Paddock Publications will sponsor "Paddock Days" again this year at Santa's Village near Dundee.

Free admission to the amusement park and half price admission on all rides will be offered to guests presenting the special coupon carried in all 15 Paddock suburban newspapers.

This special offer will be in effect from Monday, June 21, through Saturday, June 26.

THERE ALSO WILL be free souvenirs and free candy canes plus a free animal show, starring Inky, the trained reindeer, and several other trained animals.

Among the attractions to be seen at Santa's Village are Santa himself in his house, Santa's reindeer barn, a domestic zoo, the Church of the Little Shepherd, Mrs. Claus' kitchen and the giant tree house slide.

The park on Route 25 and Route 72 near Dundee has plenty of picnic area and parking for 2,500 cars. It is open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. every day. (Bill

Choral Program Saturday

The public is invited to a choral concert by The UOP Choraliers at 8 p.m. Saturday in Clearmont School auditorium, Clearmont and Ridge, Elk Grove Village. Admission is free.

The Choraliers, under the direction of Anthony Mostardo, will perform a variety of classical and popular selections, including a medley from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel," "The Creation," by Willy Richter, plus several lively new arrangements of old favorites.

The accompanying pianist will be Jo Anne Kalina, a graduate of Indiana University and a resident of Rolling Meadows.

The UOP Choraliers, comprised of 25 members, is sponsored by Universal Oil Products Co. of Des Plaines. (Bill

Modern Etiquette

Q. To settle a discussion we had recently, will you please tell us just what are the prime purposes of a dinner napkin?

A. To wipe the lips before drinking from the water glass, so that the glass will not be smeared—and to wipe the fingers.

Springfield Sidelights

Assembly Swamped By Deluge of Bills

by SEN. PAUL SIMON

Springfield — so far in this session of the legislature, well over 3,000 bills have been introduced, plus about 300 resolutions — and with five weeks still to go in the session this is already a record number of proposals.

The average citizen probably has little concept of the great variety of problems which the legislature is called upon to try to solve. The index of bills introduced goes literally from "a" to "z," from "Abstractors" to "Zoning." The index to bills introduced covers almost 300 pages in the legislative digest.

PART OF THE increase in number of bills is due to population increase. As our population grows, the problems and the number of bills introduced grow also. A study of neighboring states shows that there is a direct relationship between the number of bills introduced and the population.

Part of the problem we face is also that the legislature is called upon to settle disputes between competitive groups. A good example was the recent proposal to change the laws concerned with currency exchanges. These are businesses located in certain Cook County areas which cash checks and which have the laws written in such a way that competition is discouraged, perhaps properly. Another concern has mobile check cashing units. The currency exchanges and the mobile units — largely one company — are in constant battle. And the members of the legislature are called upon to settle the dispute — even though many of us have neither kind of operation in our districts.

That is but one example of hundreds which could be given.

ANOTHER problem we face is that groups introduce legislation which perhaps could best be solved by themselves, rather than by law. An example is the bill which says that dentists cannot list their names in bold face (black) type in a telephone directory. I confess that it does not bother me to see a dentist's name in heavy print, but if the dentists don't want this, it seems to me it should be in the ethics of their profession rather than in state law.

Part of the increase for this session comes from the host of new members, many of whom have fresh ideas — a large percentage of which will be quietly defeated in committee.

The heavy load of bills makes the job of being a responsible legislator difficult, particularly since committees have no staff to examine the measures in depth, nor do each of us individually have anyone to do this.

THIS ALSO makes each session of the legislature a potentially dangerous one for every reader of this newspaper. There are literally hundreds of bills which affect each and every citizen of the state, some for good, and some not for the good.

Until the legislature establishes a more careful screening process, the citizens of the state should follow what happens in Springfield for their own protection. (FP

Modern Etiquette

Q. Just when should the formal announcement of an engagement be made?

A. It is wise, as circumstances can be uncertain, not to make this announcement more than about six months prior to the wedding, and never less than two months before. The ideal time is three or four months before the ceremony. Except in unusual circumstances, long engagements should be avoided.

Q. I see more and more people cutting their bread and rolls at the table with their knives. Is this now considered correct?

A. Not at all. Good behavior still requires that bread, rolls, and the like be broken into small pieces with the fingers, and each piece individually buttered as it is eaten.
